7-BILLION AID BILL PASSED BY SENATE, GOES TO PRESIDENT

Vote Is 67 to 9, After Two-Hour Debate—Measure to Be Sent Tomorrow by Plane to Roosevelt on Cruise.

ENOUGH FOR BRITAIN ALONE, ADAMS SAYS

Asserts More Money Must Be Appropriated 'If We Are to Maintain China, Greece and Others in Their Fight.'

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP). —The Senate passed and sent to President Roosevelt today a seven billion dollar appropriation to finance the administration's British aid program. The vote was 67 to 9.

The appropriation, already passed by the House, was approved without change. During the two-hour debate preceding the vote, many Senators who opposed the original "lease-lend" measure said they would vote for the appropriation to carry out the law.

Arrangements were made to fly the bill to the President, now cruising in southern waters.

But because the House passed the bill first, Speaker Rayburn must sign it before Vice-President Wallace affixes his signature. The House hod adjourned for the day when the bill was passed by the Senate, and Rayburn's signature thus will be delayed until tomorrow. This will mean a day's delay in sending the legislation to Roosevelt for signing into law.

Among the "lease-lend" opponents who voted for the appropriation bill were Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, and Brooks (Rep.), Illinois.

"Dies Cast," Says Vandenberg.

"Whether we like it or not," Vandenberg told the Senate, "the die is cast. We are confronted with a condition, not a theory.

"If there is a chance of keeping out of war under this theory of intervention it lies in swiftly and boldly proceeding in giving aid to our quasi-allies.

"I hope the managers of this program succeed in keeping us out of war, but if they fail I want to be no part of their excuse."

Brooks told the Senate he would vote for the appropriation "on the express promise of the administration leaders that this is a peace bill and will keep war away from our shore."

Taft Asks About Source of Cash.

Senator Taft (Rep.), Ohio, asked whether the Appropriations Committee had inquired "whether we have the money for this bill or where it is coming from," and Adams replied:

"Some members of the committee have thought about that. In this bil lwe have the same ironical statement that we always use—that we are "appropriating funds! rom the Treasury not otherwise appro-

U. S. VIRTUALLY AT WAR, MUSSOLINI PAPER SAYS; WARNING ON CONVOYS

MILAN, Italy, March 24 (AP). —LUIGI BARZINI, political commentator of Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia, declared yesterday "America is virtually at war, and added that the convoying of supplies to England probably would be the last straw to break Axis patience.

Asserting President Roosevelt could not put the United States directly into the war because of American public opinion, Barzini said the President was seeking to bring about American entry by forcing the Axis to declare war.

TOKYO, March 24 (AP). — Entry of the United States into the war is inevitable and may come in May or June, the newspapers Asahi and Yomiuri said today. At that time the German offensive in Europe will reach its peak, they said.

Yomiuri said the United States would find it necessary to convoy supplies to Britain and the ships would be caught in the German blockade.

STEPFATHER KILLS GIRL, ENDS OWN LIFE

Two Had Quarreled Bitterly —Wife Finds Bodies, Both Shot in Head.

A series of bitter quarrels between Fred Renier, shell-shocked war veteran, and his 18-year-old stepdaughter, Gwendolyn, over her insistence on "living her own life," culminated yesterday in the fatal shooting of the two in living quarters in back of his locksmith shop at 4058 Easton avenue. Police said Renier apparently had shot the girl, then taken his own life.

The bodies were found by Mrs. Gertrud Renier, Gwendolyn's mother, on her return from a Grand boulevard movie theater with her son, Harry, 13, at 5 p. m.

Mrs. Renier ran to the nearby corner of Sarah street and Easton avenue and notified Patrolman Frank Bauer, who found the bodies lying on the floor of a rear bedroom, about a foot apart. Both had bullet wounds of the left temple and Miss Renier's jaw was broken and the cheek cut. Renier's wound was powder-burned. An automatic pistol was near Renier's feet.

The only evidence of a struggle was an overturned coal bucket near a stove. Renier was wearing overalls, the girl a pink dress. Her shoes and lef' stocking were off.

Had Moved From Home.

Mrs. Renier told a Post-Dispatch reporter her daughter had been rooming at 5157 Washington boulevard since Renier locked Gwendolyn out of the house six weeks ago when she returned at 12:30 a. m. from a date after being told to be in by midnight. The two quarreled violently and the girl, before leaving, asserted, "I'm 18 now and can live my own life," Mrs. Renier said.

Renier, ordinarily rather nervous and irritable because of his war injuries—he also was gassed—had been particularly upset since the girl left and had urged her repeatedly to return, Mrs. Renier said.

Gwendolyn visited the family fre-

NLRB SUBPENAS HENRY FORD AND SON TO HEARING

COMPANY CHARGES REDS CONTROL UNION

Some Labor Board Officials Also Accused of Conspiring for 'Subversion of Defense Program.'

DETROIT, March 24 (AP). — Subpenas for the appearance of Henry Ford, founder of the Ford Motor Co., and his son, Edsel Ford, company president, were signed this afternoon by a National Labor Relations Board trial examiner hearing a petition for an employe election at two Ford plants.

The subpenas were issued over the protest of I. A. Capizzi, attorney for the company, who earlier had charged CIO leaders and some NLRB officials had conspired for "subversion of the defense program."

Capizzi objected that Henry Ford was not an officer of the company and that there was no issue requiring Edsel Ford's testimony.

Maurice Sugar, counsel for the United Automobile Workers (CIO), the union which petitioned for the elections, said he wished Edsel Ford's testimony to show the "relation of the Ford company and the Lincoln company with respect to ownership," and Henry Ford's testimony to show "integration of operations" to make the Rouge and Lincoln plants appropriate collective bargaining units.

Sugar also asked a subpena for Harry H. Bennett, Ford personnel director, saying Bennett would be able to show classification of employes and the voting eligibility of employes who have been laid off.

The request for the subpenas came a few minutes after Capizzi had refused to concede on the record that the Ford Co. was engaged in interstate commerce, and had stated the company would refuse to "co-operate with the board" in producing certain witnesses until his motion to dismiss the UAW-CIO petition was decided.

The Ford charges against the CIO alleged that Communists control the UAW-CIO.

BOY, 4, TRAPPED THREE DAYS IN BOMB-WRECKED HOME

Child Found Huddled in Cupboard So Terrified He Is Unable to Talk.

LONDON, March 24 (AP). — A 4-year-old boy who was trapped for three days in his bomb-wrecked home was recovering today in a hospital but so terrified he could not talk of his experience.

His parents were killed when a bomb demolished a block of flats. Workers clearing up the debris hastened their work after hearing a faint cry. Finally they unearthed a cupboard and within it, unhurt, the boy.

AFL GOES THROUGH CIO LINES AT HARVESTER PLANT

Strikers Assert 'No One Will Walk Into Factory Tomorrow'— Plan Mass Mobilization.

TO BE REINFORCED BY 15,000 MEN

'Time Chicago Administration Learned Labor Can't Be Pushed Around,' Statement Says.

By the Associated Press.

Under the protection of a court injunction and 700 policemen, American Federation of Labor workers entered the McCormick Works of the International Harvester Co., in Chicago today while rival, striking CIO men heckled them. According to the AFL officers about 3000 men went through the gates for the 7 a. m. shift where the CIO Farm Equipment Workers Organizing Committee went on strike Feb. 28. The strike had closed the plant.

Signs of trouble, however, were ahead. The FEWOC issued this statement in the name of Robert Travis, field representative:

"No one will walk into the McCormick plant tomorrow. We are sending a call today to every CIO local in Cook County (Chicago) and Lake County, Ind. (the steel mill area), having union contracts to immediately make arrangements for plant holidays so that they can join us at 5 a. m. tomorrow for a mass mobilization. . . .

It's about time the Chicago city administration learned that organized labor cannot be pushed around."

To Muster 15,000.

Another FEWOC spokesman declared the union and its affiliates would have "from 15,000 to 60,000" men at the works tomorrow morning. The CIO group said that if the men who entered the plant only 800 were actually workers.

After the shift went to work today, the FEWOC men rallied at their headquarters, then began a parade around the plant which tangled traffic, but was not interfered with by police. One organizer estimated there were 3000 in the parade line of march.

Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed police, and a supervising captain said the the patrolmen who surrounded the plant and patroled the vicinity made up the biggest concentration of police strength they could recall in Chicago.

Capt. Stege said the only reported untoward incident other than heckling was the slashing of tires on an automobile belonging to an AFL steward.

Court Injunction.

A Superior Court injunction issued Saturday enjoined the strikers from mass picketing and limited pickets to 10 at a gate. The pickets, the police said, were brushed aside by the marching AFL workers.

However, in the streets near the plant and especially around AFL headquarters hundreds of men and women wearing CIO buttons kept up a continual oral harassment of the AFL men.

Patrolmen were stationed only three feet apart nearly all around the plant and others were spread through the neighborhood.

The FEWOC strike demands included elimination of piecework, increase in minimum hourly pay and recognition of the FEWOC as bargaining agent. The company called the demands unreasonable. The AFL, since the strike began, chartered a Federal union at the works, claimed a majority membership and demanded that the company be open.

There is no recognized bargaining agency at McCormick works since the National Labor Relations Board on Feb. 8 ordered disestablishment of an independent union. The AFL, however, has petitioned the NLRB for a plant election.

In another defense industry, the one with the biggest of all defense orders—the Bethlehem Steel Co., a threatened strike at the Bethlehem (Pa.) plant had not materialized today.

The first shift of members of the CIO steel workers' union reported for work but Howard Curtis, district director of the union, said they were instructed to walk out if an attempt is made to put ballot boxes in the plant for an election of officers of the Employes' Rep-

HELEN STEVENS (left), nurse from Dunnville, Ont., and CONSTANCE HUNGATE (right, captain of the chorus girls at London's Cafe de Paris, pitched in and helped administer first aid to the injured after Nazi bombers scored a direct hit on the crowded night club on March 8. Miss Stevens used tablecloths for bandages and champagne for antiseptic. "I did only what any Canadian nurse would be proud to do," she said after the raid. The cafe owner, the band leader and four officers on leave were killed and many persons injured.

CAPITAL OF REICH, HANOVER AND KIEL RAIDED BY R. A. F.

Naval Base in Holland Also Attacked — Nazi Troops on Parade in France Machine-Gunned.

LONDON, March 24 (AP).—More than 10,000 incendiary bombs as well as many high explosives were dropped on Berlin by the Royal Air Force last night, it was reported officially today.

Several Polish airmen took part in the attack. Despite the number of bombs employed, the raid was said to have been less intense than the big raid on the German capital of March 12.

Hanover and Kiel, in Northwestern Germany, and Den Helder, naval base in The Netherlands, also were attacked, and large explosions were observed at Hanover, the British said.

Bremen, Emden Raided.

Bremen, Emden and the French port of Calais also were heavily attacked, the Air Ministry news service reported.

At Calais the docks were raided and at Den Helder many fires were reported as a result of the attack described as "on a small scale but an unqualified success."

(Berlin reports said most of the raiders aiming at Berlin were checked at the outskirts, but some penetrated to the center of the city, bombing from great height. Civilian casualties were reported, but the Germans said only residential districts were hit. A German radio broadcast said fire bombs fell on Berlin's diplomatic quarter.)

Nazi Parade Interrupted.

An aerial machine-gun attack on German soldiers parading before breakfast outside barracks near Cherbourg was reported by British flyers returning today from a raid on the French coast.

"After bombing the docks at Cherbourg this morning," the Air Ministry news service said, "a coastal command Blenheim dived and dealt effectively with light gun positions on the outer mole.

"Diving further to 100 feet, the aircraft found the main street of Barfleur, near Cherbourg, occupied by German troops on a pre-breakfast parade outside their barracks blocks. They were heavily machine-gunned."

German guns fired across Dover Strait at irregular intervals yesterday afternoon and evening for the first time in several weeks.

This morning, a flight of Mes-

Four-Motor Bomber Flown To Britain in Record Time

First Consolidated B-24 Crosses Atlantic in 7 1-2 Hours—Flying Fortresses Also Apparently Being Ferried Over.

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN
The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Cable. Copyright, 1941.

LONDON, March 24.—While German bombers were pounding at British cities last week, the first of the American four-motor bombers ordered for the Royal Air Force, roared into a British airport after completing the fastest flight ever made across the Atlantic.

It was a Consolidated B-24, otherwise known as Liberator, and its time was almost exactly 7½ hours. With a top speed of about 325 miles per hour and a range of above 3000 miles, the big ship reeled off this performance without the slightest difficulty. Amelia Earhart crossed from Newfoundland to Ireland in 12½ hours in 1932.

The Liberator was piloted across by an R. A. F. officer, who was unaccustomed to its peculiarities, and its performance was perfect.

26 of Ships Ordered.

Twenty-six ships have been ordered for the R. A. F. and at least six of them are expected to be used in transporting trans-Atlantic ferry pilots back to America after they have delivered bombers to England. Others, presumably, will be used in long-range bombing

12 MOROS DIG OWN GRAVES, CHALLENGE TROOPS, ARE KILLED

Thirteenth, a Woman, Seriously Hurt in Fight—Two in Band Murdering Merchant.

MANILA, March 24 (AP). — Twelve Moros who dug their own graves in the jungle, then garbed themselves in white for burial under Mohammedan rites and challenged Philippine constabulary soldiers to a fight, were killed on Jolo Island Sunday in the ensuing battle.

A thirteenth member of the band, a woman, was wounded seriously.

Two of the Moros killed were members of a band which murdered a Chinese merchant last Friday, then collected their relatives and followers in the jungle and sent the challenge to the soldiers to "come and get us."

YUGOSLAV TIEUP WITH AXIS WILL NOT BE CONDONED ENGLISH ASSERT

Note Delivered as Premier Prepares to Leave for Vienna to Sign Pact—Stern Measures Taken to Preserve Order.

LONDON, March 24 (AP). — A Reuters (British news agency) report from Belgrade today said an important movement of German troops in the Struma River Valley was under way through Bulgaria toward the Greek frontier. Large formations have been seen advancing rapidly southward since yesterday afternoon, the dispatch said.

Authoritative London quarters summed up the Yugoslav situation as "serious" and said developments there did not look cheerful from the British viewpoint.

BELGRADE, March 24 (AP).— Britain, in a "third and final representation," warned Yugoslavia tonight that it was "deluding" itself if it believed that joining the Axis "will be condoned" by the British Government."

The note, referring to British-Yugoslav friendship, sealed as allies in the World War, expressed "astonishment" at Yugoslavia's "drastic change from the long-established policy of strict neutrality."

The British Minister, Ronald Ian Campbell, delivered the note to Foreign Minister Aleksander Cincar-Markovic as the Belgrade Government prepared to accept a junior membership in the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo military alliance.

Whether the warning contained any allusion to possible British retaliation could not be learned officially, but diplomats expressed belief that it pointed to British action, as threatened in the case of now German-occupied Rumania and Bulgaria. The British had declared that hose countries would become liable to bombing attacks.

Warning Also by Greece.

Authoritative diplomatic circ reported Greece also had wa Belgrade that granting of pe sion to Germany to transpor materials and wounded sold across Yugoslavia would be cons ered a "hostile act."

All set to adhere to the Axis pact, the Yugoslav Government ordered stern military and police measures to cope with any outbreak when the agreement is signed.

A special train got up steam to carry Yugoslav emissaries to Vienna tonight, following patching up of the Cabinet crisis.

Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic

Major Spoke Abusively of Bride After Earl's Funeral, Witness Says

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, March 24 (AP).—Lady Carbery testified today in hearings on murder charges against Maj. Sir Henry John Delves Broughton that dinner company on the night before the death of the Earl of Erroll had toasted him and Lady Broughton in champagne.

A statement by the 57-year-old baronet, charged with murder of Erroll, previously acknowledged that he had watched philosophically as a love affair developed between his bride and the 39-year-old widowed Earl.

Lady Carbery, wife of Baron Carbery of Pebble Beach, Cal., and Kenya Colony, testified she had been a close friend of the Broughtons for months. On the night before the Earl was found shot to death in his automobile, Maj. Broughton appeared unhappy and told her he had been "extraordinarily lonely" in his three months of marriage.

The next day, she said, after Lady Broughton had told her Erroll was killed in an automobile accident (as was at first reported), she lunchen with Broughton at his home. She testified he broke down and wept.

John Butcher, a mechanic, said he had examined the automobile and found it out of gear in a pit into which it appeared to have run at about 10 miles an hour. A blood-soaked cigarette butt was found near the accelerator, he said. Earlier testimony had established that Maj. Broughton smoked but that the Earl did not.

Lady Delamere, mayoress of Nairomi, said she attended the Earl's funeral in her official capacity but had refused a request by Maj. Broughton that she drop a farewell message from his wife into the grave.

At lunch with him later, she said, he referred in "most abusive terms" to his wife, saying he would go abroad but did not want her with him, and spoke affectionately of his former wife.

Brinkley, Goat Gland Specialist, Faces Creditors Seeking $1,625,565

DEL RIO, Tex., March 24 (AP). —Dr. John Richard Brinkley, the one-time goat-gland specialist and politician, in a Federal Court bankruptcy hearing today faced creditors who claim he owes $1,625,565.

Unsecured claims total $1,214,121. They run from a $2.50 linen bill to unpaid Federal income taxes.

The Government claims the man who once rode in yachts, 16-cylinder automobiles and private planes, owes $113,300 on income taxes.

Dr. Brinkley, whose license to practice medicine was revoked by Kansas several years ago after he started radio advertising from his Milford (Kan.) home, told the story of his financial collapse in a statement filed with the bankruptcy court.

The doctor listed personal property totaling $46,845. His petition said he conducted farming operations at a loss in North Carolina; entered the lumber business at Del Rio; owned part of a Texas loan company; owned oil leases; engaged in gold-mining ventures in Arizona; operated radio stations, including a 500,000-watt station in Mexico; dabbled in advertising with aircraft organizations; was a stockholder in an international advertising agency; served as technician in an advertising corporation.

He once owned a yacht that had belonged to the late Douglas Fairbanks Sr., but sold it to the United States Navy for $110,000 to help pay off a $75,000 mortgage.

The private airplane he used for traveling went the way of the yacht —for $42,000 to the British Purchasing Commission.

Total assets were listed at $221,-064.95.

3,000,000 MORE DEFENSE JOBS BY FALL PREDICTED

Knudsen Tells Senate Committee 2,000,000 Have Been Employed Under Program Since September

$2,700,000,000 SPENT BY BRITAIN IN U. S.

Gen. Marshall Says Future Buying for England Will Be Done by This Nation Under Lease-Lend Plan.

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP).—William S. Knudsen estimates an additional 3,000,000 men will be employed in defense industries by the end of summer.

In testimony made public today by the Senate Appropriations Committee, the Office of Production Management director also said 2,000,000 men had obtained jobs under the defense program since September.

More than half of the 3,000,000 men, he said, would be unskilled workers.

In response to questions, Knudsen said it would be necessary to curtail the flow of materials to some non-defense factories as the defense program expands. But, he said, there is no intention of shutting down non-defense plants until new defense plants are ready to provide employment.

Another witness before the committee, Budget Director Harold D. Smith, testified Britain had spent or obligated $2,700,000,000 for defense equipment in the United States up to Jan. 1.

U. S. to Pick Up Load.

"This would mean," Senator Adams (Dem.), Colorado, remarked, "that the British spending would stop at $2,700,000,000 and we would pick up the load and add $7,000,000,000."

Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, told the committee that all future buying for Britain would be done by this Government under the lease-lend program. This, he said, would make procurement of defense articles more expeditious and efficient.

Senator Byrnes (Dem.), South Carolina, asked at one point what effect the lease-lend program would have upon Latin-American nations.

"They are looking at this with a great deal of interest from two points of view," Gen. Marshall replied. "One is they are hopeful that they can obtain some munitions as we get the larger program under way. The other is that they accept this as a definite indication that we mean business."

Aid for Greeks in Bill.

The committee learned from Secretary of War Stimson that needs of other nations, "notably the Greek Government," were included when the seven-billion-dollar total of the bill was calculated.

Stimson testified that 95 per cent of the weapons and munitions to be purchased under the bill were of a kind which could be used by the United States "in case we were ever left alone to defend the Western Hemisphere."

Standardization of British and American armaments, Stimson added, had resulted in acquisition by this country of a number of British inventions, such as a new type of revolving turret for planes and tanks.

In response to assertions by some members that defense contracts had not been distributed equitably among various localities, Stimson pledged every effort to "decentralize" the defense program so far as possible.

Asked About Statement.

Sentor O'Mahoney (Dem.), Wyoming, asked Stimson about a statement by Chester Davis of the National Defense Advisory Council that contracts amounting to $7,500,000,000 had been let between June 1, 1940, and Feb. 1, 1941, and that from 40 to 45 per cent of these contracts had been given to six groups and their affiliates.

Eighty per cent, O'Mahoney quoted Davis as saying, had gone to 62 corporations and their affiliates.

"Now if that is correct," O'Mahoney declared, "that is a striking illustration of concentration that cannot be in the public interest."

"I do not think it is correct, sir," Stimson answered. He then discussed the subject off the record.

Later, Secretary of the Navy Knox told the committee that the summary made by Davis was "so general that it leaves only half of the truth told" because it did not take into account the fact that major contracts had been divided among subcontractors in all parts of the country.

AFL's March Into Harvester Plant

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

ABOUT 3000 union men entered the strike-bound Chicago factory as CIO strikers heckled them. An injunction and 700 policemen protected the men as they marched into the plant.

resentative Plan. This is a company union, according to the CIO.

Curtis, John V. Riffe, assistant district SWOC representative, and other union officers stood by the gates as about 6000 employes reported for work.

The company holds defense contracts estimated at more than one billion dollars and is erecting an addition to its huge plant here.

There seemed to be some question whether the elections were actually under way. A spokesman for the E. R. P. said the election had begun, but CIO men said they had been unable to locate voting in any of the 68 departments. A CIO leader said that if they found the voting was in progress "our men will walk out at once."

Other Labor Developments.

Other important labor developments:

DETROIT — Production at the Ford Motor Co.'s Lincoln plant was shut down this morning because of a shortage of automobile frames supplied by the strike-bound Midland Steel Products Co. plant.

Company officers said approximately 3300 Lincoln employes were made idle, but an additional 500 workers reported for maintenance jobs and assignments on defense products.

LOS ANGELES—A small strike which for 10 days has cast a large shadow on defense ended today. Union representatives and officers of the Harvill die-casting plant reached an agreement last night. The strike threatened to halt or delay production at the eight principal aircraft factories of the West Coast, where Harvill parts are essential to production.

There was no announcement as to who won the strike, which affected 425 workers. Thomas F. Burns and Paul Shoup of the Office of Production Management said: "The management and the union have already reached full agreement on virtually all points, including wages. It provides for the immediate termination of the strike and for conferences to complete the agreement."

BRIDGEVILLE, PA.—CIO President Philip Murray intervened in the five-week strike at the Vanadium Corporation of America, which has halted defense production of ferro-vanadium. His action followed by 18 hours a conference with William S. Knudsen, director of the Office of Production Management.

Murray summoned a strikers' committee to a meeting. The strikers have defied requests by the CIO sub-regional director to end the walkout. Earlier it was disclosed Knudsen and Murray discussed "the labor situation in general" in an unheralded conference here yesterday.

ITALIANS BOMB GREEK PORTS; LOCAL FIGHTING IN ALBANIA

Rome Reports Planes Also Attacked Enemy Positions and Barracks.

ROME, March 24 (AP).—The Italian high command said today there was "nothing noteworthy to report" on the Greek front. Italian planes were reported to have bombed the port of Preveza, "enemy shipping" in the port of Lixouri and "enemy positions and barracks on the front of the eleventh army."

Three British planes were shot down in attacks on Italian positions in the Devol River Valley, the communique said.

CAIRO, Egypt, March 24 (AP).—The British air force reported attack yesterday on an Italian airdrome at Berati and a troop encampment near Tepeleni in Albania.

Two Italian fighting planes were reported shot down over Albania and four were destroyed on the ground.

Nazis Say Battleships Stood Off British Men o' War in Convoy Raid

U-Boats Darted In and Out, Sank 22 Merchantmen as Escort Vessels Looked on Helplessly, Witnesses Relate.

BERLIN, March 24.—A German account of the stalking of a British convoy through the North and South Atlantic and the sinking of 22 merchantmen totaling 126,000 tons by battleship-protected Nazi submarines was related today by eyewitnesses who said they saw the attacks last week. A previous official announcement reported 116,000 tons were sunk.

"A cat and mouse drama on a sub-tropic, mid-Atlantic stage," was the way the beginning of the assaults was described by the eyewitnesses, with six British ships aggregating 51,000 tons reported accounted for over a two-day period. Then, according to the German picture, 16 more steamers totaling 75,000 tons were picked off one by one on another "lucky day" in the North Atlantic.

Observer Aboard Battleship.

The series of attacks, in which the German surface flotilla was reported to have stood off British men of war shepherding the convoy while U-boats darted in to fire their torpedoes, were hailed as probably the first success by cooperation of battleships and U-boats in ocean warfare.

One witness, who was aboard a Nazi battleship, said that when the Nazi flotilla commanded by Fleet Admiral Guenther Luetjens approached the British convoy "we sighted enemy fighting craft including a battleship of the Malaya class."

"Then the game started," he related. "For two days, time and again we felt each other out, only to separate again.

"No Inclination to Fight."

"Numerous times the (British) battleship aimed 38 centimeter (14.96-inch) guns at us. But the cannon were silent. She showed no inclination to fight.

"A plane from aboard our opponent went aloft to size up the situation, remaining at a respectful distance from us, discernible around the cloud rims for only 20 or 30 seconds at a time.

"The idea was that his enemy was supposed to make some mistake. We knew better. The convoy, which was proceeding north of this area, quickly learned to its surprise that our battleships were not alone.

"U-boats sank 33,000 tons out of the convoy during the night, and the next day added 10,000 tons. In the meantime, during our game with the enemy, we sank an 8000-ton freighter."

Nazi Warships Unidentified.

The German surface units which participated in the attacks were not identified.

(The British battleship, the Malaya, listed in Jane's Fighting Ships as one of the Queen Elizabeth class, is a 31,100-ton vessel armed with eight 15-inch guns and 12 six-inch guns. British sources have said the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau, 26,000-ton sister ships carrying nine 11-inch guns and 12 guns of slightly less than six inches as their heaviest weapons, participated in the attack on the convoy.)

The German witness said "our job was not to look for fights but to disturb shipping and distract enemy fighting craft from other tasks," and added: "We were delighted that our first appearance probably put the whole British fleet in motion."

An account of the Atlantic operations given by DNB, official German news agency, said one British freighter gave a radio signal, "R," the warning to fighting ships of the presence of raiders, thus inviting destruction and loss of life. It was explained that sea war regulations outlined by the Germans barred the use of the radio under such circumstances.

DNB quoted some of 800 survivors said to have been rescued from ships that were sunk as saying the vessels were loaded with "extremely valuable war material," including airplane parts and munitions.

GERMANS REPORT SINKING 50,000 TONS IN ONE DAY, MOSTLY IN THE ATLANTIC

BERLIN, March 24 (AP).

AUTHORIZED Germans said today 50,000 to 60,000 tons of British shipping had been sunk yesterday.

A submarine in the North Atlantic which reported three tankers among its victims, was credited with 27,000 tons. The German high command also told of the sinking of the ships in the Atlantic and said another "was observed in a sinking condition" after an aerial attack on two 6000-ton British vessels in the Mediterranean south of the Greek island of Crete.

An armed merchantman of 6000 tons was said to have been "subdued in a dive attack" near the Shetland islands northeast of Scotland, and the communique also reported two smaller ships, totaling about 2500 tons, as victims of Nazi reconnaissance planes off the Orkneys and Faroe islands in the North Atlantic.

TWO U. S. AREAS IN PACIFIC CLOSED TO FOREIGN SHIPPING

President Establishes Naval Defense Zones in Alaska and Philippines.

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP).—Two new naval defense areas in the Pacific in which foreign shipping will be barred were established by President Roosevelt today.

In executive orders issued at the White House, the President defined an area in Subic Bay, Philippine Islands, and at Kodiak Island, Alaska, as defense territories in which foreign ships will be allowed to enter only on express authority of the Secretary of the Navy. The two orders are effective after 90 days.

U. S., CANADA SIGN GREAT LAKES NAVY BUILDING ACCORD

Agreement Permits Construction and Arming of Warships at Inland Ports —In Negotiation 2 Years.

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP).—The United States announced today an agreement with Canada which permits both nations to build and arm vessels in Great Lakes shipbuilding plants.

Climaxing negotiations in progress for nearly two years, the two countries agreed on a new interpretation of the Rush-Bagot agreement of 1817 governing naval operations an armaments in the Great Lakes area.

The agreement followed a new accord sent to Congress last week for an immediate start on the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway and power development.

This was urged as an immediate defense project to provide additional hydo-electric power and open the Great Lakes shipbuilding facilities for construction of both naval and cargo ocean-going craft.

Under the new shipbuilding arrangement, warships may be built in the Great Lakes area with full armaments, but the latter must be placed "in such condition as to be incapable of immediate use while the vessels remain in the Great Lakes."

Terms of Agreement.

These four conditions were laid down in the agreement for all naval construction in that area:

1. Vessels are not intended for service on the Great Lakes.

2. Prior to commencement of construction, each Government must furnish the other with full information concerning any vessel to be constructed at Great Lakes ports.

3. The armaments of the vessels must be placed in such condition as to be incapable of immediate use while the vessels remain in the Great Lakes.

4. The vessels must be removed promptly from the Great Lakes on completion.

Would Relieve Congestion.

In broadening the more than century-old agreement to permit construction and arming of naval vessels in the Great Lakes area, the Canadian Government pointed out the desirability of equipping the vessels with armaments while in Great Lakes yards because of congestion in Atlantic seaboard shipyards.

Canada declared it was desirable to have the vessels "in the most complete form practicable while still on the Great Lakes," explaining that this might involve "equipment with gun mounts and with guns which would be so dismantled as to be incapable of immediate use so long as the vessels remained in the Great Lakes."

The two Governments decided that, instead of revising the 1817 agreement, they would broaden it to meet special problems through concurrence in interpretaiton.

The State Department in announcing the agreement released an exchange of correspondence between the two governments dating back to June 9, 1939.

In Washington Secretary of the Navy Knox said that "In my opinion" the movements of British vessels coming to the United States for repair or reconditioning "should not be reported, photographed or broadcast."

RUSSIA REPORTED BARRING OIL TO REICH, PROMISING WAR SUPPLIES TO TURKS

Moscow Said to Have Cut Off Fuel Shipments on Day German Troops Entered Bulgaria.

BELGRADE, March 24 (AP).—High diplomatic quarters said tonight that Soviet Russia, bound to Germany by non-aggression and commercial accords, had forbidden export of oil to the Reich since March 1, the day Bulgaria joined the Axis and German troops poured onto Bulgarian soil.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, March 24 (AP).—An unofficial but reliable source said today that Turkey and Soviet Russia would publish simultaneously at midnight tonight a "common declaration of friendship."

This declaration, it was said, will mean Russian aid for Turkey "by every means short of war" if it is attacked by Germany.

The declaration, it was said, will contain these three points:

1. Denial of "rumors spread abroad that if Turkey enters the war, Russia will stab her in the back";

2. Assurance that if Turkey is obliged to fight, Russia will maintain "benevolent neutrality toward her";

3. Reciprocal Turkish assurances to the Soviet.

According to this information, it will be based on the Turkish-Russian non-aggression pact of 1926.

BRITISH CRUISER COMING TO U. S.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 24 (AP).—The Baltimore Sun said today that authoritative sources reported a British warship heading toward the Norfolk (Va.) navy yards for repairs.

The paper said these sources did not disclose the name of the ship, but classed it as a heavy cruiser drawing too much water to be handled at shipyards here.

One official at the Norfolk yards said, when informed of the report, that he had no confirmation of such arrangements.

The first report of a British warship near American waters came last night in a radio broadcast from Rome.

It said a "10,000-ton British destroyer" named the London had been towed into the American port of Chester "badly in need of repairs" as a result of a clash with a German submarine. No other details were given.

FOUR-MOTOR BOMBER FLOWN TO BRITAIN IN RECORD TIME

operations, or in chasing Germany's potent Fockewulf four-motor commerce raiders.

The air correspondent of the authoritative Press Association said it "might be assumed that four-engined Boeing B-17s also are arriving in this country from America."

The important thing for the R. A. F. is to get delivery of as many heavy American bombers as possible during the next few months. Both consolidated Liberators and Boeing B-17 Flying Fortresses are essential to heavy counter-attacks on Germany. Although the number delivered is not revealed by the British, American reports, presumably accurate, indicate that there are not enough here yet to bomb a good-sized village properly.

Beaverbrook Answers Critics.

In a broadcast yesterday, Aircraft Production Minister Lord Beaverbrook answered his numerous and spirited critics by describing the accomplishments of his ministry in the last nine months. He stressed the fact that the ministry experts put six new types of aircraft into operation during that period: The Fulmar, the Whirlwind, the Beaurighter, the Stirling, the Halifax and the Manchester.

He also paid formal tribute to his technical staff, with whom he is reported to have had some differences. He particularly stressed the importance of Britain's newest and most powerful aircraft engine, the 2000-horsepower Napier Sabre. The existence of this engine was first reported to Americans by Leonard Engels, who was severely criticised at the time for allegedly giving away inside information.

The Sabre is a liquid-cooled engine which, in common with most Napier engines, is light and compact. It was announced in the House of Commons on March 11 that it is less than six feet long.

The suggestion was made last fall that it should be manufactured in the United States which itself lacks a liquid-cooled engine of such power. The only thing like it is the twin Allison, which is understood to be still full of "bugs." At the time that the suggestion was first made an agreement could not be reached.

BRITISH RESERVES REPORTED GROWING

By EDWIN STOUT

LONDON, March 24 (AP).—Secreted in "storage houses distributed everywhere" are the greatest reserves of bombers and fighters in history, Lord Beaverbrook said in his speech yesterday.

He called it a "record surpassing anything that has gone before, anything in the history of aviation," and added that "this applies to fighters and bombers alike. Both types have reached the highest total in our history."

Although the numbers of British planes are a closely guarded secret, headlines in the Sunday Chronicle proclaimed that Britain now is producing 3200 of all types each month and that its production peak has not yet been reached.

Beaverbrook Lists Gains.

Beaverbrook told the nation the tally of reserves was made last Wednesday and disclosed these technical gains in aviation:

1. In the race for altitude, British scientists have "watched Hurricane and Spitfire (fighters) being lifted up and up until now these airplanes ride high, wide and handsome."

2. Two new planes "at this moment are passing from the development stage to production" and behind these are several other new types.

3. Five new motors "have been brought from experiment to manufacture in nine months."

CRUISER, 5 SHIPS AT MALTA HIT BY BOMBS, NAZIS SAY

Germans Also Report Planes Crippled Vessel South of Crete and Another Near Cyprus.

BERLIN, March 24 (AP).—Dive-bomber units carried out two attacks yesterday on the harbor of Valletta, Malta, scoring "three heavy direct hits on a British light cruiser" and hitting "five big freighters and passenger ships," as well as destroying port facilities and an oil supply depot, a German communique said today.

German and Italian fighter planes guarding the bombers shot down four British Hurricanes in air fights, the Nazis announced.

German press dispatches yesterday, reporting one attack on Malta, said a cruiser and one big passenger ship had been hit and that no British fighter planes were encountered, although the raiders ran into heavy anti-aircraft fire.

In two attacks on Malta Saturday, said the Germans, hits were scored on ships and anti-aircraft positions and seven British fighter planes were shot down.

Gasoline supplies were said to have been set afire and troop concentrations bombed in Nazi air attacks in North Africa.

South of Crete, the communique said, "German combat planes engaged a strongly protected convoy. Planes scored two hits amidships on one vessel of 6000 tons, whereupon the ship stopped and burst into flames."

"Two further ships in this convoy were damaged. A merchantman of 5000 tons southwest of Cyprus was so severely damaged by German planes that her loss is counted upon."

BECKER ADVISES QUICK LOOK AT 'DIRTY STREETS'

Urges Haste, He Says, Because There May Be Temporary Cleanup Before Election.

'NO JOB PROMISE TO MAN OR WOMAN'

'Mayor Dickmann Good in Some Things, Worst in Others' — 'No Gully Owen on My Side.'

Former Judge William Dee Becker, Republican nominee for Mayor, in a radio address last evening, attacked Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann's administration for the condition of the streets, but said a temporary cleanup might occur before the election April 1.

"As you drive about," Judge Becker said, "notice the condition of our streets. Have a look at the gutters, too. Such filth in a metropolitan city is without excuse. It can be explained only by the fact that, like so many city departments, the department charged with keeping our streets clean can consistently slight the work we pay taxes for, so long as it doesn't slight in any degree the political work to which the machine assigns it.

"But I'd advise you to make your survey of these dirty streets quickly. I've noticed lately the machine administration is getting very quick to remedy some of the conditions we have called your attention to in this campaign. Perhaps, if this campaign has done nothing else to date, it at least has applied heat where it will do the most good in getting us a city merit system, subject to your decision at the polls in a special election next fall. Maybe it also will get us a few clean streets now!"

Denies Promise of Jobs.

Judge Becker took occasion to deny that he had promised allotments of jobs to Republican party workers in the event of his election. He said:

"Regardless of distortion of my words by the opposition, now desperately grabbing at straws, I say to you in all sincerity, I have promised no job to any man or woman, any group or faction. If you choose to replace this machine administration with the one I shall head, I will enter the office of Mayor with free hands and clean hands.

"Many people are behind the cause for which I stand. I regret that the opposition has chosen to try and divert attention from the basic issue of the machine versus the people by attacking them instead of me. But to not one of those people—and they include people on relief as well as those well endowed with this worlds goods—have I made or will I make a pledge to do anything in the way of personal preference. The interests of St. Louis will come first with me as Mayor—just as the interests of Missouri come first with Forrest Donnell as Governor.

"Yes, many believe in this cause as I do—and are striving for my election. I am proud of their support, for they are decent, honorable people. No Gully Owen or Bev Brown support is on my side. That I know. And I don't want any of it."

The speaker differentiated between two classes of the Mayor's supporters. Some, he said, failed to grasp the importance of the issue of machine rule. Such he respected, and hoped to persuade of their error. But for those "who are fighting on the side of the machine with full knowledge of its rottenness, its ruthlessness, its contempt for the will of the people," he said, "I want to count them among my enemies."

"I've raised a family in St. Louis," he continued. "I expect to be here the rest of my days, and I'd like to have it the kind of city in which you and I might take increasing pride. We will not have that pride if we allow a machine here to tread the way that Pendergastism trod in Kansas City. And that's the reason—the whole reason—I am in this fight.

On the Mayor's Record.

"Mayor Dickmann has been a good Mayor in some things—and the worst Mayor St. Louis ever had in others. He says he is standing on his record. To me, as to you, that must mean the whole record. And when you mix the bad with the good, it is not a record on which we can look back with very much satisfaction. But what troubles me even more—the record is getting consistently worse. And its continuation through another four years may well make it the blackest record in all our history.

"The vote frauds of 1936 might have been partially condoned by some with the thought that they were committed in what my opponent thought a good purpose, although that is no excuse at all. The indiscriminate firing of everyone who dared oppose the machine's will might have been put down to sheer political exuberance. But when, one after another, offenses against civic morals and governmental ethics pile up, to be climaxed in the shocking attempt to scrap the highest law of our State and put across a man as Governor whom the people had not elected—then the record builds up into some-

But when, one after another, offenses against civic morals and governmental ethics pile up, to be climaxed in the shocking attempt to scrap the highest law of our State and put across a man as Governor whom the people had not elected—then the record builds up into something which no man of integrity would care to stand upon.

"Once You Understand."

"If you are one who wants to see Larry McDaniel seated as Governor, you won't vote for me. If you are one who wants to see that magnificent program of constructive work that Forrest Donnell has mapped out, brought to futility in a machine - controlled Legislature you won't vote for me. But if you are one of those who believes that much can be done for a better St. Louis for ourselves and our children, for a St. Louis where government will be subject only to the will of the people and not to the dictation of machines, for a St. Louis where the best interests of the great mass of the public will be the first consideration, then you will vote for me, once you understand all that is involved in this campaign.

"It can all be summed up in just five words—the same five fighting words that drove Pendergastism out of Kansas City—the machine versus the people."

Mrs. Hocker Speaks for Becker.

Mrs. Lon O. Hocker, in a radio speech for former Judge Becker last night, replied to the charge that the candidate lacked executive experience.

"I'll grant you," Mrs. Hocker said, "he isn't experienced in the subtle art of stealing a governorship. He isn't experienced in straw-man real estate deals. He isn't experienced in digging into the pockets of workin, people for a lug. He isn't experienced in favoring relatives with public business. He's so naive and inexperienced he even thinks a red stop-light really means stop."

The speaker cited Judge Becker's record in the St. Louis Court of Appeals, and his effective handling of the Muench baby custody and maternity hoax case. "What an opportunity we voters have," Mrs. Hocker said. "Here within the space of five months we are presented with the names of two men of such caliber as Forrest Donnell and William Dee Becker—men who invariably and unhesitatingly put the interests of the people above the expediencies of politics. One—Forrest Donnell—we already have chosen and today the State is embarked on a program of economical, efficient government which will be carried through if there is no machine in power to block that program. On April 1, we will have our opportunity to choose another man of equal ability and integrity for our highest city office — Judge Becker."

Dickmann Asks Why G. O. P. Didn't Start Civic Reforms When in Office

Assails, in Radio Address, Deprecation of Smoke and Milk Laws and Calls on Becker to State His Program.

Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann, in a radio campaign speech yesterday afternoon, declared that "the public is much more intelligent, than the Republican campaign orators give them credit for." He said the Republicans profess to approve of smoke elimination, but "whisper from door to door: 'We can get it for you cheaper.'" As to clean milk, he said the Republican version was: "It's all right, but the newspapers were for it, anyway." He asked why, in that case, new legislation was not enacted under the previous Republican administration.

"My Republican opponent has scoffed at the achievements of our Health Department," the Mayor said. "I ask a simple question—why, during Republican administrations, was the health of 36,000 parochial school chidren, of various denominations, neglected? Disease and pestilence know no difference between public and parochial school children. If we are not constantly watchful of the health of all our children, a great danger may exist."

Housing Accomplishments.

Mayor Dickmann said facts as to housing in some parts of St. Louis, in respect to sanitary facilities, were "almost unbelievable." Therefore, he said, "we have instituted great slum clearance projects which are designed to give modern, low-cost housing to those who are sorely in need of them, and at reasonable rates. These projects are now under way. And I say to you that they were not easy of accomplishment. Every conceivable obstacle was placed in their way. You should know that we shall save the taxpayers' money in the long run by these improved conditions, in addition to saving even more in lives and morale of our people who have suffered indecent living conditions for these many years."

He asked for a statement as to "the contemplated program" of the Republican nominee for Mayor, former Judge William Dee Becker.

"What plans does he have for making St. Louis a better place in which to live?" the Mayor asked. "Is it possible that the whole Republican campaign may be summed up in the words of one of their influential ward bosses who stated very openly and frankly recently, that he wanted control of the City Hall so that they might 'cut in on some of that pie?' Is the extent of the sincerity of my opponent to be measured by his espousal of a merit system? Then I wonder what he meant when he made a bid for votes at what seemed to be an auction at the Twentieth Ward Republican meeting when he shamelessly stated that there would be eight or nine jobs to the precinct for his workers if he were elected. He knows that his promise meant the discharge of every city employe including firemen and nurses and doctors, in order to carry out this pledge!"

Cites Miller Record.

The Mayor reverted to the record of the Republican administrations of Mayor Victor J. Miller, 1925-33, and said: "Our opponents are making desperate attempts to regain a power which was once intrusted to them, but which they abused.

"The citizens, having put up with this abuse of a public trust for many years, finally voted that administration out of office eight years ago.

"So far as I can determine, the only real and important issues in this campaign are the accomplishments of the two terms of this administration. Any other issues which are raised are simply smoke screens, and if any of my listeners are deceived, I assure you that none of our active opponents are. They know just as well as I do, that the moment this campaign is over they, who have enjoyed the benefits of our progress, will forget everything that has been said until the next campaign.

"The name-calling will be laid away with the old crinoline clothes which we so carefully preserve so that they can be brought out from time to time to recall the good old days.

"Someone has aptly said that we have done such a good job of doing away with most of the smoke in the St. Louis air, it is now about time to do away with the political smoke screens raised by those who seek to regain political control so that they may once more use, or shall I say abuse, the city government for their own purposes."

Daniel P. Reardon, lawyer, in a radio speech supporting Mayor Dickmann last evening, spoke of the recent report of the Mayor's Advisory Committee on City Survey and Audit. He said the report contained nothing reflectign unfavorably on the honesty or integrity of the Dickmann administration.

In contrast, the speaker cited statements made regarding the Republican nominee, by his opponents in the Republican primary and by their supporters. He told of the demand of Republican City Chairman Fred W. Evers for a business man as a candidate, and the failure to find an eligible man of that description who would consent to run. He quoted a Star-Times news story of Feb. 25, in which Judge Becker was quoted as saying: "There will be eight or nine jobs per precinct available for my workers if I am elected."

COCHRAN ACCUSED OF DEMAGOGUERY IN HOUSE DISPUTE

Representative Bennett of Springfield Says WPA Cut He Sought Was Not Aimed at Poor.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 24. — Challenging statements made on Friday by Representative John J. Cochran (Dem.), St. Louis; Representative Philip A. Bennett (Rep.), Springfield, Mo., today charged the St. Louisan with "pure demagoguery."

This was an aftermath of Friday's quarrel when the St. Louis mayoralty campaign was the subject of a sharp exchange between Cochran and Representative William P. Lambertson, Kansas Republican. At that time Cochran, without mentioning Bennett by name, referred to a Springfield Congressman who had 'tried by amendment to strike off millions of dollars' from a relief bill, thereby "depriving tens of thousands of people of employment on WPA."

Bennett said there was nothing in the record to justify this statement. He declared that his amendment. He declared that his amenddeficiency bill, which was entirely for administrative expenses, from $34,105,000 to $25,000,000.

Attacks "Political Pets."

"I have never tried to take one penny away from the deserving poor," Bennett said. "I do resent the fact that this administration is playing politics with human misery and that much of the money that should go to the deserving poor goes into the pockets of political pets.

"The amendment was not directed at the deserving poor or the needy unemployed. It was directed at the administration pets and the political leeches that by underground methods have found places upon the public payrolls, without any consideration whatsoever as to their need for or advisability of their participation in this public relief jackpot."

Cochran replied briefly to Bennett, declaring that Bennett when he introduced his amendment was apparently not aware that the appropriation was merely for a three-month period.

"It is ridiculous to say that the $10,000,000 cut for a three-month period would not reduce the number of people on relief," Cochran said. "Of course it would. The gentleman has a fantastic idea of what the administrative cost of WPA really is.

"If he believes half the things he says here on the floor he should find out exactly what kind of people are administering the relief funds. More than half are Civil Service employes."

Missouri Graft Cited.

"There were many irregularities," said Bennett, referring to instances of relief graft exposed in Missouri, "and small wonder, for only last week the former WPA director for the State of Missouri, Matt Murray, began serving a term in a Federal penitentiary, after having been convicted on the charge of evading income tax payments amounting to many thousands of dollars.

"Murray, of course, was one of the key men placed in the top position by the notorious Tom Pendergast, formerly head of the Democratic machine in Kansas City."

Cochran in his reply said that Bennett had made it perfectly clear that he was against all New Deal measures, including relief on an adequate scale.

In the course of Friday's exchange, Cochran declared that he was going to St. Louis to campaign further for Mayor Dickmann. He indicated today he would leave Washington probably at the end of the week to make additional speeches in the hotly-contested campaign.

G. O. P. COMMITTEE WON'T LET MARTIN QUIT AS CHAIRMAN

Resignation Rejected Unanimously—He Says U. S. Is Staggering 'Along in Direction of War.'

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP).—The Republican National Committee today received the resignation of Chairman Joseph W. Martin Jr. and promptly rejected it unanimously.

Martin told the committee in executive session that when he accepted the chairmanship it was "with the expectation that I would be relieved upon the conclusion of the campaign."

In his letter of resignation Martin said:

"My personal wishes are that I be relieved of the office at this time."

William F. Knowland, national committeeman from California, made the motion that the resignation be rejected.

The motion was seconded by Barak T. Mattingly of St. Louis. He said a survey in his State indicated that party officials unanimously desired that the House leader stay on as chairman. He had with him 183 letters from county chairmen and other local leaders urging Martin's retention.

The Knowland motion also was seconded by Samuel F. Pryor of Connecticut, a committee vice-chairman who said the East as well as the West wanted Martin to continue.

After turning down Martin's resignation and hearing him say he would continue, the committee selected Sinclair Weeks of Massachusetts as treasurer to succeed C. B. Goodspeed of Illinois, who resigned because of ill health.

Knowland Appointed.

It also named Knowland as chairman of the executive committee, a post Weeks had held along with the assistant treasurership.

Although Westerners reportedly had been interested in naming a treasurer from their section of the country, they presented no name for it.

Members said the committee would authorize Martin to select an executive director or assistant chairman to carry on the bulk of the committee's work.

Addressing a closed meeting of the National Committee called to discuss organization problems, Martin, the House minority leader, asserted in his prepared speech that there was a genuine need for national unity in forwarding defense plans, but said this must not be achieved by destroying the two-party system.

"Staggering Toward War."

Martin earlier declared that the United States was staggering "along in the direction of war" and "face to face with the possibility of national bankruptcy."

Under the circumstances, he said, the responsibility of the Republican party is to "police and audit the New Deal administration to protect our country from financial, political and social bankruptcy. . . . The scandals of 1918 must not be repeated."

Spending and Vast Powers.

"A vigorous, courageous Republican party," he said, "is essential to police and audit the New Deal administration as it revels in the spending of 30 or 40 billions of dollars and in the possession of vast and unparalleled powers granted it only because of the urgent needs of national defense."

Discussing the "great national crisis" of the present moment and the possibility of war, Martin asserted:

"This picture is not a pleasant one, but it is the realistic one. This is no time for 'echo men.' It is a time demanding courage and honest thinking. Our first thought must be the welfare of our country."

He continued:

"We must police the great powers granted to the President to assure as far as possible their wise administration. We must be ready to fight to restore those powers to the people's representatives when the emergency has passed.

"We must police the bureaus and the men to whom the fate of the nation has been intrusted. Their work must be done efficiently, honestly, economically and on a non-partisan basis."

No Time for Strikes, He Says.

Martin said the present emergency was no time for racketeering, profiteering, strikes or lockouts. The nation, he continued, demands "patriotism above selfishness."

"As we go forward with these defense plans," he said at another point, "let our fervent prayer be that we can preserve America from having to send millions of our boys to the trenches."

Martin said the Republican party was "better organized today than at any time in the last 12 years."

About 80 of the National Committee's 106 members, both men and women, are here for the party's first big meeting since the 1940 elections.

Policeman Captures Man in Store.

Marion W. Hurd, Negro, who said he lived at 1305 North Prairie avenue, was captured in a grocery at 2148 West Florissant avenue yesterday by Patrolman Virgil Barry after a woman notified Barry she had seen the Negro break a window of the store. Barry forced Hurd out of the building and took an automatic pistol and a revolver, both broken, and a hunting knife from him. Nothing was taken from the store.

Willkie Seeking to Eliminate Isolationist Sentiment in U. S.

More Interested in Building Defense and Fiscal Policies Than in 1944 Candidacy, He Says.

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie said last night h was "not the slightest interested at this time in the candidacy of anyone for any office in 1942 or 1944."

He made the statement when asked to comment on the assertion of an unidentified Republican national committeeman in Washington that the Republican 1940 presidential candidate was "not interested" in running for President in 1944. The committeeman speculated that Willkie might support Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota for the nomination.

A gubernatorial election in New York is among those to be held in 1942.

"Civilization is facing one of its crucial moments," Willkie said. "Talk of party politics and candidacies is completely out of place in either party.

"I am interested at this time, aside from necessary devotion to personal affairs, in elimination of isolationist sentiment in the United States; in building an adequate defense system and its competent administration and sanity in our national fiscal policies, all to the end that America may help save liberty for herself and the world.

"I am not the slightest interested at this time in the candidacy of anyone for any office in 1942 or 1944. Such talk is pure nonsense.

"The sooner partisan politics is adjourned and talk of candidacies and petty ambitions discontinued, the better off everyone will be."

Cyrus McCormick, the New Mexico national committeeman, told reporters that "nobody can avoid the fact that Willkie was our last nominee and that, as such, he is the boss of the Republicans."

McCormick declared that Republicans in his section "are for Roosevelt's foreign policy" as the best means of keeping out of war. He added that since Willkie supported that policy he had the backing of New Mexico Republicans.

Willkie Given Ovation on His Arrival in Toronto.

TORONTO, March 24 (AP).—Wendell Willkie arrived today in Toronto, where he is to address a mass meeting tonight on behalf of the Canadian war services fund.

After receiving the ovation of crowds which gathered at stations from Fort Erie, Ontario, where he crossed the international border, Willkie stepped down from a private car in Toronto's Union Station to review a guard of honor of red-coated Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

In Toronto street crowds gathered for the parade to city hall. American and British flags hung side by side on the downtown streets.

CANNON URGING FULL PRICE FOR TNT LAND

Congressman Asserts Army Should Carry Out Options as Contracts.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Representative Clarence Cannon of Missouri said today that he is making every effort to compel the War Department to pay the full option price for land in the TNT site at Weldon Spring, Mo.

"The Government entered into a contract to pay those prices," Cannon said, "and that contract is binding, just as it would be with a private individual."

Cannon, who represents the district in which the site is situated, has arranged to appear tomorrow before the House Military Affairs Committee to protest against the action of the War Department in abrogating the contract entered into with R. Newton McDowell, Kansas City contractor, to acquire the site on a 5 per cent commission basis. The contract, together with the options called for under it, was set aside after special appraisers for the War Department reported that McDowell's option prices were far too high.

"I am not interested in Mr. McDowell," Cannon said. "I didn't approve of the method of obtaining the site. I thought it was terrible that they should pay a commission on that basis and that they should go 300 miles to the other side of the State to find an abstractor.

"But the War Department can't clear itself for its neglect and inefficiency by penalizing these farmers who are my constituents. They can't take it out on men who accepted in good faith the prices offered to them.

"I am confident the courts will sustain the option prices. But here is the unfortunate phase of that. The War Department has made it clear that in such instances payment, above the amount allowed by the department in leave-to-take action, is sometimes deferred 20 years or more.

"It isn't right to make those farmers wait for 20 years. Many of them were forced off their land within two weeks' time. Their buildings were destroyed. The roads were closed. They disposed of their goods at a severe loss in many instances. Word has come to me that they have in certain cases suffered illness from the effects of having been uprooted in this fashion.

PROSECUTOR GETS AFFIDAVITS FILED BY CITY EMPLOYE

Papers Accuse Republicans of Offering Worker Better Job if He Would File Suit.

Affidavits by a Democratic city employe, purporting to show that Republicans promised him a better job if he filed suit for an accounting of the Public Employes' Welfare Association funds, were turned over to Circuit Attorney Thomas C. Hennings Jr. today by George B. Tracy, chairman of the Efficiency Board.

Hennings said he would examine them after returning from a trip to Jefferson City. The affidavits were by James H. Hagan, a Water Division employe. He kept Tracy and other leading Democrats posted on his movements daily and then discharged the Republican lawyer who, he said, planned to file the accounting suit.

Final British Warning to Belgrade

rounded out his arrangements for departure by ordering police on 24-hour duty throughout the country and by forbidding all public meetings. Starting at midnight, all army leaves will be canceled and troops in large towns were instructed to keep their arms in readiness. Reservists were being called to the colors.

(Authorized sources in Berlin intimated that an important official communique on the Yugoslavia-Axis situation could be expected tomorrow afternoon. This was taken by observers to mean that by then Yugoslavia would be a member of the Axis.)

Threats of Assassination.

With opposition to the alliance growing hourly, there were reports from the Greek frontier that Yugoslav officers were crossing the border to offer their services to the Greeks. They were said to include four Generals and three high officers of the Royal Guard.

Pamphlets strewn in the streets of Belgrade threatened assassination for Government leaders who had agreed to align Yugoslavia with the Axis. The leaflets were eagerly snatched up by crowds on evening promenade.

"Those Government leaders who have agreed to the Axis demands are traitors," the leaflets said. "Those who risk the heads of 16,000,000 people must understand the risk to their own heads. These traitors must be prepared to face the fate of those who have betrayed Yugoslavia in the past."

Opponents Charge Treason.

Another set of leaflets said:

"The Government is preparing treason. In a few days the Axis pact will be signed. This means certain, shameful death for our country and the end of our freedom. For the first time in our history we are being asked to kneel before tyrants, to sink into dishonor and slavery. . . .

"The entire nation of 16,000,000 wants to defend the liberty of the fatherland. Sixteen men of the Government want to commit treason by enlaving us. But we are resolved we shall not be sold out. We will not lay down our arms. Those who risk our liberty will pay dearly. Every man in this country has a sacred duty to do something to prevent the ghastly crime against us which the Government is preparing.

"We do not want the three-Power pact. We do not want army instructors, tourists and economic experts. We want no dealing whatsoever with our Axis enemies.

"Yugoslavs: Do everything for honor and liberty and nothing for our deadly enemies."

Police Warn Against Assembly.

Pamphlets calling for a mass meeting to protest tomorrow in a Belgrade public park flooded this capital. Police warned, however, that the meeting would be broken up.

Pamphlets were circulated in other cities as well as Belgrade. One proposed an immediate military alliance with Soviet Russia as a means to back up Yugoslav resistance to the German demands. It was signed by Dr. Dragoljub Javonovic, leader of a left wing of the Serb Peasant party.

Another leaflet purported to show "what will happen when the Germans come." It showed pictures of starving Yugoslavs, fat German soldiers, graveyards full of Serbs, abandoned churches and priests wearing swastikas.

The Patriarch of the Serb Orthodox Church called a meeting of the Holy Synod for Thursday, at the request, it was reported, of Chief Regent Prince Paul to try through the church to quiet increasing resentment of Serbs.

A Government decree dissolved the board of directors of the Belgrade Radio Corporation and named the chief censor of the press bureau as commissar to run the company.

Serb Minister Reconsiders.

A communique announced that the Cabinet split over adherence to the Axis had been settled and that two new Ministers already had assumed their duties, Dragomir Ikonic as Minister of Public Welfare and Caslav Nikitovic as Minister of Agriculture.

A third Serb Minister who was reported unofficially to have resigned, Minister of Justice Mihajlo Konstantinovic, apparently had been persuaded to reconsider and remain with the Government. His resignation had never been acknowledged officially.

Yugoslavia's two new ministers, Ikonic and Nikitovic, as well as Konstantinovic initialed the Axis adherence plan in early afternoon.

As the new ministers were being sworn in by orthodox priests, the vice-chairman of the Serb Peasant party, Milos Tupanjanin, presented a letter to Premier Cvetkovic containing the resignation of six more senators of his party.

Tupanjanin said the instant Yugoslavia signs the three-power pact, Milan Gavrilovic, Yugoslavia's first Minister to Moscow since the World War, would resign his post. He is expected to return and lead an opposition fight which anti-Nazis announced early today would continue, no matter what action the Government took.

One possibility was that Gavrilovic would go to London to organize a "loyal Yugoslav committee" and perhaps eventually head a British-recognized government-in-exile. This suggestion was advanced by Gavrilovic's friends.

It was pointed out that Senator Veceslav Vilder, a representative of the other opposition party in Yugoslavia, the Independent Democrats, already had fled to Istanbul, Turkey, where he plans to organize opposition to the Axis.

Letter by Resigned Minister.

The Agriculture Minister who resigned in protest, Dr. Branko Cubrilovic, provided the first official intimation of any kind that Yugoslavia had agreed to sign up with the Axis. His letter of resignation, made public today, said that "at the Cabinet meeting of March 20 I represented the opinion which was outvoted.

"I have always held to this opinion and have often had the opportunity to repeat it. The majority of the Cabinet has decided that the country should join the three-Power pact."

Cubrilovic added that the entire Serb Agrarian party which he represented in the Cabinet was backing his stand.

Before settlement of the Cabinet crisis was announced, an opposition leader said:

"This is a real revolt of a great majority of Serbs against any sell-out. We are insisting that the entire Government resign. We may lose the fight. We may be ignored, but if we are, this Government will have to assume responsibility for the trouble which inevitably will follow."

He said the Serb Democratic, Serb Radical and Serb Peasant parties, representing a majority of the Serbs—largest minority in Yugoslavia—were supporting the anti-Axis group.

Thousands Parade in Protest.

Tens of thousands of Yugoslav men and women paraded in protest demonstrations against the proposed pact yesterday and high military quarters reported unrest in the army itself, especially among young Serb officers because of an alleged declaration of the War Minister that Yugoslavia must bow to Adolf Hitler because the army was not prepared to fight.

From towns and villages throughout the provinces of Serbia, Croatia and Slovenia came reports of street demonstrations, telling of thousands assembling to cheer three ministers who quit the Cabinet Friday in protest against capitulation.

Opposition leaders said Prince Paul had received more than 10,000 telegrams, letters and telephone calls protesting against any Yugoslav link with the Axis, some of them from Yugoslav societies in the United States.

WOMAN HURT BY STREET CAR

Motorman Saves Her From Being Run Over by Dropping Fender.

Mrs. Mary Muchnick, 1700 Goode avenue, suffered a concussion of the brain, torn muscles of the left thigh and contusions yesterday evening when she was struck by a Wellston street car in front of 5713 Easton avenue.

Peter Keaney, motorman, said Mrs. Muchnick walked in front of the car. He kept from running over Mrs. Muchnick by dropping the fender in front of the wheels and catching her. She was taken to Jewish Hospital.

GWENDOLYN RENIER

STEPFATHER KILLS GIRL AND HIMSELF AFTER QUARRELS

quently and usually had Sunday dinner with them, Mrs. Renier went on. Yesterday Renier and the girl had seemed on good terms, she said, and when Mrs. Renier and her son left for the show, her husband was drying the dinner dishes and Gwendolyn was reading. The shooting occurred about 3 o'clock, police said.

Renier's chief argument in urging the girl to stay at home was so that she could save the money she earned at the Killark Electric Manufacturing Co., 3940 Easton avenue, where she worked in the automobile fuse department, to enable her to take vocal lessons.

Member of School Chorus.

Gwendolyn, who was graduated last June from Beaumont High School, sang the lead in the school operetta, "Chimes of Normandy," last spring, and was a member of the mixed chorus. Her music teacher at the school, Miss Elsie Brix, told the reporter the girl had an exceptional soprano voice and that she had urged her to continue voice studies.

Miss Brix said she had discussed the matter with Renier and that he, while in favor of Gwendolyn taking voice training, took a "dictatorial attitude" about it. The teacher added that she had arranged for the girl to sing in the choir of a West End church.

Mrs. Renier said her husband had objected to Gwendolyn's having dates with boys, giving as his reason that such interests would interfere with her music studies. Despite his gruffness, the mother said, he really thought there was "nobody in the world like Gwendolyn," and was ambitious for her future. However, Gwendolyn also was of high-strung nature and resented her stepfather's interference.

LEVY, WHO CONCOCTED OYSTER COCKTAIL, DIES

LOS ANGELES, March 24 (AP). Al Levy, pioneer restaurant man who once said his only claim to fame would be that he invented the oyster cocktail, died today after an operation.

Levy, born in Liverpool in 1880 and educated in Dublin, started business here with a pushcart in 1906. Years later he opened a cafe which became one of the leading restaurants of Los Angeles. For many years Levy was a business associate of Orchestra Leader Abe Lyman. Hiram Johnson, now United States Senator, launched his first campaign for Governor from Levy's establishment.

Surviving are Mrs. Levy, with whom he celebrated his golden wedding six years ago, and a son, Robert.

LEVY, WHO CONCOCTED OYSTER COCKTAIL, DIES

LOS ANGELES, March 24 (AP). Al Levy, pioneer restaurant man who once said his only claim to fame would be that he invented the oyster cocktail, died today after an operation.

Levy, born in Liverpool in 1860 and educated in Dublin, started business here with a pushcart in 1886. Years later he opened a cafe which became one of the leading restaurants of Los Angeles. For many years Levy was a business associate of Orchestra Leader Abe Lyman. Hiram Johnson, now United States Senator, launched his first campaign for Governor from Levy's establishment.

Surviving are Mrs. Levy, with whom he celebrated his golden wedding six years ago, and a son, Robert.

JAPANESE REPORT TAKING TWO PORTS ABOVE HONGKONG

Swabue Occupied Without Fight — 5000 Chinese Overcome by Landing Forces at Chaoyang.

HONGKONG, March 24 (AP).—Japanese dispatches said today two important Chinese ports on the Kwangtung coast were captured when Japanese troops, covered by warships, landed along the coast northeast of Hongkong during the last 24 hours.

One was Swabue, 85 miles from Hongkong, and the other was Chaoyang, near Swatow.

The landings appeared to have been patterned after recent operations south of Hongkong, where a number of points were occupied and huge quantities of war supplies and other materials were said to have been captured.

Swabue, which the Japanese dispatches said had been a base for the transportation of supplies to China since the interruption of the Hongkong-Shiukwan route, was said to have been taken without opposition by troops who continued toward an undisclosed objective.

The troops who captured Chaoyang, the dispatches said, landed under cover of darkness and attacked with the support of planes at daybreak, overcoming 5000 Chinese troops in the hills around the town.

The size of the forces involved was not disclosed.

Both Chinese and Japanese dispatches reported fighting on Hainan, an island off Indo-China, where Japan is said to have concentrated large forces.

The Chinese said more than 1000 Japanese were wounded and sent away on transports.

7 ITALIAN CHARGES AT CHEREN HURLED BACK, BRITISH SAY

Heavy Counterattacks Cost Fascists 'Serious Losses' — English Capture Neghelli in Ethiopia.

CAIRO, Egypt, March 24 (AP).—British troops have beaten off seven heavy Italian counterattacks outside Cheren, key to Italian Eritrea, and "again are making headway," a British communique said today. The Italians were said to have sustained "serious losses."

"Free French" troops fighting on the British side were reported battling for hill positions four miles from Cheren, where 35,000 Italian and native troops for weeks have held the British drive toward the Eritrean capital of Asmara.

Britain's offensive position in Italian East Africa has been improved by capture of Neghelli, provincial capital in Southern Ethiopia, which put a third column in position to strike toward Addis Ababa, Ethiopian capital. Today's communique said native activities "continue to develop satisfactorily."

British-led natives from the northwest and British and South African forces from the east already were driving toward Addis Ababa when the new drive started from the Kenya frontier toward the north early this month.

The British said fast mechanized columns swept nearly 140 miles northeast from Mega and northwest from Dolo to take Neghelli, whose capture by Italians in January, 1936, in the Italo-Ethiopian war was hailed in Rome as an important victory.

BRITISH AGAIN RULE THEIR SOMALILAND

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, March 24 (AP).—The British claimed today British Somaliland, captured by the Italians last August, again is "under control of our forces" and the road from Berbera, capital and chief port, to Hargeisa, about 100 miles inland, "is now open."

Berbera was occupied by the British a week ago, followed by the capture of Hargeisa.

British forces which captured Jijiga in Ethiopia last week carried out a "successful attack against strong enemy positions holding Marda Pass," just west of Jijiga, British headquarters reported. "Certain vital tactical features were captured," the announcement said.

From Jijiga the British are trying to drive toward Harar, 50 miles away, and Diredawa, which is just beyond on the Addis Ababa railroad.

A communique also disclosed that the British were using air-borne troops to fan out hundreds of miles off lines of communication in the Ethiopian wilderness and seize rule of that East African colony from the Italians.

"Outlying centers of administration, some of which are 400 miles from our lines of communication, are being taken over by air-borne troops accompanied by political officers," it said. "Some sick women and children already have been evacuated."

"Furious" British Attack at Cheren Repulsed, Italians Say.

ROME, March 24 (AP).—A "furious" British attack against the Italian defenders of Cheren, Eritrea, Saturday night was reported today by the Italian high command to have been repulsed with heavy losses to the attackers.

It reported, too, there had been "actions by German mechanized troops along the eastern margin of the Sirte desert" in North Central Libya.

German planes were credited with bombing and machine gunning British mechanized troops in Eastern Libya.

VICHY CUTS BREAD RATION TO 7.05 OUNCES PER DAY

New Tickets Go in Use April 1; 90 Grams of Meat Allowed 12 Days a Month.

VICHY, France, March 24 (AP).—New ration tickets, distributed today for use after April 1, cut the daily bread ration to 200 grams (7.05 ounces).

The rations first allowed 400 grams, then were reduced to 300 during the last three months and to 240 in the last 15 days.

Meat was limited to 12 tickets of 90 grams each per month, fats to 430 grams and cheeses to 220 grams per month. Each sheet bore lettered tickets for use should there be supplementary allowances.

(One ounce, avoirdupois, equals 28.35 grams.)

EAGLE FEATHERS FOR R.A.F.

Indian Symbol for Courage Given to Pilots for Special Feats.

LONDON, March 24 (AP).—Eagle feathers from the United States have been awarded to a small group of Royal Air Force pilots especially distinguished in air combat against Britain's foes, it was announced today, as Indian symbols of courage.

The feathers were sent for that purpose by the Indian Council Fire of Chicago, headed by Chief Whirling Thunder.

A double funeral for Mrs. Anna Bearss, who died Thursday, and her husband, Amos Bearss, who died Saturday, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Bopp undertaking establishment, Hanley road and Forsythe boulevard, Clayton. They will be buried in Lake Charles Cemetery.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bearss died of heart disease, Mrs. Bearss at their home, 8261 Brenner avenue, Vinita park, and her husband, a former employe of the Wagner Electric Co., while he was being taken to County Hospital. Each was 65 years old.

VAN BUREN CITY ATTORNEY SHOT; SAYS WIFE DID IT

VAN BUREN, Mo., March 24 (AP).—Friend B. Green, 49 years old, Van Buren City Attorney, was shot and gravely wounded while eating breakfast at his home here today. He and a daughter, Mrs. E. Merrill of Springfield, Mo., told officers Mrs. Green shot her husband, using a small-caliber rifle.

Mrs. Green was taken into custody.

JANUARY W P A. RELIEF ROLLS UP DESPITE DEFENSE PROGRAM

Total Payments to Needy Show 1.8 Per Cent Increase Over December.

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP).—Despite the defense employment boom, the Social Security Board reported today, there were increases during January both in WPA rolls and in the number of persons receiving public relief or assistance.

Total payments for public assistance and earnings of persons employed under Federal work programs for the month were listed at $221,654,000, an increase of 1.8 per cent over December, 1940.

The board said 1,858,000 persons were employed by WPA in January, against 1,826,000 during December. Cases receiving general public relief numbered 1,256,000 in January, compared with 1,240,000 during December.

ROOSEVELT APPROVES BILLS DURING CRUISE

One Measure Signed Provides $340,526,000 for Navy and Public Works.

ABOARD U. S. S. BENSON, March 24 (AP).—President Roosevelt announced today he had taken the last formal step in creation of the United States Defense Mediation Board by signing the commissions of 11 members.

Cruising in Southern waters aboard the yacht Potomac, he further interrupted his fishing long enough to sign two bills.

The bills authorize a $340,526,383 naval public works program. The legislation includes funds for developments at Guam and Samoa in the Pacific and at the naval and air bases in the Atlantic acquired from Great Britain.

He also approved a request by United States District Judge Andrew Miller of Fargo, N. D., for retirement because of age.

A naval patrol plane took some of the signed documents to Miami for forwarding to Washington.

BERLIN ATTACKED BY R.A.F.; HANOVER AND KIEL BOMBED

serschmitt 109s was said to have dive-bombed the residential area of a Southeast coast town, killing a small number of persons. The raiders later flew along the coast, machine-gunning the shore.

Tonight's Air Ministry communique said:

"Shortly before dawn several bombs were rdopped in Southeast Kent and during the afternoon there has been a little enemy air arctivity in Southwest England and in South Wales.

"The damage reported is small and the casualties are very few. One enemy aircraft is known to have been shot down by our fighters."

Respite for Britain.

Last night was the second in succession during which Britain had a breathing spell from heavy assault.

"Only a small number of enemy aircraft operated against this country last night," a communique said. "A few bombs dropped in Eastern England damaged houses and caused some casualties."

Neither were there any major raids on England during the day yesterday when the Royal Air Force swept down the French coast from Calais to Brittany.

A communique said a block of German barracks was destroyed by high explosives in an attack on the port of Quiberon, near Lorient, and a German escort vessel, described as an anti-aircraft ship, was hit near Brest.

Two of the bombs which hit the barracks exploded simultaneously, the Air Ministry news service said, and with such terrific force that a British plane 1000 feet above was shaken.

The British skimmed the coast at such low altitude that they could see French fishermen and people on the beaches look up and wave "cheeringly" as they recognized the British markings.

In last night's offensive operations, the Air Ministry said, docks, shipbuilding yards and the canal at Kiel were targets.

Oil refineries, rail stations and junctions were objectives at Hanover. The Ministry said: "Several very heavy explosions in Hanover were observed from a distance by other bombers taking part in the raid on Berlin."

Thousands of free meals were distributed yesterday to residents of Plymouth, some of whom took to the fields and hedges around the city after undergoing furious German raids Thursday and Friday nights.

The Government was speeding rehabilitation work along with the food. Trucks equipped with loud speakers toured the city, telling weary townspeople where they could get food and offering financial aid.

American-born Lady Astor, Mayoress of Plymouth, who has gone about the city in almost constant visit to bombed areas, told the townspeople in a broadcast that "Hitler may wreck our homes but he will never break our hearts."

King George sent Lady Astor this message:

"After our happy day (the King and Queen visited Plymouth on Thursday just before the bombings started) the Queen and I are deeply distressed to hear what you have all been through last night.

"Whatever the people of Plymouth may be called upon to suffer we feel quite certain the spirit of the west country will rise above it all.

"God bless you all. George, R. I."

'ATTIC FIRES' CAUSED IN BERLIN, NAZIS SAY

BERLIN, March 24 (AP).—Today's high command communique said casualties and damage in the British raid on Berlin last night were negligible and authorized sources said other raiders, striking in the Kiel area, were turned back from the city by anti-aircraft fire. Some civilian casualties and residential damage in Kiel were acknowledged, however.

"In various residential sections of Berlin, incendiary and explosive bombs were dropped from great altitude, causing attic fires in some places," the communique said.

"No military damage resulted. Some civilians who were outside of air raid shelters were killed and several injured."

An earlier communique said some of the raiders penetrated to the center of the city, dropping explosives and incendiaries "aimlessly from great height."

7-Billion Aid Bill Passed by Senate

priated.' Of course, we know there is no money in the Treasury."

Senator Connally (Dem.), Texas, intervened to say that the Finance Committee would bring out a tax bill later on and that Taft "will probably be as vocal against it as he is against this bill."

"It is unjustified to say that," Taft responded, adding that he would support a tax measure.

"Heavy" Taxes Coming.

"I thank the Senator for saying that," Connally asserted. "I deliberately put it that way in order to get a recruit, because this tax bill is going to jerk some people out of their boots. I am glad the Senator from Ohio is not waiting to be drafted — that he is volunteering now to support very, very heavy taxes."

Taft said he had decided "with many doubts" to vote for the appropriation. He was concerned most, he added, with the necessity of raising funds to meet the commitment.

"I have a feeling," he said, "that new taxes ought to come at the same time as the appropriation."

Senator Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, another opponent of the original "lease-lend" measure, told his colleagues that one reason he would vote against the appropriation was that "the passage of this bill will be received by President Roosevelt as a license to go however far (without declaring war) he may find it necessary to go to accomplish delivery of this program of aid to Britain."

Enough Only for Britain.

Senator Adams (Dem.), Colorado, floor manager for the bill, told the Senate during the debate that if this nation aided other countries besides Britain, more money than the seven billion dollars would have to be appropriated.

Vandenberg asked, "Is the Senator convinced here will be sufficient for the (two-year) life of the bill?"

"I am very fearful that is not the case," Adams replied. "There is no escape from the conclusion that additional funds must be provided if we are to maintain China, Greece and other countries in their fight."

Adams, who voted against the "lease-lend" law, told the Senate that he still thought this legislation was "unsound and apt to bring not only danger but catastrophe and disaster to my country." He added, however, that since it had become law, he regarded himself as much bound by the bill's requirements as those who voted for it.

He asserted that the $7,000,000,000 appropriation had been based on estimates of British needs alone and added that the Senate Appropriations Committee had received "no information on what aid we may give Turkey or other countries."

Adams told the Senate that various categories of expenditures under the appropriation "are deliberately lacking in detail."

Witnesses before the committee, he said, "told us that if we put in the bill the exact thing we were to do we would advertise Britain's needs."

Vandenberg asked whether any effort was being made to assure eventual reimbursement to the United States for goods sent to Britain.

"I can only say that the information that came to me on that point was very vague," Adams replied.

Adams asserted there had been some talk that Britain might give the United States additional naval bases in this hemisphere in return for military equipment.

"Some of us are a little concerned," he added, "that they might want to make payment by turning over some islands we don't want."

In the matter of repayment, Adams continued, "Britain is going to have to face the same question we'll face here—what are they going to use for money?"

On Limit of Cost.

The appropriation bill contains a provision for replacing existing equipment for foreign use up to $1,300,000,000, and Vandenberg asked Adams if the appropriation did not actually amount to $8,300,000,000 instead of $7,000,000,000.

Adams replied that in his judgment that the "ceiling" of the bill was $7,000,000,000.

Later Adams said there had been testimony that the needs of other countries besides Britain had been considered in compiling the seven billion dollar total. He added, however, that it was difficult to set up an "exact stopping point" for the amount that would ultimately be needed.

"Once the United States Government has entered into a program of maintaining the democracies of Europe," he said, "it can't very well say that we're going in for seven billion dollars and if that isn't enough we're going to quit. It's like jumping off a 40-story building and saying we're going to stop at the twenty-sixth floor."

Other Similies.

Vandenberg remarked that it would be like a man attempting to go part way over Niagara Falls and then come back.

Senator Lee (Dem.), Oklahoma, took exception to this comment, saying that he preferred to compare the situation with loading a cannon and shooting it half way.

"You can't load a cannon and then half-way shoot it," he said. "I'd rather load a cannon that will shoot a shot that will be heard around the world."

Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, broke in to say that he assumed that "if this is not sufficient to load and shoot the gun they will be back for seven billion dollars more or 20 billion dollars more or some other amount."

"Enough to do the job," Lee retorted.

"Regardless of whether it takes men or money or something else?" Wheeler asked.

"The Senator from Montana," Lee exclaimed, "has been trying to put a declaration of war into the mouths of those who favor this bill ever since it started. If we don't get into this war he's going to be so disappointed that he will die politically."

"A lot of people," Wheeler rejoined, "have intimated I might die politically for a long period of time, but I haven't died yet. Anything I said against the lend-lease bill and anything I said about keeping out of war is never going to kill me politically in the United States or in my State."

Senator Willis (Rep.), Indiana, another opponent of the "lease-lend" act, announced in a statement his support of the appropriation.

"Aid to Britain and to all countries whose victory in war is essential to the defense of the United States," Willis said, "is now the adopted program of our nation. . . . I now consider it my duty to provide for the national administration every possible implement it deems necessary for the successful prosecution of its program of defense."

Roll Call on Bill.

The roll call vote by which the Senate approved the seven billion dollar lease-lend appropriation:

FOR THE BILL (67):

Democrats — Adams, Andrews, Bailey, Bankhead, Barkley, Bilbo, Brown, Byrd, Byrnes, Caraway, Chavez, Connally, Downey, Ellender, George, Gerry, Gillette, Glass, Green, Hayden, Herring, Hill, Hughes, Kilgore, Lee, Lucas, Maloney, McFarland, McKellar, Murdock, Murray, O'Mahoney, Overton, Pepper, Radcliffe, Reynolds, Russell, Schwartz, Sheppard, Smathers, Smith, Stewart, Thomas of Oklahoma, Thomas of Utah, Truman, Tunnell, Tydings, Van Nuys, Wallgren—49.

Republicans—Aiken, Ball, Barbour, Brewster, Brooks, Burton, Capper, Danaher, Davis, Gurney, Holman, McNary, Reed, Taft, Vandenberg, White, Willis—17.

Democrats—Clark of Idaho, Clark of Missouri, Wheeler—3.

Republicans — Butler, Langer, Nye, Shipstead, Thomas of Idaho—5.

Progressive—La Follette—1.

Pairs were announced as follows: Austin, Republican, for, and Johnson of California, Republican, against; Lodge, Republican, for, and Wiley, Republican, against.

It was announced that the following would have voted for the bill had they been present: Wagner, Bone, Bunker, Chandler, Guffey, Harrison, Hatch, Johnson of Colorado, McCarran and Mead, all Democrats, and Tobey, Republican.

BODY OF EDWIN NOLTE RECOVERED FROM RIVER

The body of Edwin Nolte, insurance broker and former State Senator, who was drowned when a boat capsized in a Mississippi River slough 12 miles northwest of St. Charles Dec. 14, was recovered yesterday.

Identification was made by Comptroller Louis Nolte, brother of Edwin Nolte, by means of papers and a constable's badge found in the clothing. The body was found in the slough, about a mile and a half from the place where the boat turned over, by two St. Louis boys, Billy Hearst, 14 years old, 5659 Park lane, and Albert Frederich, 13, 5654 Hiller avenue. Burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery this afternoon, following an inquest at Orchard Farm, St. Charles County.

Mr. Nolte, 55 years old, was returning with his son, Louis E. Nolte, and a friend, John T. Harris, 8027 Orlando drive, Clayton, from a duck-hunting blind when their skiff capsized in high wind. Harris swam to shore and got help for the younger Nolte, who clung to the overturned boat.

SENATE REVERSES ITS VOTE TO BAR ARGENTINE BEEF

Motion Corrects Roll Call to Break Tie, Permit Navy Purchases — Issue Goes to Conference.

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP).—Reversing a previous vote, the Senate approved today a proposal to permit navy purchases of canned corned beef from Argentina.

The proposal, offered as an amendment to the naval supply bill, failed on a tie vote of 32 to 32 last week. Vice-President Wallace was entertaining at a luncheon and thus was not present to break the tie.

Without objection, the Senate today approved a motion by Senator Barkley (Dem.), Kentucky, the majority leader, to correct the roll call to make the vote 33 to 32 in favor of the amendment. The amendment then was ordered engrossed as a part of the naval bill.

Barkley made his motion after Senator Russell (Dem.), Georgia had told the Senate he had voted for the amendment, but that his vote had not been recorded.

Senator McNary (Rep.), Oregon, the minority leader, agreed that the roll call and the Senate journal "should conform to the truth." McNary said he was satisfied that Russell had voted for the amendment.

Senator Adams (Dem.), Colorado, who had opposed th amendment, referred briefly to Wallace's absence last week.

Adams returned to Wallace's luncheon, and under the mistaken impression that the amendment had been adopted, had told the Vice-President that "the cause of justice has been defeated." Then Wallace decided to remain at the luncheon.

"I am happy that this correction can be made," Adams said with a smile, "because it verifies and justifies the statement I made to the Vice-President."

Senator Taft (Rep.), Ohio, said he could not see how Congress could have passed the appropriation bill constitutionally, as members voted on final passage believing the committee's beef amendment had lost. He said some might have voted against the bill had they known of the error in the vote.

Wallace replied that correction of the journal was the only point before the chamber.

The House has refused to change the present law, which prohibits purchases of navy foods outside the country unless they cannot be bought here.

As a result of the Senate's reversal, the issue now goes to a conference committee. Had the Senate not reversed itself the committee could not have considered the matter.

FORMER ST. LOUISAN DESCRIBES AMSTERDAM-SHANGHAI TRIP

A trip by rail and ship from Amsterdam to Shanghai is described by Mrs. Margaret Bakker, former Washington University student, in a letter to her father, John J. McCue, 7472 Delmar boulevard, University City.

Mrs. Bakker, who last May had a narrow escape from Nazi planes strafing a refugee-clogged road in Northern France, as she, her husband and 4-year-old daughter, Greetje, were trying to reach Paris, explained in the letter that the family was finally able to leave Amsterdam because the Germans wanted to use the foreign offices of the insurance firm for which her husband works, in making a business survey in the Orient.

Entering Russia, she related, all their reading matter, including Mrs. Bakker's diary, was sealed in one suitcase, not to be opened until they left the country. Living costs in Shanghai, she wrote, are up 300 per cent as a result of the war.

ALUMINUM SCRAP PRICES FIXED BY DEFENSE BOARD

Commission Also Announces Such Action Is Imminent for Iron, Steel and Zinc.

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP).—The Defense Commission fixed prices yesterday for scrap and secondary aluminum and said such action was imminent for iron, steel and zinc scrap.

Announcing a price schedule for aluminum scrap, Leon Henderson, director of the price stabilization division, asserted:

"The powers of the Government to place compulsory orders, to condemn or requisition properties, to issue priorities and to use other powers to carry out the defense program will be exerted to the utmost against any person whom we find to be disregarding these selling prices."

The action was the second time the commission has established a price ceiling, the first occasion being on Feb. 17 when prices were pegged for second-hand machine tools. Aluminum and machine tools already have been put under a rationing system by the Office of Production Management.

Henderson said "serious inflationary pressures" existed in the scrap and secondary aluminum market, adding that reports had been received of aluminum scrap sold at 32 cents a pound, almost double the price of the virgin metal.

In saying that schedules were imminent for iron, steel and zinc scrap, Henderson said that "apparently unwarranted price increases in various other industries" had occurred.

"Should these movements continue," he added, "price ceilings will have to be established in these industries. We hope this action will not be necessary, but if it is we are ready to enforce reasonable price limits."

The price schedule for aluminum scrap becomes effective immediately. The scale varies for different types of scrap with a top of 14½ cents a pound for pure clips and cables. The top price for 98 per cent pure aluminum ingots is 17 cents a pound.

KILLER OF WIFE PREFERS LIFE SENTENCE TO NAGGING

She Had Been Berating Him for Failing to Buy Her "Pretty Clothes Like Other Women Have."

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP).—Carl Blom, 49 years old, who pleaded guilty of second-degree murder in the killing, last Dec. 16, of his wife, said today that life imprisonment is preferable to freedom with a nagging wife.

Blom, a chef, said she nagged him constantly, and on the night of the killing berated him for hours for his failure to buy her "pretty clothes like other women have."

The mandatory 20 years to life sentence will be pronounced April 14.

MATSUOKA SEES STALIN, MOLOTOV ON MOSCOW VISIT

Japanese Minister Also Calls on American, British and French Envoys in Soviet Capital.

MOSCOW, March 24 (AP).—Vyacheslav Molotov, Soviet Russia's Premier and Foreign Commissar, received Yosuke Matsuoka, Japanese Foreign Minister, at the Kremlin this afternoon.

Joseph Stalin was present when Molotov received Matsuoka.

Matsuoka's call was described as a courtesy visit. It was his only direct contact with Soviet officials during his short stay here, except for the brief reception at the railroad station yesterday.

Before going to the Kremlin Matsuoka had a private talk with the United States Ambassador to Moscow, Laurence A. Steinhardt. The subject discussed could not be learned.

(Tokyo press reports said Matsuoka also conferred with Sir Stafford Cripps, British Ambassador to Moscow, and Erik Labonne, France's envoy. There was no indication as to the significance of the meetings.)

Matsuoka held a reception at the Japanese Embassy for the ambassadors of Germany, Italy and Japan, and for the ministers of Slovakia, Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria. Later the German Ambassador, Count Friederick Werner von der Schulenburg, gave a luncheon for Matsuoka.

The Soviet official press mentioned his presence in Moscow for the first time today.

Matsuoka granted an interview at the Japanese Embassy.

Called Their Hands.

BOSTON, March 24 (AP).—Eight women became hysterical, Police Sergeant Thomas P. Davin reported, when he peeked over the transom of a room in which they were sitting.

He and other officers assisted them to waiting patrol cars. They were charged with gambling on Sunday. Gavin said they were playing poker.

Like a Phoenix.

PORTLAND, Ore.—Mrs. Clara Guyer would like to have the answer to this:

Fifteen years ago she watched a fire destroy her home. Recently she purchased a book which she identified by markings as one from her modest library which the fire destroyed.

Wild West Style.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal.—Here's a Western Sheriff who still does some lawin' on horseback.

Sheriff L. Shay and his posse, figuring lookouts would be watching the road, took to their saddles for a gambling raid. Following a little-used canyon trail to a fashionable resort, they found roulette wheels and dice games going full blast.

Insult to Injury.

OMAHA.—Mrs. W. L. Frederick flagged a passing car to appeal for help after her purse had been snatched by a youth. But the driver stuck his head out of the window and laughed, then moved down the street where the purse snatcher got in to the car and made his getaway.

$200,000 in Opium Seized in East.

BALTIMORE, March 24 (AP).—Opium valued at between $200,000 and $300,000 was seized today by United States customs agents who frustrated an effort to bring the narcotics ashore from a freighter in a suitcase. A Filipino steward was held on a charge of smuggling.

PLANE WITHOUT PILOT FALLS 1000 FEET TO BUSY HIGHWAY

Runaway Craft Lands Between Two Moving Autos, Bursts Into Flames; No One Hurt.

REVERE, Mass., March 24 (AP).—A pilotless airplane took wing here yesterday, spiraled to an altitude of about 1000 feet and then crashed on the International highway, crowded with motorists.

No one was hurt, although the craft, a light coupe, burst into flames between two moving automobiles. Traffic was tied up for an hour. The plane, being warmed up at Mueller Field, jumped its chock blocks and slipped its mooring lines.

Wife to Join Winant in Two Months

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP).—Mrs. John G. Winant, on her way to her Concord (N. H.) home after a Bermuda vacation, said last night she expected to join her husband, the United States Ambassador to Great Britain, in London, within two months. Her children will not go with her.

To Scrap Crystal Palace Tower.

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP).—The British radio said yesterday the north tower, all that remains of London's famous Crystal Palace after the big fire of 1936, is to be "blown up to provide valuable scrap metal for British munitions factories and also to deprive the enemy of a guide on his bombing expeditions."

. . . AND NOW, FORUM TELLS FIRST-TIMERS HOW

To Get Out With A Low Check!

To 'First-Time' Guests, unfamiliar with our prices: It's really NEWS . . . when a restaurant deliberately tells you how to spend less, instead of secretly hopin' your eyes will run away with your appetite. But, it's good business for us to be different. We really want you to spend only what you like. Simply because, if you go away satisfied, we know you'll come back for more, and More's our dish. Here, at The Forum, you can take only what you like and pay only for what you take. So, you really write your own ticket! Here's how:

1. LOOK IN OUR WINDOWS before you enter The Forum. You'll see several large window streamers and posters, plainly displaying items and prices. They suggest what we think are our biggest-value entree specials—a dozen every day. Make a mental note of the one you like. This is important, because the entree largely sets the price of your meal.

and either a cup of coffee, or a 5c or 6c dessert or a piece of pie. This will cost about a quarter, and you'll get a hot, balanced meal that won't leave you hungry. Where can you get so much good food for so very little money?

2. WATCH THE OVERHEAD SIGNS as you go around our line. You'll note that every item on our counter is plainly priced in the overhead racks above. You can "mentally" add up, as you make your selection—"5c for this, 10c for that, 6c for this—that's 21c, and a penny for the linen napkin." Thus, you can go up, or hold down, as you like.

3. HOW TO SLIP OUT WITH A 17c CHECK: Well, if you really want to economize, how about a big 5c bowl of soup with fresh crackers, a crispy 5c vegetable-vitamin salad and a big, thick, fluffy 7c cut of our famous Lemon Chiffon pie? Doesn't that beat a cold sandwich and a drink? Or, take a whole plate full of hot Chow Mein and Noodles, 17c? Or, a 5c vegetable salad with a full plate of steaming meat balls and spaghetti, 10c? Napkin 1c.

4. HOW TO HOLD TO A TWO-BIT LIMIT: In a general way, take a 5c salad or a soup. Take your choice of one of the two or three low priced, full plate meat specials from 9c to 12c. Pick up a roll and butter

5. HOW TO GET A "DOLLAR DINNER" FOR ABOUT 60c: If you're a big eater, or you're really hungry tomorrow evening—shoot the works. You can afford it, at the Forum! How about one of our most expensive salads? . . . say a big bowl of combination with choice of dressing (10c); fried chicken with country gravy 30c; a big order of our finger-size French fries, (6c); roll and butter, (3c); and polish off with chocolate cream pie, (10c); and coffee (5c). If you can eat all that, it's only 64c!

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 24.—The Cardinals today were defeated by the Detroit Tigers.

The score was 1 to 0.

In the pre-game practice, Don Padgett was behind the plate for the first time this spring. Eddie Lake was nursing a sore arm and Martin Marion continued at shortstop.

The game:

FIRST INNING — TIGERS — Brown tossed out Croucher. Harris flied to Walker. McCosky doubled to right. Greenberg doubled to left, scoring McCosky. York was called out on strikes. ONE RUN.

SECOND — TIGERS — Gehringer grounded to Crespi. Walker, against the fence in left center, leaped up for a one-handed catch of Higgins' drive. Brown threw out Tebbetts.

CARDINALS — Mize grounded to Croucher. Mancuso singled to left. Marion hit into a double play, Gehringer to Croucher to York.

THIRD — TIGERS—Bridges was called out on strikes. Croucher was also called out on strikes. Harris grounded to Warneke.

CARDINALS — Crespi grounded to Croucher. Wyrostek batted for Warneke and popped to Croucher. Gehringer tossed out Brown.

FOURTH — TIGERS—Gornicki went in to pitch for the Cardinals. McCosky popped to Crespi. Greenberg went all the way to second on Brown's low throw to first. York flied to Moore. Gehringer flied to Slaughter.

CARDINALS—Walker flied to Harris. Slaughter popped to Croucher. Moore lined to Higgins.

FIFTH—TIGERS—Higgins flied to Moore. Tebbetts flied to Slaughter. Stainback batted for Bridges and struck out.

CARDINALS—Luther Thomas, a right-hander, went in to pitch for the Tigers. Mize grounded to Gehringer. Mancuso was thrown out by Higgins. Marion popped to Gehringer.

SIXTH—TIGERS—Mesner played third base, Hopp first base for the Cardinals. Mesner tossed out Croucher. Harris grounded to Crespi. McCosky was called out on strikes.

CARDINALS — Croucher tossed out Crespi. Crabtree batted for Gornicki and was out, York to Thomas, who covered first. Mesner singled to left. Walker flied to Harris.

SEVENTH — TIGERS — Nahem went in to pitch for the Cardinals. Greenberg flied deep to Moore. York struck out. Crespi tossed out Gehringer.

CARDINALS—Slaughter was out, York to Thomas, who covered first. Moore lined to Greenberg. Hopp grounded to York.

EIGHTH — TIGERS — Higgins struck out. Tebbetts fouled to Mancuso. Thomas struck out.

CARDINALS—Mancuso grounded to Gehringer. Marion grounded to Higgins. Crespi doubled to right center. Padgett batted for Nahem. Crespi stole third. Padgett struck out.

NINTH—TIGERS — Hutchinson pitched for the Cardinals. Crespi tossed out Croucher. Harris gronded to Crespi. McCosky flied to Walker.

CARDINALS—Mesner was called out on strikes. Walker lined to Gehringer. Slaughter flied to Harris.

Cards' Squad To Be Divided Into Two Teams

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. PETRESBURG, Fla., March 24.—In order to get more of his 38 players into action under competitive conditions, Manager Billy Southworth will split his squad into two teams following Wednesday's game here with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

In the following three days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, one squad, under the direction of Southworth and Coach Mike Gonzales, will oppose Syracuse, Columbus and Rochester at Fort Lauderdale, Hollywood and West Palm Beach, respectively.

Meanwhile the other group which appears to approximate the regular starting team, will oppose Brooklyn here Wednesday, leave here Thursday night as originally scheduled, to oppose Rochester at West Palm Beach Friday and Philadelphia at Miami Beach on Saturday.

The two groups include the following players:

WARES SQUAD: Brown, Walker, Slaughter, Mize, Koy, Moore, Mancuso, W. Cooper, Carman, Marion, Crespi, Kimball, Nahem, Dickson, Vandenberg, Lyons, Warneke, Gornicki, Hutchinson, Roe and Shoun.

GANZALEZ SQUAD: Triplett, Gillenwater, Wyrostek, Lake, Mesner, Crabtree, Hopp, Wilber, Padgett, McGee, Nowak, Surkont, Lanier, Pintar, M. Cooper, Grodzicki, White, Brecheen and Krist.

(Carman and Wilber are extra catchers not on the Cardinal roster.)

The revised and engrossed schedule now reads:

Wednesday—Combined squad opposed Brooklyn here.

Thursday—First team open date here. Second team vs. Syracuse at Fort Lauderdale.

Friday—First team vs. Rochester at West Palm Beach. Second team vs. Columbus at Hollywood.

Saturday—First team vs. Phillies at Miami Beach. Second team vs. Rochester at West Palm Beach.

Sunday—Combined squad vs. Phillies at Miami Beach.

Eddys Capture Muny Soccer Title; Will Play Milwaukee Next

Bob Russell's Eddy Stoker eleven continued its mastery over the Schumachers in a game at Fairgrounds Park yesterday. As a result, the team today hoids the Municipal Soccer Association championship and as a reward will go to Milwaukee next Sunday for a match with the Falk soccer club.

Bill Lyons, a forward, who rode the bench all season because the Eddys had Bill Schuler at center forward, proved the hero in the club's 2-to-0 victory in the deciding contest of the series. He scored both goals for the Fairground representatives.

The victory was the fifth in six starts for the Eddys over their Carondelet rivals of the campaign. The other match ended in a draw. In the battles the new champions scored a dozen goals, whereas the South Siders were stopped with three.

With the Eddys fighting to win the title and the Schumachers to force another match, there was plenty of rough play for the 4218 paying customers and before hostilities were over, four players were removed from the battle because of injuries.

Joe Randazzo and Vincent Forst of the Eddys, and Jerry Julius and Eddie Dueker of the Schumachers were the athletes sent to the sidelines by injuries. Randazzo was hurt more seriously than the others, suffering a sprained ankle. He was taken to DePaul Hospital for an examination, but later released. Forst was groggy from too much punishment in collisions, and Julius reinjured a knee, which kept him out of the previous week's match. Dueker was shaken up.

After a scoreless first half Lyons counted the first Eddy goal soon after the closing period began on a pass from Spica. The final point came after 25 minutes.

John Beckman won the long-distance kicking contest with a boot of 54 yards, with Bob Fuchs and Joe Spica taking second and third.

St. Amrose Is Victor.

St. Ambrose and the Nebcos advanced to the semifinals in the Ozark A. A. U. championship tournament as a result of victories in matches at Fairgrounds Park yesterday morning. St. Ambrose won from the Raftery Eagans, 1 to 0, on a goal by Montani, while the Nebcos eliminated the East St. Louis Burkes, 2-0. Murphy and Finn tallied for the Nebcos. The previous week the two elevens battled to a draw in an overtime match.

Sparta Is Eliminated.

The Chicago Spartas, last season's winners of the Western championship in the national title competition, were eliminated from this year's play, losing to the Gallatin-Dunlevy club of Pittsburgh, 2 goals to 1, in a Western semifinal at Chicago yesterday. In an Eastern semifinal the Brooklyn German-Hungarians won from the Passon-Phillies, 3 to 1.

Jimmy Webb Can't Fight for Weeks.

JIMMY WEBB, St. Louis light-heavy, is wanted for important engagements, one of them here . . . But it will be weeks before he can start the turnstiles clicking . . . His manager, Chris Dundee writes about it:

"Had another tough break with Jimmy, who tore a cartilage in training for the Red Burman bout at Madison Square Garden . . . The doc says it will be at least six weeks before he can don the mittens . . . Tom Packs was here and talked about having Jimmy box in St. Louis . . . Jimmy is more than willing to appear in front of his old friends . . . Am in hopes he can appear there early in May.

"Dr. William Vincent Healey, who is treating Jimmy, told me that Webb (who is 25) will gain 20 pounds in the next two years . . . Was glad to hear that, because two years hence Joe Louis will be on his way out and Jimmy can step right in . . . Just at present, we are interested in the light-heavyweight title."

Conn Not Giving Up His Ring Title.

BILLY CONN is not abdicating his light-heavyweight title just to take a shot at Joe Louis . . . Both Mike Jacobs and Billy's manager confirm this . . . The National Boxing Association seems to have been trying to create a vacancy there . . . The vacancy seems to be in the NBA's thinking department.

And so, unless Billy outpoints Louis and takes the No. 1 heavyweight spot, he'll need that 175-pound title to play with later . . . And Jimmy Webb, Anton Christoforidis and the others in this class must make up their minds they'll have to beat Conn to become champion.

The Ring's Pretty Boys

Here are two of the handsomest boxers in the professional fight field today, any division. At left is Billy Conn, labeled "Pretty Boy Billy" by New York writers. At right is Jimmy Webb of St. Louis, who closely resembles Conn. Billy, who held the light heavyweight title, is temporarily a heavyweight. Webb is No. 2 in the 175-pound class.

Conn Is Shelved, Webb a 'Contender.'

THE National Boxing Association autocratically has named the Greek, Anton Christoforidis, 175-pound champion. . . . That puts Conn out in the cold and makes Jimmy Webb No. 1

Miss Betz Winner In U. S. Tourney

BROOKLINE, Mass., March 24 (AP).—Top-seeded Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, Catherine Hubbell of Dedham and Mrs. George Cabot of Brookline advanced today as first round winners in the opening singles matches of the national women's indoor tennis championship on the covered courts at the Longwood Cricket Club.

Miss Betz, favored heir-apparent to the tennis throne vacated by Alice Marble, defeated Mrs. Joseph Walker of Chestnut Hill, 6-1, 6-0. Miss Hubbell eliminated Mrs. Jean Nash of Weston, 6-3, 6-2, and Mrs. Cabot topped Peggy Howe of Brookline, 6-3, 6-4.

With a small field of 17 entrants, the tournament is expected to end Thursday. Doubles competition begins tomorrow.

Nelson Is Winner in Golf Meet

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 24 (AP).—It is very easy to picture Byron Nelson as a professional ball player. He'd be the man who, in the deciding game of the world series, with the winning run on base, would calmly take two called strikes and pickle the next one into the left field bleachers, being a right-handed hitter.

That's just the way he wins his golf tournaments. Somehow competition under pressure brings forth his best efforts. He never tightens up in such spots, but instead whams the ball for all he's worth.

Because of that he's worth $1200 more today, having won that much as first prize in the $5000 Greensboro Open yesterday. In a perfect Nelson setting—the biggest galleries since Bobby Jones' time, and men ahead and behind him who might win, Byron staged a perfect Nelson finish.

Johnny Bulla already was in with 280. Further back on the course were such threats as Ralph Guldahl, Ben Hogan and Vic Ghezzi. In the same threesome with him was Lawson Little, chopping the back nine's par 36 to 31.

So Nelson stood on the sixteenth tee, and realized he'd have to get two birdies in three holes to insure victory. He got birdies on all three, for a 276 that was two shots better than Ghezzi, four up on Bulla and Guldahl, and six better than Little and Hogan.

Leading scorers and money winners:

Byron Nelson, Toledo, O., 136-70-70—276 ($1200).
Victor Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., 139-71-68—278 ($750).
Johnny Bulla, Greensboro, 137-71-68—280 ($500).
Ralph Guldahl, Chicago, 139-71-70—280 ($500).
Lawson Little, San Francisco, 144-71-67—282 ($325).
Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa., 135-73-74—282 ($325).

No Logical Contenders for Louis' Title, N. B. A. Says

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 24 (AP).—The National Boxing Association in its quarterly ratings announced yesterday, listed Anton Christofordis of Greece as the light-heavyweight champion and moved Billy Conn, the former king of 175-pounders, into the heavyweight division as one of the three outstanding boxers fit to meet Joe Louis.

The association reported that there were no "logical contenders" for Louis' crown. The boxing board groups the best fighters in every weight division as logical contenders, outstanding boxers and worthy of honorable mention. Champions are ordered to fight at least one outstanding boxer six months after winning a title and one logical contender at least once a year.

Max Baer, Conn and Lou Nova were the only three fighters listed in the heavyweight "outstanding" class. Abe Simon, the New Yorker who stayed 13 rounds with Louis at Detroit Friday is given honorable mention along with 11 others.

For the first time in several years the NBA ratings fail to list the names of two former champions, Henry Armstrong and Lou Ambers. Both have retired.

Fred J. Saddy, chairman of the NBA championship committee, declared the National Boxing Association was willing to do anything within its power to settle disputes over recognition of champions. Some of the fighters recognized as champions by the NBA are not recognized in New York and other states which are not members of the association.

"The NBA is very much interested in having but one recognized champion in each division," Saddy said, "and would like to see other claimants settle their dispute in or outside of NBA territory. Our sole aim is for the betterment of boxing."

Scott Field Wins Independent Title

PEORIA, Ill., March 24 (AP).—The Scott Field Flyers of Belleville won the State independent basketball championship Saturday night, defeating Sterns Furniture of Springfield, 36 to 32, in the tournament finals.

The Caterpillar Diesels of Peoria took third place with a 42-to-35 victory over Ellsworth Clippers of Bloomington.

Simon Has Broken Bone in His Hand

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP).—JIMMY JOHNSTON, manager of Heavyweight Abe Simon, announced last night that an examination by the fighter's physician had revealed the fracture of a small bone in Simon's right hand. The injured hand was immediately placed in a cast.

Johnston disclosed that Simon had complained of a pain in the hand before last Friday's bout with Champion Joe Louis at Detroit, but that neither had regarded the pain as serious and had decided to say nothing about it.

He said further examinations and X-rays would be made, but that at the moment he did not think the injury would keep Simon from going through with his return bout with Louis here May 16.

Batting Is Brownies' Big Worry

By J. Roy Stockton
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 24.—Manager Fred Haney sent the Browns through their longest workout of the spring today and most of the three-hour drill was devoted to batting practice. Weak hitting against the Bees in the last two exhibition games caused the Brownie manager to order the long session at the plate.

John Whitehead, recovered from the measles, was in uniform.

Haney thinks that while everybody seems to be talking about Brownie pitching, the hurling isn't the big thing the club may find itself worrying about.

And what might the main source of worry be then?

"There are three men on this club who have to hit," Haney replied.

And who might the three be?

"Left field, third base and first base," was the answer. "You see, they can all hit. Clift has power, Radcliff was a great hitter last year. McQuinn went below his best form. And I'm concerned more about the hitting of those three men than I am about the pitching. We have pitchers who will do a fair job. Take that Saturday game with the Bees. Our pitching was good enough to win. But we didn't hit."

But why was Manager Haney concerned this year about those three men?

"We're going to see better pitching," was the reply. "Last year the other clubs didn't bother to send their best pitchers against us. We weren't going anywhere. But now the other clubs will send their Fellers against us. And that's why I'm worrying more about our hitting than I am about our pitching."

The series with the Bees will be resumed tomorrow at Austin, with Jack Kramer and Bob Harris drawing the pitching assignment for the Browns. Wesley Ferrell and Frank Lamanna are scheduled to work for the Bees.

High School Girls Beat Denver Team In Women's Baskets

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 24 (AP)—An Okarche (Ok.) team of high school girls defeated the Denver Red Shields, 52 to 22, today in the first game of the 1941 National Women's A. A. U. basketball tournament.

Start of the tourney was delayed by the last-minute withdrawals of the Galveston (Tex.) Anicos and the Jacksonville (Fla.) Navalettes. The Galveston team was 1939 champion.

Failure of the two teams to appear sent the Des Moines (Ia.) Thompsons and the Pittsburgh (Pa.) Westinghouse sextet into the second round.

Former Harvard Fencer Wins City Saber Tourney

Winning all of his bouts in a field of eight, Robert O. Miller, a former Harvard fencer, captured the city saber championship yesterday in a tournament at the St. Louis Fencing Center.

Lon O. Hocker Jr., midwest champion, was second, and Charles Morgan placed third.

Five Out of Six for Lewis

But Bucky Harris Is Depressed Because He May Lose Slugging Third Sacker to Army.

LEESBURG, Fla., March 24 (AP).—Manager Bucky Harris of the Washington Senators was depressed today at possibility of losing Third Baseman Buddy Lewis to the army. Lewis banged out five hits in six trips yesterday as the Nats whaled the Detroit Tigers, 15-5.

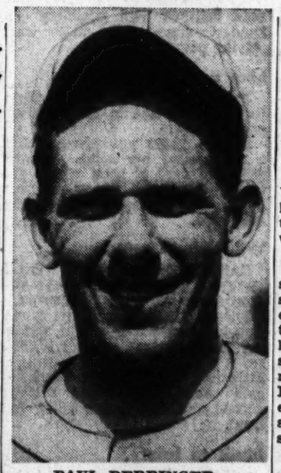
MIAMI, Fla. — Shortstop Bill Jurges is back in a New York Giant uniform with an encouraging report from the Mayo Clinic on the dizzy spells that have plagued him since he was beaned last summer. He said he received 14 injections and the doctors told him to resume practice and that the dizziness probably would not return.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Dixie Parsons, one of the Detroit Tigers' reserve catchers, was expected in camp this week from Beaumont, Tex., where he has been training while an injured finger on his left hand healed.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—Paul Derringer, the Cincinnati Reds' pitching dean who was hit in the groin by a liner last week, will not accompany the club to Cuba for an exhibition series. He said he will remain at his home in Sarasota until the latter part of the week and then go to Miami to work out with the Phillies until the Reds return.

SARASOTA, Fla. — Manager Joe Cronin is hoping the Boston Red Sox may finally realize some of the pitching the club always has hoped for from Jack Wilson. He worked six innings against Louisville and allowed only three hits.

ONTARIO, Cal.—Alf Anderson, rookie shortstop from Atlanta, has clinched a berth with the Pittsburgh Pirates, says Manager Frank Frisch. He held down Arky against each other.



PAUL DERRINGER.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—Jack Russell, veteran big league pitcher, showed up at the Brooklyn Dodgers' camp and declared, "I see by the papers that I'm on the Brooklyn club, so I thought I'd better show up here." The Dodgers announced Saturday they had hired Russell as a batting practice pitcher, but he said the first he knew about it was when he saw the story in print.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Eddie Collins Jr., son of the one-time member of Connie Mack's famous $100,000 infield, is bolstering his bid for a regular job with the Philadelphia Athletics by his good hitting. He obtained a double, a single and a base on balls against Pittsburgh.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—The Cleveland Indians already are looking forward to their tour northward with the New York Giants. They beat the Terrymen, 2-1, to square their eight-year spring rivalry with the Giants at 43 victories apiece. The teams have a dozen games left against each other.

Chess League Has Unbeaten Champion For First Time

Eric Marchand scored his eighth straight victory without a defeat to become champion of the St. Louis Chess League Saturday night at the Missouri Athletic Club as he defeated C. M. Burton in 35 moves of a queen's pawn game. This was the first time in the league history that a player won all of his games.

L. W. Haller drew with R. S. Scrivener in 40 moves of a Scillian defense to finish in second place. His record was six victories and two defeats.

Goal Judge Says That Carbol Batted Disc Into Net With His Hand — Hearing Today.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 24.—The St. Louis Flyers have advanced to th. final round of the American Hockey Association playoffs, but a protest cloud hung over the victory today. St. Paul, beaten 4 to 1 by the Flyers in the fourth game of the series here last night, protested that the first St. Louis goal, by Nakina Smith, actually had been propelled into the net by the hand of Leo Carbol.

This happened in the second period, while the Saints were leading, 1 to 0, on Joe Bretto's sizzler from the blue line. Referee Stan Swain said the goal counted, but the Saints' protest was backed up by the statement of goal judge, Clarence Weber, who reported that Carbol had batted the puck into the net without Nakina touching it.

Not only did the Saints protest loudly, but the St. Paul manager, Perk Galbraith, ran onto the ice to join in the complaint and the protests to Swain gained such vehemence that police officers came onto the ice to protect him. Galbraith was taken back to his bench by an officer and the police also guarded Swain and linesman Wilf Peltier on the two occasions they went to the dressing room.

Fans Are Aroused.

Both times, however, fans tried to punch the referee. Feeling was high and the fans were extremely antagonistic although the crowd was only about 1500. The small attendance was due to the belief that the natural ice would be soft as it was last Thursday, when the Saints prolonged the series by winning, 2 to 1. The skating surface was much better, being helped by the opening of two great doorways at either end of the Hippodrome, thus improving the ice and freezing the fans.

After the game was tied up, Nig Brenneman counted a pretty goal to put St. Louis ahead, stick-handling around two Saints, shooting while hampered by another pair and then ripping in to slash home his own rebound.

Goalie Benny Grant of the Saints, a sensational performer all through the playoffs, continued in that role, but with five St. Paul forwards on the ice paying no attention to defense, Cliff Barton scored the clincher at the 17-minute mark and put in another only 50 seconds later.

The protest is to be decided today, President Herman Peterson of the Saints planning to have a conference with League President George Higgins.

Kansas City Is Victor.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 24 (AP).—Kansas City won its second straight contest from Minneapolis in the American Hockey Association semifinal playoff last night, 4 to 2, with all the thrills saved until the final period.

Billy Mosienko, freshman winger for the Americans, picked up a loose puck in front of his own net and outskated the Miller defenseman for a solo tally to open the frame.

That touched off a series of squabbles that wound up with George Agar, Miller center, hopping over the boards to pummel a spectator. Previously Agar and Garnie Betts, husky Kansas City winger, swung sticks. Neither altercation drew a penalty.

The two teams go North to finish the best-three-out-of-five series, with the third game scheduled for the Miller rink tomorrow night.

Kansas City Is Victor.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 24 (AP).—Kansas City won its second straight contest from Minneapolis in the American Hockey Association semifinal playoff last night, 4 to 2, with all the thrills saved until the final period.

Billy Mosienko, freshman winger for the Americans, picked up a loose puck in front of his own net and outskated the Miller defenseman for a solo tally to open the frame.

That touched off a series of squabbles that wound up with George Agar, Miller center, hopping over the boards to pummel a spectator. Previously Agar and Garnie Betts, husky Kansas City winger, swung sticks. Neither altercation drew a penalty.

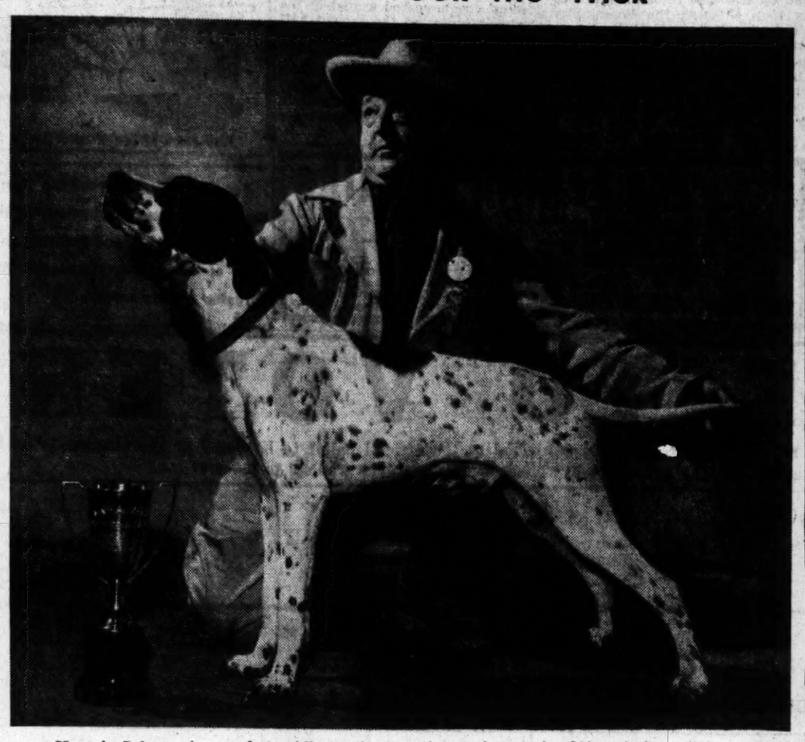
The two teams go North to finish the best-three-out-of-five series, with the third game scheduled for the Miller rink tomorrow night.

Chess League Has Unbeaten Champion For First Time

Eric Marchand scored his eighth straight victory without a defeat to become champion of the St. Louis Chess League Saturday night at the Missouri Athletic Club as he defeated C. M. Burton in 35 moves of a queen's pawn game. This was the first time in the league history that a player won all of his games.

L. W. Haller drew with R. S. Scrivener in 40 moves of a Scillian defense to finish in second place. His record was six victories and two defeats.

This Joker Took the Trick



Here is Joker, winner of the All-age shooting-dog stake at the Mineral Area field trials, held at Mine LaMotte Domaine. With him is F. A. Stanley of Ferguson, his owner.

Birds Scarce as Joker Wins All-Age Field Trial

By F. Marvin Plake

Names and numbers didn't mean a thing in the all-age shooting dog stake of the Mineral Area Field Trials. It was serious business with pointer Joker when he ranged across the course at Mine La Motte Domaine yesterday and neither that moniker nor the number "13" drawn for him by the Field Trial Committee could jinx him out of winning first place for owner F. A. Stanley of Ferguson. Twenty-six canine contestants made this the largest stake of its kind ever run in Missouri.

During the two days of running the 64 dogs in the puppy, derby and all-age stakes, on only three occasions did birds actually figure in aiding Judges Sam Richeson of Potosi and Elmer Huber of Perryville in making a decision. None of yesterday's winners scored a "find" in contrast to the 24 bevies located during last fall's two-day trial.

Officers of the club gave as the reason for the bird scarcity the fact that last fall's hunters from nearby communities took advantage of what was thought to be the last year of shooting on the Domaine, owned by a mining company, and cleaned out the coveys.

Only Demerit Ignored.

In winning the stake, Joker handled perfectly to the commands of Stanley. Birdy places were quickly and thoroughly hunted and in general an excellent ground heat was turned in.

The only mark against the big black and white pointer was that he hurried through some territory at the very start of his first cast from which birds were flushed shortly afterward by the gallery.

Because scenting conditions were so poor due to dryness, the judges overlooked this miss on the basis of an otherwise excellent performance.

In second and third places were the setter bracemates Drake's Misty Lou, owned by John J. Holtman, Belleville, Ill., and Ben's Momoney Sue, owned by J. Ernest Davis, Festus. These two flashy performing little females caught the eye of the gallery and apparently of the judges, too, at their first cast. Their principle attributes were speed, ranging, easy handling and independence.

Both dogs quartered about 40 acres of unproductive ground. Though they searched the most likely bird-spots, the course over which they ran was in general very poor. It was rather barren with no trees, draws or brush to speak of.

Only Find a Woodcock.

The only find of the day was a woodcock located by setter Bob's Lady Esther, winner of Saturday's derby stake and owned by Bob Taylor, St. Louis. In working the woodcock along a string of undergrowth, Lady duplicated her first day's performance. However, being a young dog, she is not yet well enough trained for handling to put her in a class with the all-ages.

After seemingly having one of the three places clinched, Earl Hale's pointer Itcholot, handled by Bob Taylor, missed a scent on a covey of quail which flushed almost under his nose. Not content with dampening the hopes of only one handler in the brace, Walter Johnson's setter Drakestone chased the flying birds and so two dogs which for the first 25 of a 30-minute brace gave indications of placing, disqualified themselves.

Results of the two-day trial:

PUPPY STAKES—(20 entrants): Won by pointer Village Cut Up, Jesse Heck and Tom Bryant, Farmington; second, setter, Doc's Pallacho Mike, B. S. Rutherford, Sullivan; third, pointer Zombie, Dr. L. B. Mowry, St. Louis.

DERBY STAKE—(18 entrants): Won by setter Bob's Lady Esther, Bob Taylor, St. Louis; second, pointer Professor Bill, A. M. Hawn, Farmington; third, pointer McClard's Tom Boy, Boots Barton and Ollie McClard.

ALL-AGE SHOOTING DOG STAKE—(26 entrants): Won by pointer Joker, F. A. Stanley, Ferguson; second, setter Drake's Misty Lou, John J. Holtman, Belleville, Ill.; third, setter Ben's Momoney Sue, J. Ernest Davis, Festus.

At Long, Cadet, won member's award with setter Queen in all-age stake.

Budweiser Bowler High but His Team Loses to Hermanns

Although Erv Brunsmann rolled a high three of 668 for the evening's play, the Budweiser bowling team of which he is a member was defeated, 2-1, by the Hermanns in the All-Star League last night at St. Anthony alleys. Another Budweiser bowler, Art Scheer, had a high single of 257.

Other matches went by the same score, the Minnegerodes defeating the Silver Seals, the Say It With Flowers trimming the Mary Zuckers and the Allhoffs beating the Busieks.

Centralia's Coach Will Not Resign

CENTRALIA, Ill., March 24 (AP).—O. M. Corbell, principal of the Centralia High School, declared yesterday there was "no foundation" for rumors that A. L. Trout would resign as basketball coach here.

A report carried by a Chicago paper (Tribune) that Trout would step out and be succeeded by Byron Bozarth, Granite City coach, brought angry protests from many Centralia residents as they turned out to welcome the Redbird team home from the State tournament at Champaign.

Bauer Is New Leader In Bowling

Topping the previous leader by 16 pins, Elmer Bauer took over the lead in the Greater St. Louis Bowling Association handicap tournament yesterday when he rolled 775, including an 81 handicap, at Rogers Recreation.

Bauer had game scores of 235, 183 and 275. The lead had been held for several weeks by Joe Hofer.

Other changes in the singles saw Frank Rother move into a fourth-place tie with John Mills at 720, F. Ramasere take sixth with 714 and Jack Zander eighth with 712. Next in line came Leroy Meyers and Jack Kollar Jr. with 711 and 710.

George Telthorst and Joe Ries rolled 1373 to place second in the doubles, only five pins behind the leaders, George Kohnle and John Forster.

The Munns team hung up the best score in the event at Midtown alleys, a 3109 for eighth place. The Suermans had 3104 for tenth.

Catholic Basket Event This Week

CHICAGO, March 24 (AP).—Central Catholic of Fort Wayne, Ind., begins its bid for a third straight national Catholic high school basketball championship Wednesday night against Superior (Wis.) Catholic High, on Loyola University floor.

This will be the second game of the first round in the annual tournament which the Fort Wayne boys have won the past two years. The opener pits St. George of Evanston, Ill., and Central Catholic of Hammond, Ind.

First-round games among the 32 entrants continue until mid-morning Friday and will be followed immediately by the second round. The championship game is scheduled for next Sunday night.

Long Island, Ohio Play in Title Game

NEW YORK, March 23 (AP).—Long Island University and Ohio University, whose basketball styles are as far apart as the districts they represent, clash tonight in the final game of the intercollegiate invitation basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden.

With every reserved seat already sold, the prospect is that the crowd will rival the Garden record of 18,357, established Saturday when L. I. U. shattered Seton Hall's 43-game winning streak, 49-26, and Ohio U. turned back City College, 45-43.

Rogers Top St. Louisans In A. B. C.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 24 (AP).—Ned Day, national match champion, had his day in the American Bowling Congress tourney here yesterday.

The Milwaukee stylist, who tops the nation's keglers over a 10-year period with a mark of 202.85, injected a dramatic punch into the national pin classic yesterday as he and Elmer Koch battered 1307 pins to take the doubles lead from their fellow townsmen—Hilla Kallas and Frank Caravella, who had paced the parade with 1289.

More than 5000 fans jammed the St. Paul Auditorium to see Kingpin Day, Frank Marino, the retired, undefeated match champion, who was rolling on the same alleys with his protege; Frank Benkovic, A. B. C. record holder, and other bowling headliners.

The match king followed his 656 double series with a 652 singles total, giving him a 1308 total for the two events. He will return to compete in the five-man event April 3.

Russell Gersonde, Milwaukee, hit 694 on games of 224-225-245 to take fifth in the singles with 694. Marino, former national match king, clouted 667.

Only one major change occurred in the team event last night, Mary's Restaurant, Gary, Ind., hitting 2877 for fifth place.

The Rogers Recreations paced the St. Louis teams with a 2782 total. Elmer Mocker rolled up a sizzling 675 total on games of 218-226-231.

St. Paul Bowlers Beat Jackson, Day

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 24 (AP). —George Dodor and Archie Kasal, St. Paul bowlers, bested Ned Day and Lowell Jackson of St. Louis in an exhibition match at the Midway alleys yesterday, 2648 to 2375.

The defeat marked the third straight for the Day-Jackson team by Twin Cities bowlers in exhibition encounters the last two days. Ossie Ragogna and John Godbout of St. Paul defeated Day and Jackson Saturday afternoon and Ed Mady and Einar Wick of Minneapolis, also turned the trick.

Dodor had the best six-game total of the match, shooting 1339. He went below 200 on only one game.

Hottest fight manager in the biz today is JIMMY JOHNSTON, New York's "boy bandit." . . . In four years, he has ballyhooed two of his meal tickets into three world title shots . . . and he has one—maybe two—more coming up. . . . ABE SIMON, who amazed nearly everyone with his gamestand against Joe Louis last week, is assured of a return go. . . . And there is talk that BOB PASTOR, who came out of the boxing boneyard to upset Turkey Thompson on the coast, may get his third fling at Louis. . . . If not, he'll get a chance to avenge last June's knockout by Billy Conn, which might draw even more than a Louis bout.

St. Louis Five Wins Y. M. H. A. Tourney Final

A game-winning free throw by Benny Perlman gave the St. Louis Y. M. H. A. basketball team the Western division title in the Jewish Welfare Board's Midwest tournament and the right to meet the Eastern division representative in a national elimination game later.

Perlman's shot defeated the Kansas City team in the tourney final here last night at the Y. M. H. A., 33 to 32. He was fouled just as the contest ended, missed the first of two free throws awarded him but sank the second.

The game was extremely close, St. Louis leading at the half, 19 to 18, and at no time did either team have more than a three-point advantage.

Isadore (Dizzy) Bernstein led the St. Louis club in scoring with 10 points. Henry Holtzman and Perlman each had six. Hy Levy of Kansas City counted 14.

In a preliminary game, Louisville defeated Milwaukee, 50-40, for the consolation title.

St. Clair Trial April 19.

The St. Clair (Mo.) Pointer and Setter Club will hold a field trial April 19-20 at St. Clair. The stakes to be run include the junior puppy, senior puppy, derby and all-age shooting dog events. A cup will be given every dog placing in the stakes, according to Secretary L. G. Dogge.

131 Horses Named for "Belmont"

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP).—The seventy-third running of the rich Belmont Stakes at Belmont Park, June 7, has attracted 131 three-year-olds, including practically all the leading juveniles of last year and important stake winners of the winter season.

The ranking aspirants for fortune and glory in the mile and a half race include Warren Wright's Whirlaway, No. 1 two-year-old of 1940; Charles S. Howard's Porter's Cap, winner of the $50,000 Santa Anita Derby; Robert J. Kleberg Jr.'s Dispose, victor in the Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah Park; Parker Corning's Attention, Mrs. Payne Whitney's Monday Lunch, Cleveland Putman's Swain, Crispin Oglebay's Ocean Blue, Alfred G. Vanderbilt's New World and Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Bold Irishman.

The only top-notchers missing are R. G. Martin's Our Boots, Belmont Futurity winner of 1940, and Ogden Phipps' King Cole, a fast son of Pharamond II in Trainer James Fitzsimmons' barn.

The Belmont, won last year by E. R. Bradley's Bimelech, will be the last race of the American turf's mythical "triple crown." The other two events are the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, both of which have attracted many of the same entries.

Belmont Park opens its four-week meeting May 12.

All-Stars Defeat Botafogo Eleven

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP).—An all-star soccer team selected from the Brooklyn Hispanos, St. Mary's Celtics and New York Americans of the American League defeated an invading eleven from Botafogo, Brazil, 3 to 1, yesterday at Triboro Stadium.

"logical contender." . . . But the NBA has tried before to create a champion by edict.

In fact, Sammy Angott, its lightweight champion, is one of them. . . . Nobody else recognizes Sammy, everybody favoring Lew Jenkins, who won Lou Ambers' crown in the ring.

Nor will the boxing world accept Christoforidis until Conn either quits the class or is beaten.

The NBA's report on the heavyweight division shows to what a lamentable state that group has sunk. . . . It fails to list the "best ten" candidates for Louis' crown. . . . It mentions only three names—Max Baer, Lou Nova and Billy Conn.

Soon there will be only two, because early in April Nova and Baer will battle again. . . . The survivor—particularly if it happens to be Nova—will get a September date with Louis, if Joe hasn't been beaten by that time.

* * *

There's little reason to believe that Nova won't repeat the beating he gave Baer in a previous fight. Max is now 32 and hasn't fought enough to keep warm lately. . . . But Nova, recovered from a long illness, likewise may be rusty.

In any case the "white hope" outlook is far from rosy.

Do You Remember Panama Al When—?

PANAMA AL BROWN—remember him? A long stringbean of a Negro who nearly six feet in height still boxed in the bantamweight class. . . . And he held the title for four years. Well, Al recently pleaded guilty to sniffing or otherwise inhaling "snow," heroin or what have you. . . . He also said he peddled the stuff, too.

Panama told the Judge that in his later fights he was punished so badly that he took to narcotics . . . and has been at it ever since, his age now being 38. . . . Panama must have had a whiff or two when he told His Honor that he had invested $280,000 of his earnings in unoccupied France. . . . You have to have some sort of uplift to figure a bantamweight of 15 years ago winning that kind of spinach. . . . In Europe when Al fought most of his big fights they paid in francs at 30 or more for the dollar.

The Negro really was a fine, courageous fighter and boxed in many of the European capitals.

Alf Engen and Mrs. Fraser Are Ski Champions

SUN VALLEY, Idaho, March 24 (AP).—Alf Engen, the Sun Valley invincible, again demonstrated his allround skiing proficiency yesterday by soaring to first place in jumping and winning the national four-event combined championships for the second consecutive year.

The former Salt Lake City flyer coupled the jump title with a third in cross-country, fifth in downhill and fourth in slalom for a point total of 374.9 out of a possible 400.

Gretchen Fraser of Denver, Colo., carried off the women's championship in the fifth annual Harriman Cup races with a total for downhill and slalom of 199. In this competition, the contestant with the lowest number of points won.

On Mrs. Fraser's heels was little Nancy Reynolds of Montclair, N. J., who repeated her national slalom triumph of last year with a combined time of 123.4 seconds for two runs down the quartermile Dollar Mountain course. Her points in the cup competition totaled 203.

Engen, who made two jumps of 136 and 134 feet for a point total of 215.4 in winning that event, was slowed by unfavorable snow conditions on the Ruud Mountain hill.

Gordon Wren of Salt Lake City and Steamboat Springs, Colo., third in the jumps with 205.8 points, was second in four-way competition with a total of 340.4. Only a fraction of a point behind in the four-way was Leon Goodman of Sun Valley and McCall, Idaho, 340.1.

Ramblers Capture First-Half Title In Rugby League

Led by Pete Salznich, the Ramblers captured the first-half title in the Missouri Rugby Association and set a league record for scoring as they defeated the Washington University Medics, 31-3, in the second game of the weekly double-header yesterday afternoon on the Drill Grounds at Forest Park. In the first game the Light Brigade took over second place by disposing of the Puritans, 19 to 0.

Salznich contributed 13 points, with three goals and two conversions to head the scorers for the afternoon, while Denny Cochran and Frank Boro, former St. Louis U. football stars, came up with two goals apiece for six points. Gene Brew, formerly of Washington U., also had two goals for the team's final six points. Ken Robins, Medics' coach, scored a goal in the closing minutes of the second half to keep his team from being shut out.

The Ramblers, by virtue of their victory, will play a Chicago rugby team at the Public Schools Stadium April 6 in a war benefit game, for aid to Britain.

INSTRUCTIONS TO VOTERS

On receipt of his ballot the voter shall forthwith, and without leaving the enclosed space, retire alone to one of the voting booths so provided, and shall prepare his ballot for voting in the following manner: Should the voter desire to vote a "straight" party ticket he shall place a cross (X) mark in the circle immediately below the party name. If the voter desires to vote for one or more candidates on more than one party ticket, by voting what is commonly called a "split ticket" he may place a cross (X) mark in the circle immediately below one party name and mark cross (X) marks in the squares at the left of the names of candidates on other tickets for whom he wishes to vote. If the voter desires to vote for one or more candidates whose name or names do not appear on the printed ballot, he may do so by drawing a line through the printed name of candidate for such office, and writing below such canceled name the name of person for whom he desires to vote, and placing a cross mark in the square at the left of such name. The square so marked shall take precedence over the cross marked in the circle. Where there are two or more candidates for like office in a group a cross (X) mark in the square to the left of a candidate's name, automatically votes against the candidate whose name appears within the same horizontal lines in the column under the circle in which appears the cross (X) mark unless the voter indicates another candidate, to be voted against by drawing a line through such candidate's name. All candidates of the party whose circle is marked shall be counted as voted for excepting where squares are crossed preceding the names of the candidates in other columns; if two or more candidates for the same office are thus designated, neither shall be counted. If the cross (X) is not placed in the circle immediately below the party name at the head of the column, but does appear in the squares opposite the various candidates' names, then only these names shall be counted for, and none other. A cross (X) mark is any line crossing any other line at any angle within the voting space, and no ballot shall be declared void because a cross (X) mark therein is irregular in form. It shall not be lawful to deface or tear a ballot in any manner nor to erase any printed name "except as provided above in this section," figure, word or letter therefrom, nor to erase any mark made thereon by such voter, nor leave in the folded ballot any other paper or any article. If the voter deface or tear a ballot, or wrongly mark the name or make an erasure therein, he may obtain one additional ballot on returning to the ballot clerk the one so defaced or wrongly marked. A ballot placed in the ballot box without any marks shall not be counted. Ballots shall be counted only for the person for whom the marks thereon are applicable; when a voter shall place a mark against two or more names for the same office, and only one candidate is to be chosen for the office none of the candidates shall be deemed to have been voted for and the ballot shall not be counted for either such candidate. Before leaving the booth the voter shall fold his ballot in such a manner as to conceal his marks thereon. He shall mark his ballot without undue delay. He shall then hand the ballot to the judge of election selected to take ballots, who shall number the ballot and deposit it in the ballot box. The voter shall quit and leave said enclosed place as soon as possible. (Enacted 1933.)

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the undersigned, composing the Board of Election Commissioners for the City of St. Louis, Missouri, have caused this notice to be signed and the official seal of the office affixed at office in St. Louis, this 24th day of March, 1941.

RELEASE OF HEA DARING NAZI MO ATLANTIC LANES

Germans Risking Two B tensify War at Sea — Ships Which Can Out- Them, but Coming to

By MAJOR GEORGE F

Author of "The Ramparts We Watch"

At the risk of over-simplification, it basic elements of the war's strate Some months ago I pointed out t the decisive battle of the war; that the of approach would prove the decisive Britain would resolve itself into three b the battle of transportation and the ba that with American participation, the the battle of production in the long r attempt first of all to win the battle gained a partial or complete success, th the island of Great Britain by comb efforts in the battle of transportation combined submarine and air attacks attacks on the Western ports which convoys, and the appearance on the units of the German fleet—a well-pl Britain off from American and empire

All of these factors have now appeared. U-boats, aided by long-range aircraft, are stepping up the British losses in tonnage from the winter's weekly averages. Heavy attacks have been made in succession on Glasgow, Liverpool, Bristol and Plymouth. Now we have word that two German battle cruisers, the Scharnhorst and the Gneisenau, are operating in the North Atlantic sea lanes, while previously we had word of a heavy cruiser of the Hipper class being in Brest after attacking a convoy off Madeira.

Germans Accept Risks.

We may, therefore, assume that the first phase of the battle of transportation is now in full swing. The appearance of the battle-cruisers is particularly significant. The Germans, a people whose military thinking is dominated by land rather than maritime considerations, are quite cold-blooded about risking ships. They do not have the seaman's hesitations which checked the British, for example, in the naval attacks on the Dardanelles in March, 1915. A German warship is simply a national asset to be used in such manner as the national interest may require. They did not hesitate to throw away great quantities of naval tonnage in order to emplace themselves in Norway. They will not hesitate to throw away the rest of their surface fleet in order to cut the sea communications of Britain for a sufficient period of time to enable their other measures to have a chance of success.

But with all that, they recognize that a battleship or a battle-cruiser is an expensive and valuable unit which cannot quickly be replaced. They have held their heavy ships in reserve against just such a time of need as the present. They know full well that their surface fleet would have no chance in a straight-out fight with the British home fleet. Their surface vessels can be of use to them only in raiding British convoys, and then only temporarily, only until they are caught. Neither the Scharnhorst nor the Gneisenau could stand up against any of the five British capital ships which can catch them—the King George V., Prince of Wales, Hood, Renown and Repulse.

When the German battleships put to sea, every officer and man aboard them must have known the sort of risk he was taking and the excellent chances that he would never return. Even if one raiding voyage be temporarily completed, the same risks must be faced on the next, and no warship can remain indefinitely at sea.

Showdown Decision.

Hence the very fact that the Germans have now decided to risk their irreplaceable capital ships for gains which, while they may be great, can be but temporary, suggests most strongly that the German high command has decided that the time has come to push the battle of transportation to a showdown. It suggests that they may mean to follow up initial successes with still further raids by yet other ships—they have two 35,000-ton battleships, two of the so-called pocket battleships, a few cruisers and at least one if not two new and heavily armed aircraft carriers—until so much damage has been done as to weaken seriously the British power and perhaps, they may hope, the British will to resist. They may follow, if these successes are sufficient, the battle of combat, the stepping up of the air effort followed by invasion attempts.

Yet there are certain other factors which ought also to be weighed before arriving at any hard-and-fast conclusions. The moral effect of these German raids may be intended not only to impress the British and perhaps ourselves, but also to suggest to Foreign Minister Matsuoka that Germany is a strong and vigorous sea-power whose favor Japan will do well to court. The Germans may hope to draw some of our naval strength from the Pacific to the Atlantic, thus further impressing Japan. They may hope to draw off British warships from the South Atlantic, enabling raiders in those parts to operate more freely and to enable German merchant ships in South American ports to get to sea either to refuel the raiders or to gain more friendly shel-

RELEASE OF HEAVY RAIDERS DARING NAZI MOVE TO CLOSE ATLANTIC LANES, ELIOT SAYS

Germans Risking Two Battle-Cruisers to Intensify War at Sea — British Have Five Ships Which Can Out-Run and Out-Fight Them, but Coming to Grips Is Problem.

By MAJOR GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT

Author of "The Ramparts We Watch" and "Bombs Bursting in Air."

AT the risk of over-simplification, it may be as well to review the basic elements of the war's strategy in the light of current events. Some months ago I pointed out that the Battle of Britain was the decisive battle of the war; that the British Isles and their waters of approach would prove the decisive area, and that the Battle of Britain would resolve itself into three battles, the battle of production, the battle of transportation and the battle of combat. I pointed out that with American participation, the Germans were certain to lose the battle of production in the long run; that they would, therefore, attempt first of all to win the battle of transportation, and if they gained a partial or complete success, they would then try to overwhelm the island of Great Britain by combat; further, that their initial efforts in the battle of transportation would be greatly intensified by combined submarine and air attacks on British shippng, bombing attacks on the Western ports which alone are now open for ocean convoys, and the appearance on the sea lanes of powerful surface units of the German fleet—a well-planned, vigorous effort to cut Britain off from American and empire support.

All of these factors have now appeared. U-boats, aided by long-range aircraft, are stepping up the British losses in tonnage from the winter's weekly averages. Heavy attacks have been made in succession on Glasgow, Liverpool, Bristol and Plymouth. Now we have word that two German battle cruisers, the Scharnhorst and the Gneisenau, are operating in the North Atlantic sea lanes, while previously we had word of a heavy cruiser of the Hipper class being in Brest after attacking a convoy off Madeira.

Germans Accept Risks.

We may, therefore, assume that the first phase of the battle of transportation is now in full swing. The appearance of the battle-cruisers is particularly significant. The Germans, a people whose military thinking is dominated by land rather than maritime considerations, are quite cold-blooded about risking ships. They do not have the seaman's hesitations which checked the British, for example, in the naval attacks on the Dardanelles in March, 1915. They have held their heavy ships in reserve against just such a time of need as the present. They know full well that their surface fleet would have no chance in a straight-out fight with the British home fleet. Their surface vessels can be of use to them only in raiding British convoys, and then only temporarily, only until they are caught. Showdown Decision.

Hence the very fact that the Germans have now decided to risk their irreplaceable capital ships for gains which, while they may be great, can be but temporary, suggests most strongly that the German high command has decided that the time has come to push the battle of transportation to a showdown. It suggests that they may mean to follow up initial successes with still further raids by yet other ships—they have two 35,000-ton battleships, two of the so-called pocket battleships, a few cruisers and at least one if not two new and heavily armed aircraft carriers—until so much damage has been done as to weaken seriously the British power and perhaps, they may hope, the British will to resist. They may follow, if these successes are sufficient, the battle of combat, the stepping up of the air effort followed by invasion attempts.

Yet there are certain other factors which ought also to be weighed before arriving at any hard-and-fast conclusions. The moral effect of these German raids may be intended not only to impress the British and perhaps ourselves, but also to suggest to Foreign Minister Matsuoka that Germany is a strong and vigorous sea-power whose favor Japan will do well to court. The Germans may hope to draw some of our naval strength from the Pacific to the Atlantic, thus further impressing Japan. They may hope to draw off British warships from the South Atlantic, enabling raiders in those parts to operate more freely and to enable German merchant ships in South American ports to get to sea either to refuel the raiders or to gain more friendly shelter. They may wish to discourage American sentiment for convoy by American warships in the North Atlantic. Any or all these considerations may have moved them to the decision to send out the Scharnhorst and the Gneisenau, but none seems quite sufficient to justify the risk of losing two 26,000-ton battle cruisers and several thousand highly trained officers and men.

British Stake.

A great deal may depend, in view of all the foregoing considerations, on the success of the British in finding these raiders and bringing them to action with superior forces. The moral effects hoped for by the Germans would recoil on themselves if the two raiders or even one of them were to be promptly found and destroyed by British warships. The risks of this are considerable, for the ships are operating in waters where the British have many small craft which can at least report the presence of the raiders; they must eventually return to port through waters patrolled by British aircraft, and even such injury as a single bomb hit or torpedo hit might produce would be likely to be fatal in the end, reducing the speed and seaworthiness of the raider and making it easier prey to the enemy.

On the other hand, the high speed of the two ships and the vast area of the ocean in which they are operating makes the British problem of search and of bringing to action with superior forces one with many difficulties.

Yet it is a problem which ought to be solved if possible; for quite aside from the moral effect in various parts of the world, the quick destruction of these raiders would tend to convince the German high command that the battle of transportation cannot be won by such methods, and that their remaining heavy ships had best be held back.

It is probable that at the moment the British navy has no more important task, or one more far-reaching in its possible consequences, than the tracking and sinking of these two German battle cruisers.

29,223 FOREIGNERS HELD BY VICHY IN EIGHT CAMPS

Nazis Reported to Have Agreed to Release 29,000 More French Prisoners of War.

VICHY, March 24 (AP).—The Ministry of the Interior announced yesterday that 29,223 foreigners were being held in eight camps in the unoccupied zone. Five of these were described as "lodging camps," two as prison camps and one a transit camp for emigrants. The statement made no mention of foreigners in labor battalion camps which are known to exist.

Dispatches from Paris yesterday quoted Georges Scapini, blind French Deputy who has been negotiating with Germany for the release of French prisoners of war, as saying 29,000 to 34,000 would shortly be freed. About 69,000 of an estimated total of 2,000,000 French prisoners have been released by the Germans to date.

Observers here took the reports as an indication that the Germans had accepted Vice-Premier Admiral Jean Darlan, successor to Pierre Laval, as a substitute negotiator and were prepared to carry out economic and industrial co-ordination between the two countries.

ITALIAN WARSHIP IN KOBE, POSSIBLY PACIFIC RAIDER

Passengers on U. S. Liner Identify It as 2172-Ton Fast Minelayer Eritrea.

ABOARD THE LINER PRESIDENT JACKSON, March 24 (AP).—An indication of Italian naval operation in the Pacific has come with the sighting off Kobe breakwater of a weather-beaten warship identified by passengers aboard the liner President Jackson as the 2172-ton Italian escort vessel Eritrea.

The vessel flew the Italian flag and the name could be seen easily.

Launched Sept. 20, 1936, it is fitted for minelaying. The vessel also is sufficiently large and fast for raiding.

Nazis Reported Starving French To Arouse Anger Against England And Use U. S. to Ease Blockade

Opinion Is That Hitler Would Be Glad to Have America Send Food to France, Since That Would Release Products Grown There for Shipment to Germany.

By RICHARD L. STOKES

A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Commenting on the threat of Vice-Premier Admiral Darlan to use warships for convoying food cargoes, refugees of the "Free France" persuasion, newly arrived in this country, declare the subsistence shortage among their people was created artificially by Nazi pillage, and that it is in the power and to the interest of Germany to make the situation permanent.

These exiles find themselves confronting a cruel dilemma. They are torn between pity for their countrymen, reduced to the verge of famine, and a conviction that shipments of food, whether from the French colonies, South America or the United States, will serve only to fill a void instituted by German policy.

There would be no food shortage in France, it is declared, except for Nazi seizures of produce. France always has been more than self-sufficient in this respect, to such a degree that in some of the colonies, notably Algeria and Morocco, there were bitter complaints over the inability of the mother country to supply markets for their agricultural exports. Morocco has a large grain and vegetable output. Algeria concentrates on vineyards and Tunisia on olive cultivation.

Hitler's purpose in keeping France systematically on the edge of starvation is twofold, according to this view. He hopes first to convert French hatred of Germany into hatred for England, so that a revolution of public feeling may enable the puppet government at Vichy to enlist their country in the "new order," with its Mediterranean fleet and bases at Nazi disposal. The second aim is to arouse American sentiment to a point where Washington would compel a relaxation of the British blockade.

Background Outlined.

The history of the situation is outlined as follows: There was no food shortage in France prior to the German invasion of May, 1940. Occupied France was the nation's principal granary. The unoccupied section is a deficit region with regard to foodstuffs, owing to relative poverty of soil. This is held to be one of the major reasons why the Nazis permitted the area to reman "free."

Between May and July, supplies and reserve stocks of food in occupied France vanished. In September, the card rationing system, which had been in effect in Germany two years, was introduced for the first time in France. Many products became unavailable even with cards. Coffee, sugar and potatoes disappeared from French tables.

The cupboard of occupied France was swept bare in a few weeks under a well-prepared plan, with two principal methods. The first was requisition. Under the head of "taxes," farmers and dealers were required to deliver the greater portion of their stocks to the conquerors. So thorough were the exactions that a saying rose among the peasants. Whenever a hen laid an egg, they muttered, there was a German soldier on guard to pick it up. Receipts were given punctilliously, stating the amount—but not when, where or how—the victims would be repaid, not by the Germans but by the French Government.

The second method was a phony system of purchasing. The French at first were overjoyed not to be robbed outright, but to be paid with utmost "correctness" for every article. Their pleasure was short-lived. They were paid in "occupation marks," which are products of the printing press valid only in countries held by military force, and are forbidden to circulate in Germany. The Nazis first established a schedule of fixed prices, and then ordained that the occupation mark should be equivalent to 20 francs, instead of normal 10.

Getting Half Value.

The French realized they were compelled to sell food and other stocks at half their value, and that they were supplying the money out of their own pockets, through an exaction, under the armistice terms, of 400,000,000 francs a day for the cost of the army of occupation.

A different method was employed with unoccupied France. This region, by means of a German blockade, was cut off from its usual food sources in Northern France. The Vichy Government was forced to set up a schedule of maximum prices. Then purchasing missions of German officers in civilian attire ravaged the country. They were armed with authority to pay higher than legal prices. If this inducement failed, they are declared to have resorted to methods invented by American racketeers and gangsters.

Only from unoccupied France, it is declared, is it permitted to send food parcels to the 2,000,000 French prisoners of war, who are purposely ill fed. The contents are deducted from the cards of the senders, who thus are prevented from accumulating any surplus food. Also, there is no guarantee the parcels ever will reach their destination.

A small number of food ships, according to the story, have managed to reach Nice and Marseille. They were met by German and Italian officers of the Armistice Commission. The Germans are charged with seizing more than 50 per cent of the cargoes, leaving the French and Italian authorities to squabble over what proportion of the remainder, if any, finally should be allotted to French consumers.

It is the opinion of these informants that Hitler would happily agree to distribution of American foodstuffs in unoccupied France, under strictest American supervision. They hold that every bushel of wheat sent from the United States automatically will release for shipment to Germany a bushel of wheat grown in occupied France.

Gen. Johnson —

Moderate Income Group to Feel Pinch of Higher Income Taxes.

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

DEBATE among our planners of economic war policy waxes warm over the twin subjects of taxes and prices. Both are hot potatoes because they touch every pocketbook in America and pocketbooks are the prize political squawk boxes.

One prescription is: "Pay as you go. The best way to prevent inflation or high war prices is high taxes." The opposing argument is that high taxes help to make, not to prevent, high prices, that taxes that are too high dry up their own sources and that, at a time when political unity and public morale are all-important, confiscatory taxes are the worst possible medicine —especially where the time has come when high taxes must be paid by everybody.

This latter conclusion seems to be admitted by everybody. According to the Brookings Institution's study of incomes, all family incomes above $100,000 a year are only about 11 per cent of the total income of the nation—probably not exceeding eight billion dollars. We expect soon to be at a rate of spending of more than 30 billions a year.

If we taxed away all that lush take it would be a long way from paying as we go. Furthermore, as experience has shown, when you tax away the whole, or even a very large part of any source of revenue, that source disappears. People won't work or invest for no return. If we confiscated all income in excess of $10,000 a year, supposing that the source did not dry up (as it surely would), the result would not be two-thirds of the anticipated rate of spending.

21 Pct. in Low Brackets.

There have been at least five studies of the bearing of hidden and open taxes on the lower income classes including the very lowest and those on relief. Although each approached the problem from a different angle, the results were remarkably similar—a showing that taxes already take about 21 per cent in these lowest brackets.

Considering the astronomical figures of proposed spending, it is apparent that sources of additional revenue are skimpy and hard to find. Considering that half the total income of the country is earned by families with less than $4000 a year and 40 per cent of it by families with less than $3000, it is apparent that, if there is to be any increase in the rate of revenue, even to a fraction of the increase in the rate of spending, the "little fellow" who has hardly heretofore felt the pinch of Federal income taxes is in for a cleaning.

Of course, the worst that could probably happen would be nothing to the catastrophe of a run-away inflationary rise in prices such as happened in the World War, when the purchasing power of the wage-earners' dollar declined 50 per cent. That is a 50 per cent tax on income that produces no revenue and no useful result whatever—no result except to double the burden of debt

U. S. Will Acquire Formal Title To British Base Sites This Week

Signing of Leases Tomorrow or Wednesday in London—Lump Sum Settlement to Supplement Release of Destroyers.

WASHINGTON, March 24 (AP).—THE United States will acquire formal title tomorrow or Wednesday to the British base sites which figured in the destroyer deal last September, it was learned today.

The transaction will be completed in London, where the 99-year leases will be signed by Prime Minister Churchill and John G. Winant, the American Ambassador.

The signing will climax many weeks of diplomatic and technical discussions among American, British and British colonial officials regarding locations, boundaries and administration of the bases.

Reported Lease Terms.

The United States received permission to lease six of the base sites—in Trinidad, Jamaica, Antigua, St. Lucia, British Guiana and the Bahamas—and was granted base sites in Newfoundland and Bermuda as "a free gift," in return for 50 destroyers.

While no official announcement of the lease terms has been made public, it was learned in informed quarters that:

The United States will acquire possession of specified and surveyed areas in all eight British territories which were selected by American experts as the most strategic defense sites.

The United States will obtain rights to these bases for 99 years, free of all rent.

A large part of the land selected is "crown land" which will be turned over to the United States without compensation.

The British and colonial governments will acquire title to all privately owned land within the bounds of any of the base sites, and turn it over to the United States with clear titles.

Lump Sum From U. S.

The United States will, however, make a lump sum settlement with the British Government, on the basis of real estate valuation surveys, so that private owners will be paid a fair price for any property taken over or damaged.

The United States, through the army or navy, will exercise full administration and control at all bases.

No duty will be charged on material or equipment needed for construction and maintenance of the bases, or supplies for their army and navy personnel.

Officials said there had been no delays as a result of the lease negotiations, that construction work on some bases already had started and would be rushed to completion.

The leases were negotiated in London by an American mission composed of Charles Fahy, Assistant Solicitor General; Col. Harry J. Malony of the army, and Com. Harold Biesemeier of the navy.

BRITISH EMPIRE JOINS IN PRAYER FOR WAR VICTORY

'Forces of Darknesss' Are Arrayed 'Against God,' Says Cardinal Hinsley.

LONDON, March 24 (AP).—Millions of Britons joined yesterday at the behest of King George VI in an Empire Day of Prayer for divine favor in the battle of the Atlantic.

Special services were held in 30,000 Catholic and Protestant churches in Britain and in thousands of other churches, temples and mosques throughout the empire. King George, in the uniform of a Field Marshal, took Queen Elizabeth and their two daughters to worship in a small country church.

Chaplains in the army, navy and air force directed observances by Britain's fighting men and the British Broadcasting Corporation broadcast sermons and prayer by Arthur Cardinal Hinsley and the Archbishop of Canterbury.

"In this deadly conflict, said the Cardinal, "we are pitted against forces of darkness which have unleashed a satanic campaign against God. Our human contrivances will not suffice to win victory and secure true, lasting peace."

The Archbishop of Canterbury cautioned that "it may be that the time is coming when we shall have cause to remember the words of the Prime Minister that blood and sweat and tears may be the price of victory."

Bombs Kill 10 In Two Banks At Shanghai

U. S. Marines on Guard After Explosions Wreck Chungking Affiliates.

SHANGHAI, March 24 (AP).—UNITED STATES MARINES in steel helmets and carrying bayonets fixed to rifles patrolled principal thoroughfares in sections of the International Settlement tonight after 10 persons had been killed and 56 injured in terrorist bombings of two banks affiliated with the Chinese Government at Chungking.

The marines took up guard of nearby American property immediately after the explosions, withdrew when International Settlement authorities called out reserve police, and then re-established their patrol as a result of new uncertainties in the situation.

All casualties were Chinese. Many of the injured were in serious condition.

One explosion which wrecked the building housing a branch of the Central Bank of China in the International Settlement killed three and injured 36.

Two bombs, one explosive and the other incendiary, blew out the interior of a Bank of China branch at the Canidrom dog-racing track in the French concession, killing seven and injuring 20.

Attempts were made to blow up at least two other properties of Chungking-affiliated banks.

Patrol Sergt. R. O. Thoemmes, of the International Settlement police, a former marine whose home is Cleveland, O., was credited with saving many lives in the Central Bank explosion.

Called to the bank to investigate a strange package, he recognized the danger and drove out about 100 Chinese bank clerks. The blast shook the neighborhood just as they reached the street level. Thoemmes was knocked down by the concussion but was unhurt.

The bombings followed arrests of 130 Bank of China employes last week by the police ministry of the Japanese-supported Nanking Government in a move described as retaliation for assassinations of officers of the Nanking Central Reserve Bank here.

H. B. SINGLETON RE-ENLISTS IN CANADIAN ROYAL AIR FORCE

Member of Family Prominent in Missouri History Served in Canada in Last War.

Hatcher Bates Singleton, members of whose family played prominent roles in the history of Missouri, has re-enlisted in the Canadian Royal Air Force, in which he served as a training officer during the last war. He left St. Louis for Toronto, Ont., last Christmas.

He was accepted last week, he announced in a letter to his mother, Mrs. Seth Singleton, 5502 Clemens avenue, and will shortly begin a two-month refresher flying course. He expects to be assigned to training work.

Singleton, 45 years old, is a great-grandson of Edward Bates of St. Louis, Attorney General under President Lincoln, and a grandson of Lieut. Gen. John C. Bates, who commanded Missouri troops in the Civil and Spanish-American wars.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

One Word—Forward!

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IF a speech like the recent fireside chat of Franklin D. Roosevelt fails to arouse some American to stand up and fight for democracy and freedom, there is something radically wrong, not merely with that American's Americanism, but with his gizzard.

Thank heaven for a country where the leaders can still speak without guile and without equivocation, without half-heartedness and fear. Think of the poor and humiliated countries of Europe today. Not a man in any one of them, except in Britain and Greece, can make a plain, straight-from-the-shoulder speech about anything, and especially not about international relations and this war.

Here is a great republic which chooses now, almost two years later than it ought, to stand and fight for freedom in its own borders and in the world of like-minded peoples, and its chief executive can speak out plainly, so honestly and with such straightforwardness that the simplest mind in any continent can understand it.

Contrast that with the shenanigans of the Russian leadership. Compare it with Turkey and Yugoslavia, hemming and hawing. Contrast it with the wishy-washy Spanish leadership which seems waiting to see who is going to be the winner.

Contrast all this with the position of the people of the United States, as spoken through their President—honest, earnest, determined, with no bridges cunningly devised behind them for retreat.

For us Americans, there is just one word, Napoleon's favorite word even when he was uncertain of the ultimate outcome, one word which he could always utter and always uttered, even in the greatest dangers—Forward!

WILLIAM PICKENS.

New York City.

No Choice for the Girls.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

CORROBORATING "Old Maid," who defended the working wife by saying that men today always propose marriage with the qualification that the girl continue working, I want to say, "Amen." It seems both proposals, work and marriage, are the thing today.

BACHELOR GIRL.

Wants Change at Public Trough.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AFTER kicking out thousands of efficient Republican employes eight years ago, Dickmann now speaks of civil service for city employes. This is just another ruse to blanket in the Democrats now holding jobs.

These Democrats have been feeding at the public trough for the past eight years, eight very lean years for many people, so let's get together and kick them out and let others feed at the public trough for a while. There is room for about 7500 at the trough.

A VOTER.

"Give Labor Its Just Share."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

RECENTLY Bently H. Teaver of Senath, Mo., wrote you saying he thought he voiced the sentiment of hundreds of boys going into military service when he protested against "the outrages" of labor striking for higher wages. I disagree.

In every time of emergency, labor takes a kick in the teeth, and when it tries to get its rights, so-called patriots cry, "Outrage, spies, Communists," etc. In a few months, I will be serving in the army. Of this, I am proud. However, I am also proud to be called a union man. I say, give labor its just share.

MILTON H. STORCK.

Not in Politics for Their Health.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ALL of this ranting and raging about the Dickmann-Hannegan machine is the bunk. Have the voters forgotten the many years of Republican rule in St. Louis, when reference was made to the City Hall gang, the Koeln machine, the Kiel-Schmoll machine, the Miller machine?

Mr. Becker tells us that he owes no allegiance to any machine. Quite right and proper, but don't be deceived. The old gang who ran the City Hall for many years are rallying to his colors, and they are not in politics for their health.

LEE W. DAVIES.

Just Campaign Speeches.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ONE-THIRD of the nation is ill-fed, ill-clothed and ill-housed, yet billions are to be put at the disposal of the British, the Greeks, the Turks and perhaps the Russians. Promises were just campaign speeches, so we are to be betrayed. Win or lose, the collapse we are headed for will make the 1932 depression appear as a gentle zephyr compared with a tornado.

I'M TELLING YOU.

Needed—Taxpayers' Association.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IT seems the time has come when something should be done by the people of St. Louis and the State of Missouri to form a taxpayers' protective association to find out just how and where some of the taxes we pay are going.

When you stop to think about the sales tax that is being collected each and every month and then read about old people and children going cold and hungry because they have not received their checks, it seems time for the people to wake up and do something.

DISGUSTED.

QUESTIONS ABOUT THE SEAWAY.

Even the most ardent supporters of the proposed 27-foot seaway from the head of the Great Lakes down the St. Lawrence River to the Atlantic must be dubious about the way in which President Roosevelt presents it to the country this time.

In the first place, there is a serious question as to whether the seaway can be offered legitimately as a defense measure. It has two main purposes, both of which are, in themselves, praiseworthy. One is to provide a low-cost water route from the interior of the country to the ocean. The other is to create cheap electricity from the water power along the American-Canadian boundary.

Transportation and electric power obviously have their important national defense aspects. But the St. Lawrence seaway could not be completed before 1945, even if it were started immediately. Should the Federal Government begin the construction of warships in Great Lakes ports, as the President implied might be done, these ships could not be taken to the ocean until the seaway's completion, and that might be delayed much beyond the schedule.

It would be an obvious and costly mistake to build and enlarge Great Lakes shipyards during the next year and a half to two years and then construct warships in these yards, only to have the vessels locked inland for want of a channel to float them to the sea. If the administration would like to make use of Middle Western defense resources and facilities, it can find a more likely means than this.

Indeed, a good case can be made for the proposition that the launching of the St. Lawrence seaway project at this time would be an unwise misdirection of funds which should go into needed defense works. We require airplanes, machines, munitions, new defense products from laboratories—the defensive weapons of the new-style war. How will it help that program to spend some $270,000,000 on a long-term navigation and water power project is not made clear by the President's letter.

Canada's doubt on this score is expressed about as plainly as the niceties of diplomatic language will allow. Prime Minister Mackenzie King, in his note to our Canadian Minister, Jay Pierrepont Moffat, emphasizes the urgency of "the most careful examination of any proposed expenditure from the point of view of public need and in the light of war requirements," and asks for American reassurance that "in the existing circumstances" the project "should now be proceeded with."

If Canada, which is a warring Power, legally and militarily in the conflict, raises the question of timing, it would seem the course of wisdom on the part of the United States to satisfy itself as to necessity before it embarks on an undertaking of such financial magnitude in our own emergency.

A second serious question about the presentation of the project arises from its changed status before Congress. In the past, it has been offered as a treaty negotiated by the chief executives of Canada and the United States and submitted to the Senate for ratification by a two-thirds majority as required by the Constitution.

This time it appears, not as treaty, but as an "international agreement," and is sent to Congress, not for ratification by two-thirds of the Senate, but for simple majorities in both chambers.

The conclusion is inescapable that the administration does not want to run the risk of having the project fall short of the two-thirds majority—in March, 1934, it lost by 12 votes in Congress' first rebuff to Mr. Roosevelt—and so has decked it out in new colors. Whatever the precedents are for a switch of this kind, the fact remains that the administration is playing free and easy with the constitutional regulations of our foreign affairs.

TESTIMONIAL TO UNITY.

Carrying its own moral is the testimonial left in St. Louis yesterday by Ernest R. Quick. Mr. Quick is a labor relations trouble shooter for the Office of Production Management. He had just supervised a settlement of the Union Electric dispute which had threatened to tie up the power lines serving St. Louis. He said:

> I wish to compliment all concerned in the Union Electric Co. vs. the AFL Operating Engineers' Union, No. 148, controversy upon their splendid spirit of tolerance and willingness to understand their controversial problems. I found a spirit of fairness prevailing on both sides and a patriotic willingness to co-operate and work together for the public good.

BEFORE AND AFTER NOV. 5.

Americans will applaud the patriotism of Wendell Willkie in being "not the slightest interested at this time in the candidacy of anyone for any office in 1942 or 1944."

They will agree with him that "civilization is facing one of its crucial moments, and talk of party politics and candidates is completely out of place in either party."

Americans will remember, however, that the crisis was as readily discernible last autumn as it is today, and that prior to Nov. 5 Mr. Willkie, as the Republican presidential candidate of 1940, made a series of promises to the people which he later characterized as "just a bit of campaign oratory."

One must credit Mr. Willkie's sincerity today in being interested solely "in the elimination of isolationist sentiment in the United States." But one could wish he had risen above campaign oratory when he was asking the people to make him the conductor of their foreign policy.

On Oct. 23, 1940, Mr. Willkie was not interested in the elimination of isolationist sentiment. He was saying: "If he (Mr. Roosevelt) does not remember (his campaign promises to keep America out of war) longer (than the economy promises of 1932), then I fear our boys will soon be on the transports." And on Oct. 31 he was asking, with biting sarcasm: "Why shouldn't we expect to be at war by April 1, 1941, if he (Roosevelt) is elected?"

LATE SPRING IN MOSCOW.

It's a late spring in the Soviet Union. Or so it would seem from the frigidity of the official reception for the Japanese diplomatic tourist, Mr. Matsuoka. It was never thus when Herr Ribbentrop's plane, in the halcyon days of the Russo-German non-aggression pact, taxied to a tumultuous welcome of military bands and the occupant disembarked to fall into the affectionate arms of Comrade Molotov. Herr Ribbentrop's plane was greeted as Americans greet the first robin.

But not Mr. Matsuoka at the railway station. There's something less vernal about the Russo-Japanese non-aggression prospects. Mr. Matsuoka is treated according to protocol, but not a whit beyond that. The Russians are masters at generating an atmosphere that is correct but chilly.

But would the grass be any greener, the wind any warmer, if Herr Ribbentrop himself should drop out of the skies for a return visit? Since Hitler got the Bulgarian crop in the ground, the temperature in Moscow has been steadily falling. It may very well be that, in the Kremlin view, this is no longer the time for spring romances.

A DECISION TO CURB PENSION ABUSES.

The State Supreme Court has handed down a sensible and logical decision in ruling that persons already being supported by their families or friends are not entitled to old-age pensions. In view of the pension amendment's specific language, limiting assistance to aged persons "who are incapacitated from earning a livelihood and are without means of support," it is difficult to see how any court could rule otherwise. However, the decisions of the Butler County Circuit Court and the Springfield Court of Appeals, which the Supreme Court overruled, would have given judicial approval to a widespread abuse and swollen the already huge number of beneficiaries.

This assistance for the aged, as the Supreme Court pointed out, is not a right, but a special benefit for needy persons. If no showing of necessity were required, the rolls would be open to all comers, regardless of other income. As it is, Missouri has the largest number of pension recipients, in proportion to population, of any state in the Union, simply because thousands of undeserving persons are on the rolls. With 109,000 pension recipients, the total cost is nearing $2,000,000 a month, but the average check is only $17, instead of the $30 hopefully written into the law.

Elimination of the undeserving, attempted many times without success, should now become more readily possible with the Supreme Court's decision in the record. The purge could be carried even further if the Legislature passes a law denying pensions to aged persons with children capable of supporting them. In other states, notably New York, such a statute keeps the pension outlay within reasonable bounds, and averts the disgraceful spectacle of children deliberately evading their moral obligations in order to have their parents supported by the state.

BELGRADE-VIENNA EXPRESS.

Once again on Sunday night, a special train stood ready in the Belgrade railroad station to carry the Prince-Regent and the Yugoslav plenipotentiaries to Vienna for the signing of that non-aggression pact with the Nazis. And after long hours of waiting, the fire was again drawn. The train did not depart.

Despite increasing German pressure, another effort had failed to find men willing to sign the document. Public demonstrations against it are increasing, according to the cables. There is real danger of civil war should it be signed. The old Serbian rebel songs are ringing through the streets.

That the Serbs—and they are the dominant element in Yugoslavia—should remember the last war is understandable. Old hates have a way of rekindling. And, then, while Serbia was overrun, a greater Yugoslavia emerged at Versailles. The Serbs, apparently, are ready for the same game and the same odds.

But can they make this attitude prevail? Can they resist the Nazi pressure? Can they make Hitler take Yugoslavia at sword's point or not at all? Again a train has steam up. Will it finally roll out of the station, whistle moaning in the night, headed for the Wiener Bahnhoff?

A RASH VENTURE.

Definitely, there was an atmosphere about street cars and busses as St. Louis went to work this Monday morning! There was something of spring in the Bois, of chic women crossing the Rond Pont, of dinner at Maxim's about the ordinarily plebeian plush seats.

And there was nothing vague about it. It was not merely an atmosphere reflecting the general satisfaction with the spring morning, the remembering of Mr. Browning's Pippa. It was real, very real. And its origin, we discovered, was in the Public Service Co.'s new weekly passes. To call attention to the Flower Show, they had been dunked in camellia.

The Flower Show people no doubt regard it as a triumph. We hate to be kill-joys, but we suggest they wait for the reactions, that they do not claim the day before the returns are in. This matter of perfumes, they should remember, is a subtle one. Nowhere can they find a woman who will buy one scent and let it go at that.

No, this is a matter of moods and colors and occasions. For a green dress, one flacon is uncorked, for a red dress, another. For a dinner party a different essence is dabbed behind the ear than for a tete-a-tete. A gay mood calls for something light, a sultry mood for something else again.

That the Monday-morning, going-to-work mood of the women of St. Louis responds to the common denominator of camellia is a moot point, indeed. And these passes are good for a week. Is any feminine mood? As for the men——

Hitler may push the war over the world to sap British strength, says Dr. Rauschning. Will it not be a little hard, too, on the man who does the pushing?

SOME DANGERS OF WIRE-TAPPING.

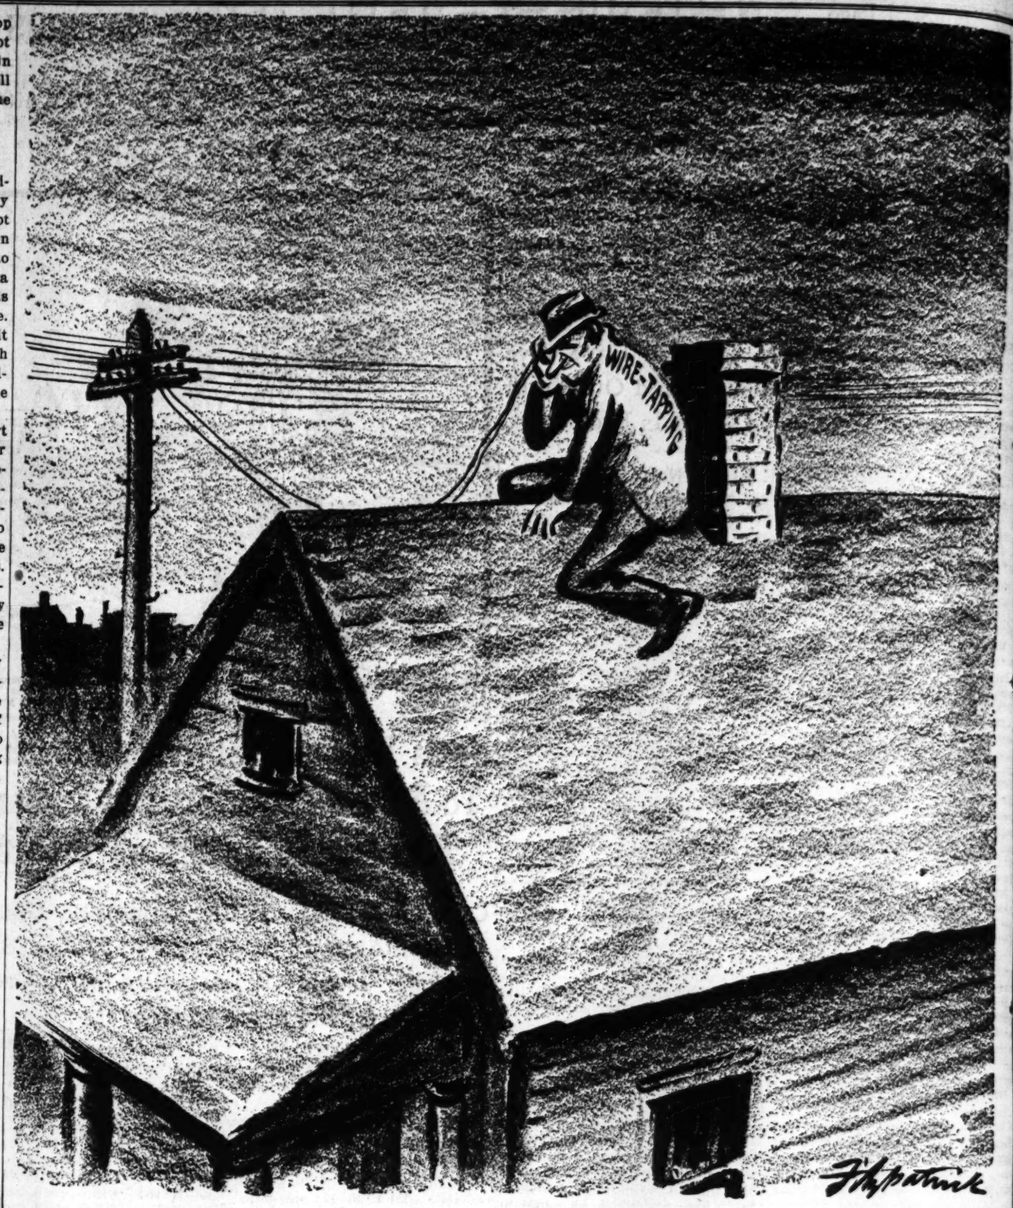
Good morning. . . . Nice day, isn't it . . . Yes, aren't things going marvelously? . . .I agree with you, this late winter weather is bracing. It's rather nice being without coal; you know, stimulating. . . . What's that Er-er, yes, indeed, the grass is getting very green. . . . Oh, the new turnip ration is wonderful. The children never did like cheese and butter anyway. . . . No, I didn't hear. Yes, yes, soon we can expect the spring rains. . . . Lovely day, isn't it . . . Oh, a fine, early spring. . . . Good morning.

This is a sample telephone conversation of the average resident of Germany. It is all he dares to say. He knows his telephone is tapped and a word of criticism of the Government may land him in a concentration camp.

This is precisely the state of public feeling we don't want in America. Yet the wheels of Congress are grinding on two bills that, in their present form, would permit wholesale wire-tapping by innumerable agencies of government.

Naturally, excesses of terrorism on the one side and submissiveness on the other would never approach those now typical of Germany. But the danger of gradually blunting our liberties is always inherent in such measures. It is inherent in the Hobbs and Walter bills, even if Congress waters them down to the extent urged by Attorney General Robert Jackson. Once the entering wedge drives into the wall of civil liberties, no one can tell how quickly the whole redoubt will crumble.

In Portland, Ore., there is a vogue of 10-cent wedding rings. More than ever, it is not the original cost, but the upkeep.



ALL IN THE NAME OF THE FOUR FREEDOMS.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Their pay should be increased several thousand times or they should be fired; says Philadelphia paper; some of them are giving fine service, but others are reported helping their former employers to contracts; World War history cited as warning against system.

From the Philadelphia Record.

"GIVE the dollar-a-year men two bucks a year and get better help."

That was the gag of the evening at the press correspondents' show, after President Roosevelt made his great speech a week ago Saturday night. It was a fractionally true word spoken in jest.

We'd go much, much farther. We'd either multiply the pay of the dollar-a-year men some thousands of times—or else fire 'em.

We'd pay them what they're worth, or not have them around.

To be blunt about it, we don't like the whole idea of dollar-a-year men. Nor do we mind stating our reasons.

First, it's too class-conscious.

We object to setting up a preferred class of patriots. And that's said without reflecting on any of those 100 or so dollar-a-year boys down in Washington now. Most folks we know just can't afford to take any job at $1 a year, yet they're as patriotic as they come. Because a few are so well-to-do they can work for nothing is no reason they should be permitted to do so.

* * *

Second reason: The laborer is worthy of his hire.

Rarely does anyone get something for nothing. We shouldn't expect it. Those summoned to aid in the defense program should be paid accordingly, and expected to serve accordingly. One buck a year is a sub-standard wage, not only in monetary terms but in its other implications. Which leads us to Reason Three:

No man can serve two masters.

It's no secret that some of the dollar-a-year men, like Donald Nelson, formerly of Sears-Roebuck, are doing grand jobs for Uncle Sam. But others are in there chiseling around in the interests of their former employers. Several, we're told, are on the other end of monopoly charges being pressed by the Department of Justice, and others have been spending most of their time sewing up fat contracts and freezing out the little sub-contracting concerns.

There must be no divided loyalty; these men should be working 100 per cent for Uncle Sam—or else 100 per cent for their old concerns.

There's been a lot of suspicion about the way monopolistic bottlenecks in defense have been covered up in OPM. It's been but a few months since Edward Stettinius Jr. told the public there was no shortage in aluminum. Everybody knows there is now. The Wall Street Journal reports that aluminum refrigerator trays from stored electric ice boxes have been commandeered in the emergency.

* * *

New Dealers in Washington have been alarmed, too, over the cavalier way in which contracts have been doled out, with scant checkup; with little or no bidding and a tendency to ride roughshod over labor laws. And one story tells how a liberal in the defense setup, who sought to keep down the cost of United States shoe purchases, was fired after a protest by important shoe manufacturers from New England. Then the head of the New England committee of complainers was given the job.

All this is why a congressional investigation of the dollar-a-year men has been demanded, and is likely to materialize.

That is why we urge that the setup be dropped; that Uncle Sam hire those men qualified for their jobs, pay them decent salaries and let the chiselers and patriots-for-profit scram.

Uncle Sam ought not to be under any special obligation to anybody.

The history of the World War warns against this sort of special privilege in patriotism—the privilege of muscling inside the defense program for the bargain price of $1 a year.

Decay of Our Language

From the Dayton (O.) Daily News.

WHENCE comes our milk? From the cow, say you. Not so, say other millions; milk comes from "caows." When do we want our milk? Right now, say you. Say other millions, "naow." Hear us: "Hursh," baby; here comes right "naow" your milk warm from the "caow."

The Baltimore Sun prints a dictionary of the Baltimore language. The English coined at Baltimore has nails made of "arn" and a rich man is a "meeyunaire." They go out on the "warters" of Chesapeake Bay to "feesh" and they note that Nero fiddled "wol" Rome burned. Pedestrians there as everywhere refuse to keep on the "siwark" as they go "daown taown." They drink "arnge" juice at breakfast and then, in a "turble" hurry, rush to work. So goes the English "langwidge" in "Balamer" in the State of "Mairlun," home of the naval academy at "Naplis."

The radio broadcasters make "status" rhyme with "hate us" one minute and with "bat us" the next. The newscasters put Stalin in "Moscoe" on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and in Moscow the rest of the week.

A candidate for President has been asking for the votes of the "Murrican" people. He has occasionally referred to the "Constushun o'ye Nite States." Our most literate citizens go to the "libree" to get a book to read. There is great interest in the news from "Warsh-'ntun." We'd worry about "Shecargo" if the Germans began dropping "bums" on the place.

Nations can and do decline and fall. Their people grow lazy, indifferent, unintelligent, weak. The cause may be physical, like the malaria which sapped the strength of Rome and till lately made parts of our own country islands of ill health and sloth. The tropical sun, we thought, made men slow and unambitious. We eliminate certain diseases and the tropics brace up. Where men decay, language decays.

The cause of national decay may be mental, moral. America, in a recent score of years, has seemed to decline. Our old confidence, faith and energy waned. When peoples slip, their language slips. Listless tongues lisp of the "Murkin" way of life and deplore the debasement of "amachure" sport and spend their evenings at the "moon pitcher" show. Many, indeed, "donwanner" do anything else. Yet still some of us are paid "timenaff" for overtime.

If a nation slip, shall it stand again? Come perils now that may stir us, too, to better English tongues. The radio that regiments the German people can regiment the English tongue. It is only regimentation of men, not of stars and arithmetic and speech, to which democracy demurs.

Wilson Found World War Caused By Bitter Commercial Rivalries

From an Address by President Wilson at the St. Louis Coliseum, Sept. 5, 1919.

WHY, my fellow-citizens, is there any man here or any woman—let me say, is there any child here—who does not know that the seed of war in the modern world is industrial and commercial rivalry? (Applause.)

The real reason that the war that we have just finished took place was that Germany was afraid that her commercial rivals were going to get the better of her, and the reason why some nations went into the war against Germany was that they thought that Germany would get the commercial advantage of them.

The seed of the jealous, the seed of the deep-seated, hatred was hot, successful commercial and industrial rivalry.

Why, what did the Germans do when they got into Belgium? I have just seen that suffering country.

Most of the Belgian factories are standing. You don't witness in Belgium what you witness in France, except upon certain battlefields—factories destroyed, whole towns wiped out. No, the factories are there; the streets are clear, the people are there, but go in the factories. Every piece of machinery that could be taken away has been taken away.

If it was too big to take away, experts directed the way in which it should be injured so it could never be used again. And that was because there were textile industries in Belgium which the Germans hated the Belgians for having because they were better than the German, and outdid them in the markets of the world.

This war was a commercial and industrial war. It was not a political war. (Applause.)

AN INJUSTICE IN THE DRAFT.

From the Providence (R. I.) Evening Bulletin.

THE justifiable protest of the Rhode Island Legislature against the system by which selective service draftees are not given their final examination until they are called up for induction has not fallen upon deaf ears in Washington.

Selective Service Administration officials and the War Department have been asked by the Senate Military Affairs Committee to report on the prevalence of this situation, presumably with the intention of taking steps to remedy it.

The inconveniences and even hardships worked upon men who are disqualified by the late final physical examination are well known. They have been passed by local examining physicians and ordered to report for military duty on a given date. Consequently, they wind up their personal affairs, give up jobs and perhaps sell automobiles or other property, in preparation for a year's absence.

Then, when they appear at the induction station, they are thrown out by army doctors and forced to return home and take up the broken threads of their private lives. Some of them are unable to get their jobs back. Others cannot retrieve the property they have disposed of. Even the most fortunate are put to inconvenience and embarrassment.

This situation could be corrected by an arrangement which would provide that final physical examinations be given before men are ordered inducted. Then those who are to be thrown out would not, as they do now, have to interrupt their personal lives and break their economic ties unnecessarily.

HITLER POLICY IN A NUTSHELL.

From the Kansas City Star.

THE official German press says the Axis ideas are broad. The earth with a fence around it, but we think the newsboy at Twelfth and Baltimore summed it all up months ago when he bawled: "Extree! Hitler gives the world 30 days to get out!"

SOCIA

ANNOUNCEMENT was made yesterday of the engagement of Miss Virginia Elliot Fischel, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Fischel, and Howard Benoist Jr. The news was told at a cocktail party at the Fischel home, 14 Len- place.

Miss Fischel was graduated in 1935 from Mary Institute and attended Smith College for a year. In 1937 she was introduced to society at a tea, with dancing, given by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. William H. Elliot, at the St. Louis Country Club. The bride-to-be served as a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball during her debut year and afterward became a member of the Junior League. She is now city editor of the Junior League Magazine, national publication.

The namesake of her mother, the former Miss Virginia Elliot, Miss Fischel is a sister of Miss Blanche Fischel who is studying at the Art Students' League in New York. She is a granddaughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Washington E. Fischel and a niece of Mrs. George Gellhorn, Lee Fischel and the late Dr. Ellis Fischel.

Mr. Benoist, who makes his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Benoist, 4931 Pershing avenue, is a brother of Louis Lannan Benoist, Miss Elizabeth and Miss Agnes Benoist, both of whom now live in New York, and of Mrs. Roland Whitney Richards. He is a grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lannan Foy and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Auguste Benoist, early St. Louisans, and a nephew of Mrs. Charles A. Faris and the late Miss Eugenia Chouteau. The Rev. Charleville Benoist Faris is his cousin.

After attending St. Louis University High School, the prospective bridegroom transferred to the Portsmouth Priory School, Newport, R. I., where he prepared for Yale, graduating from college with the class of 1937. His undergraduate club was Elihu. In St. Louis he belongs to the St. Louis Country, University, Bachelor and Yale clubs. Recently he became a member of the United States Naval Reserve.

Wedding plans are incomplete.

'MUSICAL BARGAIN WEEK' ON SYMPHONY TICKETS

Mrs. Grayson Carroll Tells on Radio How 50 Per Cent Can Be Saved by Buying Now.

A seven-day campaign to sell season tickets for next winter's Symphony Orchestra concerts, which opens today, was described as a "musical bargain week" by Mrs. Grayson Carroll, a vice-chairman, in a talk on radio station KSD yesterday.

Those who purchase season tickets for the 18 concerts save nearly 50 per cent of the cost of tickets purchased individually, she said. Guest artists next year will include Kirsten Flagstad, Fritz Kreisler, Joseph Szigeti, Artur Rubinstein, Vladimir Horowitz, Rudolf Serkin, Ida Krehm, Gregor Piatigorsky, Darius Milhaud, Igor Stravinsky and Edwin McArthur.

Eric Wahlin, cellist, of Columbia, Mo., appeared on yesterday's broadcast as a guest artist.

MRS. JULIA MANNING GERAGHTY DIES; WIDOW OF ATTORNEY

Mrs. Julia Manning Geraghty, widow of Francis X. Geraghty, attorney, died of a heart ailment yesterday at McAuley Hall, 325 North Newstead avenue, where she had been living several months. She was about 65 years old.

Surviving are a niece, Mrs. Frances B. Morris of Belleville, and a nephew, Capt. Gerard N. Byrne, an attorney, whom she reared after the death of their mother 20 years ago.

Mrs. Geraghty made her home with Capt. Byrne at 7138 Forsythe boulevard, University City, until he was called into active service as an Army Reserve Officer. She then moved to McAuley Hall, a home for women operated by the Sisters of Mercy. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

REPORT ON RED INQUIRY IN NEW YORK SCHOOLS

Legislative Committee Says It Found Evidence of Subversive Activities.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 24 (AP).—A legislative investigating committee reported today unearthing evidence of subversive activities in New York City's educational system.

The committee based its report on a seven-month inquiry which also asserted "the vast majority" of teachers, administrators and students are "loyal, devoted supporters of the democratic system of government."

The report, to be submitted to the Legislature today, claimed evidence of "such great emphasis" on money-collecting from Communist party members "as to suggest the possibility of a financial racket."

"The dues and expenses were so geared to the earning power of the members, generally persons of small income, as to constitute a heavy financial burden on them," said the report. "The solicitation of funds was constant. As one witness expressed it, it was the most expensive kind of a poor man's club."

Other testimony received at hearings in New York City showed, the committee asserted, that Communist public education activity "was and undoubtedly continues to be conspiratorial in nature"; requires college Communist units to give detailed personal information annually, and compels instructors to "inject Communism into their teachings without being detected."

The committee noted that in seeking evidence of Fascist and Nazi activities in the schools "thus far no substantial evidence has been unearthed of organized activity of this character."

MRS. FRANCES FOLEY, FORMER ST. LOUISAN, DIES IN WEST

She Once Owned Fairyland, Inc., Children's Clothing Store, in St. Louis.

Mrs. Frances Foley, former owner of Fairyland, Inc., a clothing store for children, died yesterday of a complication of diseases at her home in Altadena, Cal. She was 65 years old.

In 1923, Mrs. Foley founded the clothing store, which she closed in 1935 to become associated with the Woman's Exchange. She left St. Louis in 1938 to go to California for her health. She was the wife of William Foley, director of the foreign trade department of the old Mercantile Trust Co., who died in 1921.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Marian Snyder, with whom Mrs. Foley made her home in California, and Mrs. Elizabeth Nichols of Providence, R. I. Funeral services will be tomorrow in Altadena, with burial in Lincoln, Ill., her former home.

U. S. PORTS FOR BRITAIN

By JOSEPH ALSOP and ROBERT KINTNER

WASHINGTON, March 24.

IN the days before he left for his vacation, the President gave every available minute to studying how best to meet the German air and submarine threat to Britain's shipping life-lines, conferring repeatedly about it with Lord Halifax, Harry L. Hopkins and the chairman of the Maritime Commission, Admiral Emery S. Land. He took with him aboard his cruiser a thick pile of memoranda on the subject. And on his return, when he will have had time to make up his mind, there will be important developments in the shipping situation.

Meanwhile, at least one big step has already been resolved on. Plans have been made to extend to merchant shipping the principle in the Lease-Lend bill, under which damaged British war vessels are to be received in American naval shipyards. New York, Baltimore and perhaps other suitable Atlantic coast cities are to be transformed into great marine depots for Britain, where the battered freighters of the convoys may be repaired, re-fitted, fueled and generally put in shape again for their dangerous task. Insofar as possible, all the work on the British ships that would normally be done at home will now be done on this side of the Atlantic. The major home ports of the British merchant marine will soon be in the United States.

Exploding Incendiaries.

THE reason for this is to be found in the deep concern of the authorities here over the problem of Britain's west coast ports, which has lately worried our strategists even more than the problem of the Balkans. If the Germans win a victory in the Balkans, it will be bad. But if the Germans succeed in closing Glasgow, Liverpool, Bristol, Cardiff and Swansea, it will be disastrous. For with the North Sea and Channel too dangerous for Britain's convoys, the five ports on the west coast are the gateways through which Britain gets supplies from the outside world, and sends supplies to her armies in the Mediterranean.

In the past 10 days, the west coast ports have been the most frequent objectives of the intensified German air attack that marks the beginning of the new war crisis. The raids on them are the first, and perhaps the most dangerous phase of the German effort to cut off Britain from this country and the empire. And the raids have been very terrible.

They have been carried out by the new German four-engined heavy bombers, the Focke-Wulf Curiers, production of which in quantity is now believed to have been the purpose of the German air factory re-tooling in November and December. The Focke-Wulfs have far longer range and much greater bomb-carrying capacity than the Dorniers, Junkers and other medium bombers chiefly used by the Germans last summer. Because of their range, they can take off from their bases on the French coast, circle out beyond the British Isles, and thus in from the West over the sea, even at Glasgow in the far North. Thus interception is much more difficult. With their greater bomb-carrying capacity, using the new German incendiary which also explodes and so hampers civilian fire-fighting, they do worse damage. Finally, they are able to fly at an altitude beyond the reach of the British anti-aircraft guns.

The Turn-Around.

THE news reports have told part of the story of the destruction wrought by the raids. The bombing has been so serious that in one case, temporary evacuation of more than 100,000 persons was necessary. Fortunately, however, even after the grim experience of the last days, most American and British experts are convinced that the West coast ports cannot be wholly closed.

The main thing, therefore, is to reduce the strain on the ports as much as possible; and this is the purpose of the President's plan outlined above. A port's usefulness is measured by the number of ships it can handle in a given time. The time required for the "turn-around" of a ship is quite as important as the number of docks, since a port can handle three times as many ships if the average freighter takes a week to come in, be unloaded, and prepare to put out to sea again, than if it takes three weeks. Using New York and Baltimore as home ports, the British convoys need only unload and re-load at Liverpool and Glasgow, saving the long time normally required for the work that will now be done here, and thus making the "turn-around" far quicker.

In order to speed up the truncated "turn-around" still further, British Minister of Labor Ernest Bevin has recently mobilized the British dockworkers to improve unloading and re-loading methods. Then, too, the West coast ports are to be permanently relieved of all superfluous civilian population, and inland transport is being replanned so that goods pass through the ports more rapidly, and run less risk of destruction in the dock warehouses. Finally, the British night fighter force, to which the Focke-Wulfs are not invulnerable, is constantly being increased, and the bottleneck of personnel to work the secret night pursuit device is on the way to being removed. In short the problem of the West coast ports, like most other major war problems, seems to be proving grave but not insoluble.

4000 AT ST. LOUIS SYMPHONY CONCERT AT CHATTANOOGA

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 24.—More than 4000 persons attended the concert of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, with Vladimir Golschmann conducting, yesterday at Memorial Auditorium.

The audience included several hundred soldiers from Camp Forrest, Tenn., and Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., who were guests of the Chattanooga Community Center Association, sponsors of the concert.

The orchestra gave a concert in Memphis Saturday night under auspices of the Beethoven Club, which already has arranged for a return engagement next year.

TWO NEW ROSES TAKE FIRST PLACE AT SHOW

St. Louis Club's Williamsburg Garden Wins Horticultural Event.

The Queen Mary and Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, two recently developed species of roses, won first place in their divisions yesterday at the Greater St. Louis Flower and Garden Show at the Arena.

Introduced only two years ago, the Queen Mary is seven feet high. Its petals are light pink and yellow. The Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt is a brunette, its dark yellow petals offset with a light pink tinge.

The St. Louis Garden Club won the award in the horticultural event with its Williamsburg Garden. The St. Louis Horticultural Society, showing a tool house and work unit, and the St. Clair Garden Club, displaying a private estate greenhouse, tied for second place.

Other winners were:

Potted Plants—H. C. Carr, Manchester, Mo.; Bourdet Floral Co., George R. Windler, Ennert Brothers, Westover Nursery Co., Albert Senger.

Cut Flowers—Hill Floral Products Co. of Richmond, Ind., Pevely Dairy Farms and St. Louis Rose Co.

Miscellaneous Cut Flowers—John Lochner, Ennert Brothers, Raymond J. Masek, Pierre Schneider, John Tomasovic, W. A. Rowe Floral Co., A. Y. Jablonsky, Norman H. Winter, Fred Hartman and A. C. May.

Sweet peas—O. C. May, Mrs. Paul Ahner, Henry Koch, Fred Hartman.

Carnations—W. A. Rowe, John Tomasovic, Adolph Bosch, Earl L. Geantel, Arthur T. Jablonsky, Werners' Greenhouse, Fred H. Kupfer and E. D. Winkler.

The crowd of 35,000 persons who viewed the displays over the week end, 25,000 of them yesterday, was the largest two-day attendance in the history of the shows, it was announced. Those who rode busses and street cars had a foretaste of what the show would be like because the Public Service Co. has scented its current weekly pass with camellia perfume. The show closes next Sunday.

Jose Iturbi, Pianist, Ill.

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP).—Jose Iturbi, pianist and conductor, is seriously, though not critically, ill at his home, suffering from a sinus disorder and nervous exhaustion. He was soloist yesterday at a New York Philharmonic Orchestra concert.

Dykstra Board Increases Likelihood of Agreements to Block Labor Disputes in Defense Plants—Congress Can Make Executive Order Law Whenever It Chooses.

THE executive order setting up the new national defense mediation board "declares it to be the duty of employers and employes" to make "every possible effort to settle all their disputes without any interruption in production or transportation." It is true, as Representative Sumners, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, says, that the board has "no power" to enforce this duty. It is true that a declaration of the President does not create duties which have the force of law. But Congress and the President can make laws. And since the President has made this declaration, and since Mr. Sumners' committee is studying and will very wisely continue to study legislation to enforce it, and since Congress and the public would support such legislation, there will exist very great compulsion on all concerned to arrive at voluntary agreements. When it is known that a failure to reach voluntary agreements would lead quickly to legal compulsion, the inducement to reach voluntary agreements is very much increased.

For while under this arrangement the right to strike, the right to lockout, the right to refuse conciliation are not outlawed, the practical situation is that these rights will be suspended by law if they are in fact exercised. The success of the board will determine whether legal compulsion is necessary. But because legal compulsion could so readily be placed behind the machinery of the board, the prospects of a voluntary industrial peace should be considerable. The board itself is excellently manned and the members will command public respect. They will operate on the principle that stoppages are morally outlawed and will be legally outlawed as well if, nevertheless, stoppages occur.

THE final paragraph of the President's executive order is the most important part of it. For here is to be found the declaration of duty which Congress can, if necessary, make a legal duty. Here is the provision that workers and managers must give "sufficient advance notice of any threatened interruptions to continuous production as will permit exploration of all avenues of possible settlement so as to avoid strikes, stoppages, or lockouts"—in other words, here is provided that "cooling-off period" which Congress will, if necessary, make compulsory. The new organization is so arranged, therefore, that the duties which are "declared" by an executive order of the President could speedily be enacted into law if labor and management should not voluntarily carry out these duties. In the present temper of Congress and the country any evidence that the board could not enforce these duties by moral suasion would be followed quickly by legal compulsion.

In an environment of this sort we may hope, keeping our fingers crossed, that voluntary agreement will work. The field work is entrusted to the United States Conciliation Service in the Department of Labor which is under the direction of Mr. John A. Steelman.

This is a very competent and experienced organization. It is generally understood, for example, that the strike in the Vultee plant would never have got so nearly out of hand had Mr. Steelman been brought in much earlier in the dispute. In any event it is this organization which will have to do the primary work of keeping peace, backed by Mr. Dykstra's board, which in its turn will be backed by public opinion and the prospect of legislation by Congress. If legal action is eventually necessary, the system under which it would have to operate would be just about the same system as we now have. The conciliation service would still have to be the primary agent of the Government. There would still have to be a board to determine when the law had to be invoked. And the law would have to prescribe the duties which the executive order "declares."

WHAT we need, then, to realize is that while this system is in fact or can readily be made adequate for avoiding stoppages in industry, there are on the horizon problems which it will not be possible for labor and management in particular plants or even industries to solve. These are the problems which are bound to arise from the tremendous transformation of the whole economy which the defense program requires. Such a transformation is certain to dislocate many things: the supply and demand for materials and labor by industries and by localities, prices, the costs of production, established markets, conditions of employment, rents, housing, apprenticeship.

Out of these dislocations there are bound to develop problems—yet problems which neither the management nor the workers in a particular industry can solve. They will require measures which belong to the general conduct of the whole defense effort: the fiscal measures to prevent inflation and to distribute the burden of sacrifice, the administration of priorities, of the rationing of resources, of general and of specific prices.

* * *

THESE measures are beyond the province of the Dykstra board. Yet if it is conducted wisely and with foresight, this board will in its daily work quickly become aware of the need of the larger measures, and because it is so competent and so representative it should develop into something like an industrial advisory council to which the administration and the Congress and the public would look for guidance. Thus it could fill a want which is quite serious in Washington—a want arising from the fact that because authority is so distributed among departments which are so burdened with administration, there is no place where large general questions of policy are adequately considered.

Movie Town Chatter

By Harold Heffernan

HOLLYWOOD, March 24. DOLL-FACED Joan Bennett, never before deglamorized in a movie, has consented to get messed up for "Man Hunt" at Twentieth Century-Fox. She'll wear a $12.50 wardrobe and a series of unattractive hair-dos. . . . Clark Gable is chafing now about the weight problem. Since that long-standing shoulder trouble was removed—by yanking an old molar—Gable has picked up nine pounds he doesn't need or want. . . . On the other hand, Ginger Rogers would gladly accept some poundage. Winning an Academy award proved much too thrilling for keyed-up Ginger. She ate practically nothing for 10 days and in checking up this week found herself minus seven pounds.

THE SAD CONDITION of the leading man market is evidenced by Twentieth Century Fox's contract list. Since Jan. 1, scouts have signed 20 young players and 18 of the group are boys. All are on a short-term trial basis.

EVER SINCE the Hollywood premiere of "Meet John Doe," Frank Capra has been up a tree about the film's ending. Curbstone critics severely criticised the finale where Villain Edward Arnold is whitewashed by uttering a dozen inane words. So Frank tacked on the other ending, which kept Arnold an uncompromising baddie until the house lights went on.

Because many others mumbled about that, too, Capra has decided to ship both endings out to the exchanges and let exhibitors take their choice.

"This is going to be very confusing," remarked Mr. Arnold, subject of all the turmoil. "In Boston I'll probably be a heel and in Schenectady a first-class sort of a gent. Personally, it makes little difference to me—so long as they come to see the picture. You see, I'm in for a share of the profits."

DESPITE conflicting radio and press comment, RKO's president, George Schaefer, is sitting tight on the "Citizen Kane" cauldron. About three out of five Hollywoodites believe RKO will not release the picture in any form . . . Behind scenes, the Hays office is burning with fear that the Government has an eye on possible regulation or outright control of the film industry. The producers are particularly worried about clause No. 1 in the National Economic Committee's report. It reads: "Chief object of the Hays organization is to keep outsiders out, not improve film quality." The number of 'on-the-line' pictures demonstrates the purity efforts are insincere."

ALTHOUGH Hollywood knows and feels it understands Joseph M. Schenck and his lavish expenditures, it is conceded on every side that the Federal tax suite against Schenck in New York adds up to the most devastating publicity to blast the business in 25 years . . .

Allan Jones is back from a successful personal appearance tour—and very happy. Every morning he rides his favorite horse down Sunset boulevard singing at the top of his voice—a free concert for milkmen and other early risers.

Snug Habit.

Although Mary Howard's wardrobe in "Billy the Kid" is of the 1879 style, she has found it so comfortable for riding that she has made arrangements to purchase it at the end of the picture.

'Bowery Boy,' St. Louis Theater Film, Interesting

A drama of New York's East Side, conventional as to plot and material but so effectively presented as to be absorbing, came to the St. Louis Theater last night. This is "Bowery Boy," featuring Dennis O'Keefe, Louise Campbell and Jimmy Lydon.

Young Lydon takes the title role, as leader of a band of small-fry criminals. Engaged as general helper in the neighborhood health clinic, he uses the job as an opportunity to steal food permit blanks, but in time is won over to the cause of medical science and in good movie style helps bring to justice the man who has been selling poison food. O'Keefe plays doctor at the clinic, Miss Campbell is nurse.

Leaning on the old top rail at the St. Louis, one also sees Gene Autry in "Ride, Tenderfoot, Ride," one of his streamlined Westerns. In this adventure, Autry inherits a packing plant and has business rivalry from a pretty girl, June Storey. While learning to be a successful business man, Autry also finds time to sing for the customers and perform daring rescues. One of a wagonload of dynamite. A riotous Three Stooges comedy is a short subject item at the Louis.

UNION LEADER URGES PRE-STRIKE DISCUSSION

Joseph P. Clark, Central Trades Head, Outlines New Policy for AFL Locals.

A complete discussion of a strike situation with other union leaders before a strike is called by a local union was urged yesterday by Joseph P. Clark, president of the Central Trades & Labor Union, in a new policy for the 183 unions affiliated with the central body.

Clark explained that there was no intention of placing a curb on the right of a union to call a strike, but that the time-honored method of calling a strike first and talking about it afterward frequently results in severe criticism of labor.

Under his proposal, the facts would be discussed in advance by union leaders and officers of Central Trades in an effort to avert a walkout. Failing to reach a settlement, the union forces would put their full strength behind the strike, Clark said. Speakers favoring the plan recommended that Central Trades take formal action on it at the next meeting.

A request by the American Federation of Musicians for support of legislation, pending in the State Legislature, favorable to union musicians was referred to the Central Trades Legislative Committee. One proposal would amend laws regulating the right of communities to vote tax levies for park band concerts; the other would control the exploitation of school bands employed in competition with union musicians.

THREE ARRESTED IN INQUIRY INTO BOGUS CHECK RING

Man Arrested in Drug Store Reported to Have Admitted Acts, Named Accomplices.

Two men and a woman were arrested during the week end, suspected of cashing about 15 fraudulent payroll checks in amounts from $27 to $42 at various St. Louis stores since March 15.

A man who said he was Allie T. Wirth was arrested at the Katz Drug Co. store at 6101 Easton avenue, Saturday night, where he attempted to cash a $37 payroll check. Police found he carried five social security cards filled out with different names.

With admitted cashing bad checks, police said, and gave the names of two accomplices. In the hotel room of one, police found 40 blank selective service registration cards, 28 blank social security cards, membership cards which apparently were used for identification, 80 blank payroll checks bearing the names of manufacturing firms, a check protector, dater stamp and a typewriter.

TWO TAKEN TO HOSPITAL AFTER ROOMING HOUSE FIRE

Four persons were carried down ladders by firemen during a fire about 4 a. m. today at a rooming house at 2901-2901A Lafayette avenue. Eleven other residents of the building were forced to flee in their night clothing.

Miss Ethel Eggers and her sister, Mrs. Lucy Mitchell, were rescued from a second floor window and taken to City Hospital for treatment of smoke irritation. Mrs. Mary Hesse and her son, Emmett, were taken off the roof of the front porch.

The fire, of undetermined origin, began in the basement. Thick smoke spread through the brick building. Firemen estimated the damage at $500 to the building, $400 to contents.

Win Opera Contracts

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

THESE three young singers were announced in New York as winners of the Metropolitan Opera contracts, awarded in the sixth annual audition. From left, MONA PAULEE, mezzo-soprano of Los Angeles; LANSING HATFIELD, bass-baritone of Franklin, Va., who has appeared in the St. Louis Municipal Opera, and MARY E. VAN KIRK, contralto of Cleveland Heights, O. Hatfield is the third Municipal Theater singer to receive an audition award. The others were Annamary Dickey and Arthur Kent.

Youth Who Dived Into Icy Pond To Save Boy Gets Watch as Reward

Railroad Gives Timepiece to Son of Fireman for Rescue of Engineer's Child at Villa Grove.

CHICAGO, March 24 (AP).—An inscribed railroad watch was awarded today to William Harrison, son of a retired railroad fireman, for his heroic rescue of a railroad engineer's son from drowning.

The award was made to Harrison, 18 years old, Villa Grove Ill., by Charles T. O'Neal, president of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad, for which young Harrison's father formerly worked.

On Dec. 7, Royce Maxfield, 9, went skating on the railroad's reservoir at Villa Grove. Six feet from shore he broke through the ice into deep water. A companion, Marvin French, 10, tried to save him.

Harrison, who heard the boys' cries, ran to the reservoir, pushed Marvin French back to more solid ice and dived into the water. Harrison swam with young Maxfield to a point where the ice was thick and shoved him out on a solid layer. By breaking the ice bit by bit, Harrison reached shore. After the rescue he forced the Maxfield boy to run as fast as he could to ward off the effects of exposure.

They reached the Harrison home where both were wrapped in blankets.

The Maxfield boy's father is a C. & E. I. engineer between Villa Grove and St. Louis.

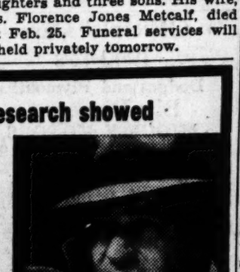
JOSEPH MAYO METCALF DIES

Assistant Chief Engineer of M-K-T Lines Was 60 Years Old.

Joseph Mayo Metcalf, assistant chief engineer of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Lines, died yesterday at St. John's Hospital of complications following an operation. He was 60 years old and lived at 110 West Jackson road, Webster Groves.

Mr. Metcalf had been associated with the railroad since 1908. He came to St. Louis from Texas in 1920, when he was made assistant chief engineer. Surviving are two daughters and three sons. His wife, Mrs. Florence Jones Metcalf, died last Feb. 25. Funeral services will be held privately tomorrow.

Tests during 9 years' research showed those who gargled LISTERINE had FEWER COLDS



Fight the menace of colds intelligently! Remember that in tests conducted during nine years of research, those who gargled Listerine Antiseptic twice a day had fewer colds, milder colds, and colds of shorter duration than those who did not use it. So be on guard! Gargle full strength Listerine Antiseptic . . . at least twice a day.

OPEN VERDICT IN DEATH DUE TO FLOOR COLLAPSE

Jury Unable to Say Whether Cause Was Criminal Carelessness or Accident.

A Coroner's jury, after hearing testimony today as to the death of Albert T. Ashwell, killed Friday afternoon in the collapse of the second floor of the United States Seed Co. building, 100 South Twelfth street, reported that it was unable to determine whether the cause was criminal carelessness or accident.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Donald J. Meyer, who attended the inquest, made no announcement as to whether the case would be placed before the grand jury.

Walter R. Young, president of the seed firm, testified that, in view of the accident, he believed the floor had been overloaded with bags of seed. He said a representative of the Adolph K. Feinberg Realty Co., agent for the property, had assured him that the floor would stand a weight of 150 pounds per square foot. He said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, after the hearing, that the weight placed on the floor was slightly less than that figure. A fire captain and a policeman testified that, in their opinion, the floor was overloaded, and that it appeared to have been weakened by effects of a fire.

Seven Children Perish in Fire.

WINDSOR MILLS, Quebec, March 24 (Canadian Press).—Seven children were reported burned to death last night when flames destroyed a frame farmhouse near this town, 20 miles northwest of Sherbrooke. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Alcide Leclarc, they ranged in age from two months to 13 years. The parents were visiting friends.

GEN. JOHNSON SAYS "LITTLE FELLOW" WILL FEEL PINCH OF TAX

and halve the consuming power of the public.

Ceiling Over Prices.

What is the answer? I don't know, but I have never been able to understand how high taxes can produce lower prices. Tax is an element of the cost of things and cost is an element of the price of things. The higher the tax, the higher the cost and also the higher the price—or so it has always seemed to me.

If that is so and the prudent sources of greatly increased revenue are as thin as they seem to be, we should be giving a lot more study to methods of keeping prices down than to ways of getting taxes up. Until the last war, efforts to stop price increases by law were not successful, but much was accomplished then in that direction and more seems to be working now—not only in Germany and German-dominated territory, but in England. The quicker we put a flexible statutory ceiling over prices the better chance we shall have of surviving this war.

GARZA FAILS AGAIN; TO FIGHT SIX BULLS

Promises to Redeem Himself at Special Post-Season Event, Unprecedented in Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, March 24 (AP).—Matador Lorenzo (El Magnifico) Garza, who has lost decisions to two bulls within a month, vowed today to wipe out his "supreme disgrace" in a special post-season corrida against six bulls.

Luis Rodriguez, manager of the $8600-an-afternoon matador, said the bulls would be the largest and bravest in all Mexico and Garza would face them single-handed, but one at a time, either on April 6 or April 13.

Garza, long one of the most famous bull fighters in Mexico, suffered his first disgrace three weeks ago when he failed to dispatch a bull with nine sword thrusts. The Government fined him 1000 pesos.

The next week he sought to redeem himself, only to have a bull tear his pants and throw him into the dust, but he arose to kill the bull.

Yesterday he again failed to kill a bull with nine thrusts. The fans yelled insults at him.

Garza has fought six bulls before in one afternoon but never under such circumstances as those which will surround his proposed post-season corrida, an affair entirely without precedent in Mexico.

Manager Rodrigues mentioned, in passing, that admission would be charged.

DIES OF INJURIES SUFFERED WHEN HIT BY AUTO MARCH 15

Jacob Duvall, 65, Was Struck by Machine Which Sped Away After Accident.

Jacob Duvall, a laborer, 2643 (rear) Chouteau avenue, died at City Hospital yesterday of injuries suffered March 15 when he was struck by an automobile which was driven on, in front of 2651 Chouteau. He was 65 years old.

Two Negro boys told police that Duvall was attempting to cross Chouteau from north to south about 8:20 p. m. when he was hit by a dark sedan or coach, which continued west at high speed. In the street police found a handle of an automobile door. Duvall suffered fractures of the pelvis and nose and other injuries.

His death was the twenty-second automobile fatality in the city this year, compared with 24 in the corresponding period of last year.

TOCK RISE
S SELECTIVE;
AIN MARKET
OES LITTLE

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP).—
ocks set an uneven course up-ard in a highly selective market day.
Demand converged mostly on a w favored steels, rails, chemicals miscellaneous industrial shares, ding some for gains of a point or re.
Extreme quiet in the forenoon s accepted by many traders as idence there was little pressure sell. Temptation to buy for a ly, consequently, brought out a tter tone after midday, particurly in rails and steels.
Renewed strength in commodi-
s, lately the main focus of specu-tion for higher prices, likewise emed to encourage buying in ocks. Senate approval of the wo billion dollar British aid bill olinded the market of the anned "all out" effort to speed ar industry.
On the other hand, brokers noted e Balkan situation appeared to approaching a showdown, makg for caution in speculative op-rations.
Transactions totaled 360,720
ares.
A block of 52,000 shares of Comonwealth & Southern appeared on e tape at ½, off 1-16.
Rails resumed a higher trend in e bond market.
Publication of favorable earnings eports provided much of the stimus for the selective demand in ares. Worthington Pump, for stance, rose nearly a point after isclosure its profit last year was uivalent to $6.20 a share, against cents in 1939. The heavy dease need for metal was reflected Anaconda's report, revealing ofit equal to $4.04 a share against 33 in 1939, and stirred some inrest in coppers in early dealings.
Steels faced the uncertainties of ge negotiations between union-d labor and Carnegie Illinois, rgest operating unit of U. S.
el, and prospect the outcome of ese negotiations would have wide fluence on pay rates of other mpanies. Threat of a Bethlem Steel strike likewise hung over e market.
Reports considerable coastwise opping might be diverted to ited States and British ocean de lanes raised rail hopes for rther expansion in traffic over-ad and there was some buying carrier issues in expectation evenues would continue to improve spite hints of an impending rise operating costs.

ORPORATION SHARE EARNINGS

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP).—Amer-an Airlines, Inc., in its annual report day showed 1940 net income of $1,858,- 8, including $250,835 profit from sale aircraft and other equipment not need-d in the operations. The earnings, after eferred dividends paid, were equal to $5 a share on 380,313 shares of comon.
In 1939 the company reported net in-me of $1,467,751, or $4.15 a share on ,320 common shares.
The report, signed by C. R. Smith, esident, showed provision for Federal come taxes amounted to $559,400 against 80,300 in 1939.
Passenger revenue totaled $15,898,794 mpared with $10,712,598. A table show-g 1940 passenger revenues of 11 of the rst railroad systems placed American ds seventh in the amount dollar venue.
Revenue passengers transported by merican Airlines in 1940 were 870,930, n increase of 60.8 per cent over the 81,757 transported in 1939. Mail and press revenues also increased over the revious year.

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP).—Mc-on & Robbins, Inc., earned the largest profits in 1940 in the company's his-ry, J. Wardall, trustee, reported.
The profit amounted to $5,904,810 before deral income taxes, interest, and reor-anization expenses paid by the trustee.
his compared with $5,057,714 in 1939.
After full year of the trusteeship. After provision for Federal income taxes and organization expenses paid in 1940, but efore interest on indebtedness deferred the reorganization, net profit was $6,649. This compared with $4,134,177
in 1939.

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP).—Boeing rplane Co. reported today consolidated et profit for 1940, excluding results of nadian subsidiary, of $374,655, or 35 nts a share, compared with net loss of $34,073 in 1939.
E. G. Johnson, president, reported unfilled orders at the end of the year totaled $196,522,446, compared with $22,- 39,625 at the end of 1939. He said deliveries last year amounted to $19,390,-
,000, greater than the total of the pre-ious three years.

CHICAGO, March 24 (AP).—Standard Oil Co. (Indiana) and subsidiaries earned net income of $33,597,342, equivalent to $3.20 a share, in 1940, President Edward Seubert told the board of directors in preliminary statement.
In 1939, the company earned $34,142,-
,000, or $2.23 a share on 15,272,014 shares.
Seubert said that operating income for 1940 showed an increase over 1939, but that the gain was offset by larger taxes and interest charges.

Corporation earnings in dollars and cents per common share in most instances with corresponding period in the preceding year, reported by the Associated Press, will be

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 24 (AP).—New buying interest in rail and utility liens helped to keep most of the corporate bond list pointing near start of last hour today.
Rails were bolstered by the already heavily stressed improvement in past revenues and prospects for additional gains. Utilities attracted a more selective buying interest, based in part on recent holding company integration moves.
Although trading in U. S. Governments in the stock exchange was so light as to preclude the establishment of trends, in fairly active over-the-counter dealings, prices were unchanged to a bit improved.
The new taxable 2½s of '52-'54 were quoted a shade up at 101.14-32 bid. Other Federal issues ranged from unchanged to 3-32 point higher.
Some of the better gainers at the close included Firestone Tire 3½s at 104¼; International Telephone 5s at 45; Western Maryland 4s at 94¼; Nickel Plate 4½s at 60½; and Wabash first 5s at 55½.

LONDON STOCK MARKET

LONDON, March 24 (AP).—Industrial issues generally slipped in limited transactions in the Stock Exchange today, despite an early advance brought about by reinvestment of funds resulted from Government reimbursements for requisitioned securities.
The reinvestment process was featured by the buying of gilt-edged securities and Indian bonds and a small advance in domestic rails on provincial support.

These three pilots are symbols of our three spheres of air-service—Army, Navy and Air Lines . . . All three are vital auxiliaries of one another . . . Each service needs pilots, planes and equipment . . . Each is being strengthened to the limit.

The Army The Navy The Air Lines

National Defense and The Air Lines

NATIONAL DEFENSE overshadows all other responsibilities. All else may be futile without the attainment of that objective.

The welfare of the individual citizen or the individual business is not dissoluble from the welfare of the nation.

* * *

We must have combat airpower. You recognize the need for that. But victory cannot come from supremacy at the military front alone.

Right here, in the arsenal of democracy, an important battle is being waged—the battle of the home front: production. Men, metals and machinery are of urgent importance. But more important is TIME.

The tempo of national defense is attuned to the speed of the airplane. An increasing number of persons engaged in national defense undertakings must schedule their work according to the time-saving advantages of air transportation.

* * *

It is self-evident that the importance of air transportation increases in ratio to the need for it. Men must travel by air;—delivery of materiel must be expedited by air express;—communication must be accelerated by air mail.

It follows logically that the air lines will receive the aid of the government—in personnel, aircraft and materiel—not only to maintain the high standards of yesterday but actually to exceed them.

The effective operation of the air lines is a "must" in our government today. Resources have been charted, requirements of the Army, the Navy and the air lines have been weighed and proper allocation is being provided for the balance necessary for maximum effectiveness in this period of crisis.

ALL THREE WILL BE MAINTAINED AT TOP NOTCH EFFICIENCY.

* * *

With personal pride you look upon the Army and the Navy as your Army and your Navy. Now it's your air lines, too!

By the same token, your air lines have the compelling necessity to deserve an even greater public confidence.

There will be a world after the war and there will be generations after our own. We cannot plan for today alone.

Priceless as combat planes are for defense, they protect but do not create national wealth.

But the transport planes of the air lines do aid in the creation of national wealth, by expediting modern commerce between cities and between nations.

The accelerated tempo of today will be carried over to the period which will follow. Military warfare will be replaced by economic rivalry.

The airplane is dominating the military effort of today; it will dominate the economic effort of tomorrow. The "old days" of slower tempo have gone over the horizon . . . and they will not come back to us.

* * *

The pressure of war has hastened immeasurably the design of more effective aircraft. Production has been increased manyfold. Pilots, mechanics and other skilled technicians are being trained by increasing thousands.

We shall not want, after the war is over, to close the doors of our engine and airplane factories, nor to lose the experience of those men skilled in the design, construction and operation of aircraft. These things we have worked for, bought and paid for. We have the requirement that they continue to be utilized in the national interest.

* * *

The world of tomorrow will be a world of the airplane. Distances have forever lost their old meanings. Africa will be our next-door neighbor. Europe will be but hours away.

First things first. National defense overshadows all other requirements now. But in our responsibility to concentrate upon the requirements of today, let us permit some measure of time for the plans of tomorrow.

After the war is over, the air lines of the United States must continue to lead the world in utility and effectiveness and the American flag must fly over the oceans of the earth.

It is largely to aviation that we must look for our security and our leadership in world affairs FROM NOW ON.

South American News-Ticker

LOIS LONG, the former "Lipstick" of the New Yorker (but now a happily married woman), wants President Roosevelt or anybody to build mountain inns all over Ecuador. Claims it will then be Switzerland. . . . Thornton Wilder is being received like a movie star in S. America—his "Bridge of San Luis Rey" was a big seller there. . . . William C. White (Ruth Morris' husband) is doing a serial with a Brazilian background for Collier's. The villain is American. . . . Gilbert Gabriel, former dramatic critic, is going to Nicaragua to do a piece on the life of Wm. Walker. . . Wendy Iglehart's mother (her daddy is prexy of The Grace Line) was born in Chile. So were glamour gals Jinx Falkenburg and Helen Craig, star of "Johnny Belinda." . . . Everybody is happier since Hollywood made Carmen Miranda a Brazilian (and not an Argentinian). Now her movies may be shown there.

MGM'S CASTING of "Simon Bolivar" (The South American George Washington) has caused considerable excitement—as much, p'raps, as there was over GWTW. The fans, frinstance, have turned down Clark Gable. . . . He didn't look like their hero, it seems. Robert Taylor is announced for the role. . . . Incidentally, Warners spent plenty of money doing research on Bolivar—only to lose their priority to Metro. . . . Paramount News is sending John Dored, formerly assigned to Eastern Europe—to Rio and Buenos Aires. . . . All South American stars will appear in the Dolores Del Rio picture which is to be made in Mexico City. . . . They make an attractive perfumed water in Rio with a real orchid inside the bottle.

THE GILBERT MILLERS of Theater-Town and the Wm. Paleys of Radio City are busy returning all the entertainmen they received in S. America—to the many visitors from below the equator. There are so many, in fact, that Best's took an ad (in Spanish) in the Times. . . . If you want to meet the lad who wrote "Perfidia" and "Frenesi" then try to get through all of John (NBC) Royal's staff. Mr. Royal has him in tow—introducing him to all the unimportant celebrities. . . . So great is the popularity of Reader's Digest (the Spanish edition) that its circ has tripled in three issues. . . . Now that there's no Paris any more, the demand in South America for Vogue and Harper's is bigger than the supply. . . . Hattie Carnegie may open a branch in Buenos Aires.

THE BIG HIT last season down there was Rise Stevens, the Brooklyn girl who clicked big at the Met Opera. . . . Rosa Covarrubias, who is doing all those photographs for the Mexican Government, was Rose Rolanda, star of the first "Music Box Revue." . . . Happy news among her numerous fans South of the Border—is the Hollywood comeback staged by Mona Maris after seven years of bad luck. . . . Senor Floro Ugarte, director-general of The Colon Opera, came to New York to sign Toscanini and Tibbett for Buenos Aires. . . . The Chilean Ski Team is reaping the glory that the Argentine Polo Team enjoyed a few years ago. . . . Tip—most of the boys look like Robert Taylor and are the most eligible young men in Chile.

CASE RECORDS

By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE S-120: Judy, aged 6, is our only daughter. Last night Mrs. Crane took the two older boys to a movie, leaving Judy, Danny and David at home with me while I worked at the typewriter. They asked me to tell them a story before they went to sleep. After the third one, I called a halt, so Judy changed her tactics and asked that we sing a few songs. We ended the musical festival with "On the Banks of the Wabash." Then she stalled a little longer by asking me to tell her about Paul Dresser, the song's composer. Maybe I was a bit overly dramatic, for I pictured Paul Dresser as homesick and crying. "Why, I didn't know men cried!" Judy exclaimed in great surprise, but I told her sometimes they did. "I wish I could see a man cry," she added longingly. After a pause she went on: "I did see Grandpa weep a little when his sister died. At least, there were tears in his eyes. But I should like to see a man cry."

DIAGNOSIS: Judy's reaction is simply another expression of the child's elfish view of the giant adults which surround him. It is difficult for youngsters to imagine their fathers as having similar feelings and attitudes to their own. Parents are so large and dominant that the average youngster looks upon them as omniscient and omnipotent. It is an occasion for awe when a child first sees its father or mother shedding tears. "How the mighty have fallen!" is one of their first reactions. But this same thought also links the child more closely to his grieving parent, for he feels more important thereby. Now the parent may actually need the child's help or solicitude, which is a unique situation in the life of the youngster.

★ ★ ★

NOBODY FEELS any delight or incentive toward giving a dime to a millionaire. The act would seem so unthinkable as to appear foolish. But we do obtain some glow of pleasure in handing a dime to a hungry beggar. It makes us feel superior and magnanimous. In much the same fashion, children seldom think about giving favors to their parents while the latter are omnipotent giants. Even the child sees the pettiness of his own gifts in contrast to the greatness of the adult giant. But when the giant falls to the level of helpless weeping, then the youngster finds that his feeble efforts become important. He may even rejoice in being able to assist his weeping mother. Even our fairy stories contain this same bit of child psychology. Jack tried to help his widowed mother when he exchanged the cow for those famous beans.

★ ★ ★

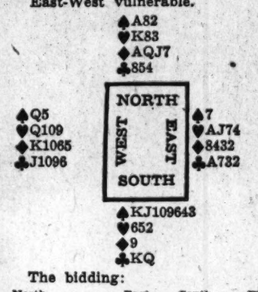
MANY GREAT FIGURES in science and industry didn't lead a coddled childhood but had to sell newspapers and work at odd jobs in order to help a widowed mother or invalided father. Children will rise to meet such emergencies in a remarkable manner. But they will indolently sit and do nothing for a strong, wealthy or self-sufficient parent. It behooves us, therefore, to lean upon our children more. They grow stronger and more self-reliant as they assume such burdens, but they lack incentive till we show them we really need them.

A Wrong Way Finesse Sets Bridge Player

By Ely Culbertson

SO much has been written on the iniquity of finessing that it now is a case of "give the dog a bad name, etc." Actually, of course, a finesse is like every other play. It may be either well or badly calculated. Take the hand below, for example. Declarer was quite right in his judgment that a finesse was unavoidable. The trouble was that he took said finesse the wrong way!

Rubber bridge.
North, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.



The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	1 spade	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

The bidding was eminently correct. South, it will be observed, first mentioned his spade suit with a simple "one-over-one," but later, when North merely kept the bidding open with one no trump, South jumped all the way to game. It would have been incorrect for South to bid four spades directly over one diamond. His possession of the K-Q of clubs made his hand, as a whole, slightly too strong for such a pre-emptive response. His sequence of bids, first one spade, then four spades, admirably described his holding.

If West had been clairvoyant, he could have defeated the contract on the spot by opening a heart but I need scarcely say that his actual choice of the club jack cannot fairly be criticized. East won with the club ace and, for want of a better return, led back a low club, declarer winning. The singleton diamond now was led and taken with the ace, after which the diamond queen was returned for a "ruffing finesse." Declarer's theory, of course, was that if East covered this, he (declarer) would ruff and eventually get a discard of a heart on dummy's diamond jack, thereby insuring his contract. Under many conditions, this is the correct method of finessing when the closed hand has a singleton and the dummy has the A-Q-J, or an equivalent combination. Unfortunately, however, the play did not fit this particular occasion. East did not have the diamond king to put on the queen, and when declarer passed the trick, discarding a low heart, West pounced with his king and promptly laid down the heart queen. Thereupon, two heart losers became unavoidable, and the sound contract was down one.

Declarer had failed signally to appreciate the point of this hand. His only danger lay in the heart suit. He could well afford to lose a diamond trick if, by so doing, he established two of dummy's diamonds for discards. He could not, however, afford to lose said diamond trick to West, because with west on lead, the heart king was in a highly vulnerable position. Thus it goes without saying that the diamond finesse should have been taken to dummy's jack. If East had the king, what of it! East could not attack the heart king, nor could he put west on lead for that attack. On the other hand, if the diamond finesse held, a heart could be discarded on the diamond ace, and then declarer would not have to worry about his contract.

If the hand had been slightly different, with the heart king held by South instead of North, declarer's method of handling the diamond suit would have been absolutely correct, because in that case East would be the "danger hand" which would have to be kept off the lead.

Imitating Mother

By Sylvia Stiles

MRS. C. HAROLD SCHREIBER AND HER DAUGHTER, BILLIE, SKETCHED IN THEIR CHIC MOTHER-AND-DAUGHTER NAVY BLUE SPRING COSTUMES.

WHETHER a daughter is 7 or 17, she enjoys the vogue of dressing to imitate her mother. The mother-and-daughter ensemble idea has become so pronounced that it is a highlight of the current season, and is being adopted extensively by many well-dressed St. Louisans. Sometimes identical themes are developed, and again the effect proves more interesting if there is some variation.

Mrs. C. Harold Schreiber of Maryhill, Ladue road, and her 17-year-old daughter, Miss Billie, who is a student at Villa Duchesne, are perfect exponents of this current trend in fashions when they appear in their chic navy blue spring costumes. Mrs. Schreiber's navy sheer frock has a fitted jacket that is trimmed with white waffle pique, while her daughter's smartly tailored navy suit also adds a white accent at the neckline.

Interesting details of Mrs. Schreiber's frock include the shoulder yoke trimmed with a row of white pearl buttons, the centers of which display gold anchors. The white pique finishes the neckline as well as forming large lapels on the jacket. Three pearl buttons with the anchor decorations fasten the jacket. The crown of the navy blue felt hat worn with this costume is covered with white feathers and there is a sweep of the feathers at the front. Navy pumps, a fitted navy bag and white chamois gloves complete the ensemble.

Miss Billie Schreiber's suit is made of navy blue bengaline, the basque jacket buttoned to the neckline while the skirt is gored. Navy braid edges the jacket and the pockets. Her white silk blouse is worn with the collar outside the jacket neckline. A modified Puritan type of bonnet is edged with white pique and her pumps match the tone of her suit.

HIS WIFE'S FRIENDS

SOMETIMES when a man is alone at home there will be a ring at the doorbell and he will find himself confronting two or more ladies come to call on his wife. This is a terrifying experience.

Of course, the ladies must be urged to come in and assured that you expect your wife back at any minute. The question then arises as to whether they should be offered something to smoke, as it is well nigh impossible these days to distinguish smoking from non-smoking women. The problem is magnified if you are a pipe smoker as you cannot very well offer them pipe tobacco.

The more you look at them, the more ill at ease they will seem. Maybe they are cold. Try lighting an open fire, in spite of their protests that they must be going shortly. The situation now develops into a sort of game in which the object is to quiet their restlessness and hold them until your wife gets back.

The next logical step is to suggest tea, wondering what in Heaven's name you would do if they were to accept. You can now think up topics of conversation likely to interest women; for example, whether the spring hats are out yet and how long skirts are to be and what their hairdressers think of the prospects of our getting into the war.

When the conversation drags you may remark that you can't imagine what is keeping your wife. Every time they make a move to go impress them with your hospitality by looking at them threateningly.

At last you will hear the welcome footsteps of your wife on the porch. You may now turn her friends over to her, while you wipe the beads of perspiration from your brow.

The Modern Treatment of Peptic Ulcer

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

PEPTIC ulcer is commonly called by the laity "stomach ulcers." In the first place it is not "ulcers" as it always occurs as a single ulcer. In the second place it is usually not in the stomach but in the first part of the intestine beyond the opening from the stomach, the duodenum. These duodenal ulcers are 20 times as common as ulcer on the stomach side of the pylorus. The symptoms, however, are very similar and most people who say they have a "stomach ulcer" actually have a duodenal ulcer. It is better, therefore, to lump them both together and call it "peptic ulcer."

As I pointed out Saturday, the symptoms of peptic ulcer are liable to be recurrent, and, while most of these ulcers eventually heal, the patient is likely to be troubled about this time of year and in the beginning of fall weather with the symptoms of dyspepsia. Physical and mental stresses at the change of seasons causes the recurrences and the mental stresses, by increasing the secretion of gastric juice, are just as important as the physical.

In peptic ulcer the hydrochloric acid which is normally present in the gastric juice, is greatly increased, and it is probable that this keeps the ulcer from healing.

This increase is hydrochloric acid is the real key to our modern conception of the treatment of peptic ulcer—to keep the gastric juice neutralized either by diet or the use of neutralizing (alkaline) salts. In the strict treatment, which is often called the "Sippy treatment," the patient goes to bed and is completely neutralized by frequent doses of alkalies for a period of several weeks.

IF ALL PEPTIC ULCER patients would submit to this treatment it is probable that recurrences could be cut down about 50 to 75 per cent, but most of them are unwilling to take time off and to submit to the strict discipline which this requires.

It is certainly true that although the symptoms tend to recur, these patients can be made perfectly comfortable in quite a short time and usually it makes no difference how often the recurrence has occurred, relief follows just the same.

The diet should consist, in these cases, of substances which will not be irritating and which will neutralize the largest amount of gastric juice. Such substances are proteins and fats, such as milk, milk and cream, tender lean meat—as the breast of chicken, eggs, beef, fish, etc. Starches and sweets and, many times, fruits, are likely to cause irritation. All bread eaten should be toasted or consist of crusts.

Most of these people find out for themselves that if they take soda or milk of magnesia, it will give them relief. These are the basis of the powders used in the Sippy treatment.

Of late, a new substance has been introduced which, according to the reports the patients make, seems to work better than the old-time alkaline powders. This is aluminum hydroxide. It can be carried about in the pocket in the form of a sort of creamy liquid and is undoubtedly very potent in neutralizing the excess acidity of the stomach. The principle of treatment with aluminum hydroxide, however, is no different from that of the old Sippy treatment with alkaline powders.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

A. T.:—"What is the cause and a good remedy for bad breath if your teeth are in good condition?"

Answer—Tonsils with infected crypts, sinus disease of the nose. Gargling and nasal douching are the remedies.

E. P. H.:—"You have written that barbital tablets were harmful to middle-aged people. I am 48 years of age and find my nervousness is helped by a five-grain tablet at night. How is it harmful?"

Answer—I did not mean to say that barbital tablets are always harmful. Sometimes they cause mental confusion in middle-aged people. If they work well, and give relief, as in your case, without any unpleasant by-effects, by all means continue to use them.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Tuesday, March 25.

BACKGROUND vibrations today are generally sound and constructive, but most of us will feel a touch of that ol' dabbil, Self-Pity, which we will, of course, put far behind us. Watch emotions, especially in domestic department, till evening.

Your Life Ray.

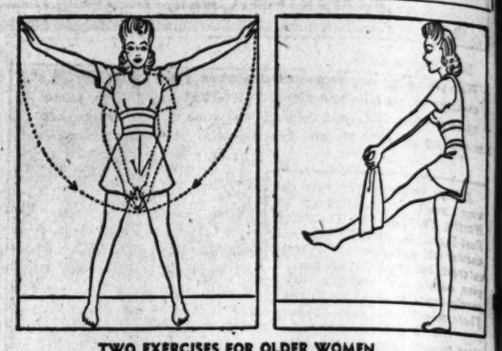
Yesterday I mentioned your life ray. I spoke of it as being colored by the zodiacal sign through which it came to earth at the time of your birth (known as your sun sign). It is well to understand this point: the ray from the sun is that which supports all life on this planet—all of us exist because of it. Yet it comes in through different angles that we call signs and degrees of the circle.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead (if this is your birthday) begins emotional, inspirational, but possibly difficult tests in relations with others—secrets will out, attitudes manifest. Take no risks July-December. Danger: June 24-July 11, Oct. 21-30.

Reducing Routine

By Patricia Lindsay



TWO EXERCISES FOR OLDER WOMEN.

OLDER women who have neglected to exercise too many years must begin a refashioning and reducing routine with movements which do not strain them. Much harm can be experienced from strenuous movements if your body has not been gradually limbered first.

Swimming is an excellent means of limbering gradually and may be followed by more strenuous reducing and refashioning exercises such as hip slimming and waist stretching.

Today I present two safe exercises for any older woman, or for a woman who is recuperating from an illness.

The first is a grand all-in-one for acquiring control of one's torso. It should be practiced in stocking feet and loose clothing.

Stand with legs apart, hands touching in front of body. Swing arms high and back, swing them low and let them cross each other. Keep elbows straight and knees straight as you swing rapidly about 12 times. Relax and repeat. Also hold your abdomen in and up.

The second exercise, though simple, is splendid for reducing the legs and for acquiring a steady balance which encourages body poise.

Grasp a Turkish towel in both hands. Raise left leg out stiffly without bending knee. Loop the towel under your ankle and pull it briskly from side to side as the weight of your leg rests on the towel. Relax after a couple of minutes and then loop the towel underneath the ankle and let it slide up the leg to under the knee as you briskly pull it from side to side. Relax and repeat with right leg.

All the exercising in the world will not benefit you unless you make good posture an unconscious habit. You must hold your abdomen in and up, your head back and shoulders back but relaxed. Act queenly—be proud of an easy erect carriage—your body functions normally and makes you healthy when held in correct posture!

If you want to reduce safely, sanely and quickly, sen 10 cents in coin for the booklet, "Slimming to Beauty," which gives menus and exercises. Address Miss Lindsay, Postoffice Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

Browned Chicken

Two fryers (about two and one-half pounds each), one-third cup flour, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one-fourth teaspoon celery salt, six tablespoons fat, three tablespoons butter, one cup water, one tablespoon chopped parsley.

Wash chicken and cut into serving pieces. Chill until time to cook. Place flour and seasonings in paper sack, add chicken, a few pieces at a time and shake the sack until the chicken is coated. Heat fat in frying pan, add the chicken and brown quickly. Transfer to shallow baking pan. Add rest of ingredients and lid. Bake one and one-quarter hours in moderate oven. Inspect frequently and turn to allow even browning.

Use leftover chicken cold, reheated or removed from bones and combine with cream sauce or vegetables.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I WAS giving my dog some exercise when a boy friend of mine came by on his bike and stopped to talk to me, and we talked quite a while. Do you think I was rude not to have asked him into my house? My girl friends claim I should have asked him in. We are age 16.

D. C.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

I can't see that it was necessary for you to ask the boy in. He was riding by and you were supposed to be exercising the dog, so you merely had a passing chat. If you feel it is rude not to say something next time along this line, and you know it's a time of day when your mother would prefer you did homework or the daily chores, say "I'm sorry I can't ask you in, Jerry, but I've got simply piles of homework," or "Mother has something for me to do, so I can't ask you in." That should make the girl friends feel better, whether Jerry does or not.

You are merely in the throes of puppy love and your reactions are quite typical. Take your nerve in hand, swallow three times, and ask the chosen girl friend for a date on every possible occasion. WE ARE A GROUP of boys who go to a certain corner every night. Recently a group of girls has been coming around and giving the corner a none too good reputation. We like these girls and all, but don't want them coming around, so how can we tell them so without insulting them? BOYS.

The girls would probably stay at home where they belong if all you fascinating boys would stay where you belong—which is at home and not on street corners at night. It doesn't look much better to see a bunch of boys holding up the lamp posts, than it does for the girls. Besides, when does the studying get done? So no more hanging around corners yourself, or it will be you and not the corner, that has the bad reputation.

IN ANSWER to a "God-Hungry Soul": Your idea does not sound at all practical but more like a good way to starve. The world is full of good preachers, but not so full of good, practicing Christians. This is probably why you have received so little encouragement from ministers, for they feel you can do a great deal of good right where you are, by your example of proper living in the everyday walk of life. I am inclined to feel as they do.

The Word "Gown"

By Emily Post

KNOWING very well that I have a deep-rooted prejudice against certain words and phrases, answers to questions about speech often require careful thought. In other words, before answering "No," it is necessary to remember that many words and phrases not approved in one section of our country are approved in other sections. A question in point is this one: "Will you tell me what you think about the use of the word Gown, when applied to important dresses? A friend tells me it is a vulgar choice. The same friend dislikes Outfit, too."

EMILY POST

In answer to this, I myself wear day dresses and evening dresses always. Tea gowns, dressing gowns and night gowns are the only "gowns" in my own vocabulary. But this does not mean that "evening gown" is tabu. I agree "gown" is a word likely to be preferred by the pretentious, but it is also used by many people of best taste, especially when a loose flowing style of dress is meant. "Outfit," decidedly not in my own vocabularly (except as equipment for expedition or occupation), is a word of convenience coined by advertisers, and accepted, I'm sure, by 99 per cent of the younger generation. "Frock" is suitable for a child's dress—especially one hanging loose below yoke or shoulders. Like "gown," it is just a little on the pretentious outskirt of good taste. But as a relief for a fashion writer's unavoidable repetition of the word "dress," both must, of course, be admitted.

DEAR MRS. POST: Is it unsuitable to give a wedding anniversary present that is for the wife alone? I want to give a silver toilet set to someone because I know she has long wanted it, and yet it is so definitely a gift for her use alone that I'm wondering what about the husband. They are both good friends of mine.

Answer: Wedding presents intended for the bride alone (Jewelry, for example) have always been considered proper and not discourteous to the groom. Therefore, the same should hold true of anniversary presents sent to the wife. In fact, I imagine her husband would be the first to be pleased should someone give her something she has long wanted. If you want to avoid giving him the impression of being pushed out in the cold entirely, you might, just as a joke perhaps, send him a kit of things he can spread on the shelf under his dressing mirror in the bathroom. Razor blades, shaving cream and lotion, etc.

THE FABULOUS FOOL

"DOODLES" WEAVER IN THE THROES OF ONE OF HIS IMITATIONS

"Doodles" Weaver, Manhattan's Favorite Clown, Is a University Graduate Who Earns a Living Imitating Lions, Worms and Baby Kangaroos.

By VIRGINIA IRWIN

Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, March 24.

WINSTEAD SHEFFIELD GLENDENNING DIXON "DOODLES" WEAVER is a screwball, net, no discount.

The son of a rich Californian, Doodles could prop his big feet comfortably on a mahogany desk in his papa's roofing business office and earn a nice living taking orders for shingles. Or, with his degree from Stanford University, he could carve a career out of massaging the mysteries of psychology into the craniums of college students.

But not Doodles. He prefers instead to be known as The Fabulous Fool, The Maddest Man in Manhattan, The Loony Lad who makes a nice living out of imitating lions, worms, baby kangaroos, yaks and Ted Husing, out of singing "Am I Blue?" with a blue bag over his head, out of beginning his clown act by announcing "the management will now lock the doors and beat the devil out of the audience." He is the sort of guy who actually enjoys being regarded as a strange psychopathic case and encourages the impression that he is a fugitive from the batty bin.

"When I was 4 years old, I used to stand on one leg and fish for mackerel in the gutter when it rained," Doodles Weaver told me the other day, as we sat on a sawhorse in the boiler room of the Mansfield Theater here where he is currently clowning in the musical revue, "Meet the People."

"My folks never knew whether I was going to walk, fly or swim until I was 12. At that age, my idea of fun was playing the Pied Piper of Catalina over on Catalina Island. I'd walk through the streets playing on my trumpet and when I got a bunch of kids following me, I'd walk off the end of the pier with my clothes on. There were always two or three of my friends who would walk off with me. It was quite an act."

Slightly disturbed by the gossip of their neighbors to the effect that the Weavers' red-headed offspring was a little wacky, Doodles' parents plopped him into a private school until he was ready for university and then deluded into believing that he had outgrown his juvenile dementia, they sent him to Stanford University. At that estimable institution of learning, Doodles distinguished himself by making excellent marks, getting himself elected president of Beta Theta Pi, being discovered under the shroud at the formal unveiling of a statue to Herbert Hoover and finally by showing up at graduation exercises on roller skates to receive his diploma.

Presumably to recover from the nervous strain attendant upon getting their problem-child son through university, Doodles' papa and mama set sail for Europe soon after his graduation. And it was then that the boy who is at the moment Manhattan's favorite clown hit upon the inspired idea of turning his family's home into a night club. He knocked out enough walls on the downstairs floor to make room for 250 customers, installed an orchestra, built a miniature golf course complete with flood lights for night playing, and sponsored auto races around the driveway of the estate.

"I charged all the bills to my folks and wound up with $500 out of the deal and a warning from pop that if I ever so much as set foot in the front door he'd beat me black and blue," Doodles says with all the seriousness of a bald-headed banker explaining a big deal. "When that $500 was gone, there was nothing for me to do but go into the movies. There weren't any teaching jobs handy and I had to give up my dream of teaching kids psychology and philosophy and making them like it. I knew a lot of movie people and so I just went to work in the movies."

All told, Doodles has made some 20 movies, 10 of them punk, 10 good. His latest and best is Harold Lloyd's "A Guy, a Girl and a Gob." A quick look will spot him in "Kitty Foyle." But his biggest success came when he joined up with a bunch of young Hollywood squirts who knew they had talent but didn't know what to do with it except put on their own show, which they called "Meet the People," and which now has better than a year's record in Hollywood, San Francisco, Denver and Chicago, with three months of capacity houses in New York.

In addition to convincing New York that he is a member of the lunatic fringe by virtue of his stuff in "Meet the People," Doodles has been carrying the brunt of the entertainment responsibilities at the rather staid Algonquin Supper Club here in New York. Previous to Doodles, Manager Frank Case of the Algonquin relied upon the talents of Viennese Greta Keller, English John Buckmaster and Russian Olga Baclanova to entertain his customers and it's something of a surprise to Case himself that Doodles is good enough to double the usually placid Algonquin patrons up with laughter.

Married to a pretty girl who is also in "Meet the People," Doodles expects to be a papa in July and the chief worry of Beverly and Doodles Weaver these days is what they are going to name the baby.

"I want to call him Rug Weaver or Basket Weaver," Doodles explains, "and I guess it will be Basket Weaver because my wife says then if it's a girl we can make it Baskette Weaver."

Weaver will excuse us if we say he is no beauty. He is, to say the least, odd looking and the faces he makes imitating unhappy rabbits, baffled St. Bernards and toothless tobacco auctioneers do not make him any prettier. The way he dishevels his flaming hair, contorts his lanky body and the weird sounds he makes with his lips don't help much either toward making him any dame's idea of her dream man.

"It's a hell of a responsibility having to make people listen to you and laugh at you," Doodles sighs. "And sometimes it almost gets me down. After all, I'm intelligent enough to do something else."

Way back in Doodles' mind, his wife tells me, is the idea that some day he would like to teach psychology to college kids in a way that would make them like it and understand it. She thinks he feels that somehow he has left a blot upon the family escutcheon by never settling down to something stable like the roofing business or a teaching berth. But he never gets around to doing anything about it.

Better than six feet tall, Doodles is 26 years old, weighs 150 pounds and has brown eyes. Life to him is a big joke to which he keeps adding his own little jokes. He says his hobby is saving used ice cubes. His morning exercise is chinning himself on the rod that holds up the shower curtain. He smokes nickel cigars, which he has monogrammed "WSGDW," meaning Winstead Sheffield Glendenning Dixon Weaver. He never answers to that name and used Doodles Weaver even for the movies. He got the Doodles business at the age of 4 when he used to sing "Yankee Doodle" standing on the piano and waving an American flag for the edification of his family's guests.

WEAVER IS NOT EXACTLY A GLAMOR BOY EVEN WHEN HE'S NOT MAKING FACES. HE SAYS HIS HOBBY IS COLLECTING USED ICE CUBES.

"DOODLES" HAS A REPRESSED DESIRE TO TEACH PSYCHOLOGY TO COLLEGE KIDS.

One of the most likeable young funny men New York has seen in a long time, there is a shy tomfoolery to Doodles' style, an apologetic excitement to his pace and a genuine respect for his audience. He can't explain where he gets his ideas for his stuff. "It's just easier to think crazy than straight," he says. And New York loves it when he comes out on the stage and says "the program originally scheduled to be canceled at this time will be heard," or when he shows up in the rear of the audience clapping along with the rest for a Weaver encore.

But for a guy who threw the cracker of his craziness upon the water and had it come back covered with the caviar of success, Doodles is a strangely worried guy.

"I think," he says, "it's because of that psychology I studied in school."

Economical Menus -:- By Meta Given

EGG yolks give a particularly rich and delicious flavor to chocolate pudding, besides adding significant food value in the form of minerals and vitamins. If you have egg yolks left from a splurge in angel food cake making or meringues, this chocolate egg yolk pudding will be welcome; if not, the pudding is still good eating. The egg whites will be utilized in another dish later this week, so put them in a covered jar and keep them chilled in the refrigerator.

Chocolate Egg Yolk Pudding.

Two and a half squares bitter chocolate, three-quarters cup sugar, two teaspoons flour, few grains salt, one and a half cups milk, scalded, four egg yolks, beaten, one-quarter teaspoon vanilla, or to taste.

Melt chocolate over hot water; mix sugar, flour, and salt together, and blend with melted chocolate. Stir in three-quarters cup of the hot milk until smooth; then cook over direct heat until it boils, stirring constantly. Add slowly and with stirring the remaining hot milk to beaten egg yolks; add egg-milk mixture to chocolate mixture and cook two or three minutes longer over boiling water, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Cool and serve plain or with top milk or cream. Four servings.

Daily Food Report In St. Louis

TODAY'S best vegetable buys include carrots, iceberg lettuce, leaf lettuce, Boston lettuce, celery and celery cabbage.

Peas are very good but not very cheap. Artichokes and avocados are also on the market.

On the fruit market there are pineapples and also some good strawberries but both are high in price.

MENUS FOR TUESDAY.

Breakfast.

Stewed figs, one-third pound dried figs; prepared cereal, two and a half cups prepared cereal; hot muffins, one and a half cups flour, two and a half teaspoon baking powder, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one and a half tablespoon sugar, one egg, three-quarter cup milk, one and a half tablespoons melted fat; jelly, one-third cup jelly; coffee, four tablespoons coffee (adults only); milk for children.

Luncheon.

Green beans in tomato sauce, one pound green beans, two tablespoons butter, four tablespoons flour, two cups tomato juice, one egg, salt, dry mustard, one tablespoon sugar, celery salt, pepper; bread and butter, eight slices wholewheat bread, butter; fruit cup, two oranges, one grapefruit, one banana; tea, two teaspoons tea (adults only); milk for children.

Dinner.

Braised pork shoulder steak, one and a quarter pounds pork shoulder steak, one-quarter cup flour, salt, pepper, fat, water; mashed potatoes, one and a half pounds potatoes, one-third cup milk, butter, salt; cabbage salad, two and a half cups shredded cabbage, one-quarter cup chopped green pepper, one-quarter cup mayonnaise; bread and butter, eight slices bread, butter; chocolate egg yolk pudding, recipe already given; coffee, four tablespoon coffee (adults only); milk for children.

Cost for day: About $1.55.

A School Plan Which Wasted Precious Time

By Angelo Patri

WE are anxious to make school life tie up with life outside, but in our efforts to bring life through the classroom doors we are likely to mislead ourselves, to believe the projects we follow out are real when in fact they are only another artificial plan of presenting an academic subject.

Once I saw a whole classroom done up as a grocery store, a sham grocery store because all the boxes were empty—sand was the sugar and the flour and the other dry groceries were represented by like substitutes. Children took turns at being the grocer and the buyers. They had toy money. They were learning something, but what?

"It's good arithmetic. A practical experience in applying arithmetic to a social situation."

One hates to be bad-mannered, so one politely nods and goes his way. But look at what was going on there. Nothing was real, not even the social situation. The children were not learning arithmetic to any noticeable extent. They were third year, first half, children and they did not know their tables. They counted on their fingers to find three times seven, and used the coins to verify their results. They spent more time fussing with the elaborate equipment than they did with the essential fact that three times seven made 21. The teacher was distressed with the wasted period and the children got little out of it.

WE ARE MAKING the same sort of gesture in other ways. Just now we want to emphasize the qualities of democracy in our way of life; we want to teach the ethical values of fine behavior that achieve spiritual growth. We make gestures again. The older children are invited to talk freely about their reactions to the administration of the school, of the teacher's methods, personality and the like, of their own feelings, their own personalities. The idea is that through free expression youth will discover true democracy. Will it?

We are considering sending children for a period once a week to centers for religious instruction. The idea is that by teaching this subject one period a week we shall head children toward spiritual growth and spiratual life. Will we?

Democracy is a spiritual quality, a way of life based on the integrity of individual citizens whose spiritual qualities have been developed to the degree that allows consideration for other individual citizens to live rich, meaningful, satisfying lives. Religion is the philosophy of living that allows true democracy to function. Both these high social achievements must be the flower of daily, repeated, intelligent experiences. Are we heading toward them in our practices?

Do your children present a problem by their behavior when "there's company"? All these matters of adjustment to the world are wisely considered in Angelo Patri's booklet, "Your Child and Other People." Send for it, enclosing 10 cents. Address: Angelo Patri, care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

Honey Angel Food Cake.

One teaspoon cream of tartar, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon grated lemon rind, one cup egg whites, three-fourths cup sugar, one-half cup honey, one cup cake flour.

Add cream of tartar, salt and grated lemon rind to egg whites and beat with a wire whip until they are stiff. They should move only slightly when the bowl is tipped. Adding sugar two tablespoonfuls at a time, fold half of it into the egg whites. Warm honey so that it will pour in a thin stream and fold into egg whites. Sift flour and remaining sugar together and fold into egg whites, folding in only one-fourth cup of the sifted mixture at a time. Pour into an angel-food cake pan and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees) for about 50 minutes. Invert the tin, cool and remove the cake to a cooling rack.

Synthetic Bandages.

Synthetic fibers of the cellulose acetate type can be used for surgical bandages, dressings, towels, etc., with the use of a new invention. The fibers, by a chemical process, are partly saponified, which increases their absorptive capacity.

Auxiliary Seat.

A bicycle built for one may be used for two, with a newly patented auxiliary seat. It is held over the rear wheel by two legs which reach down to the frame of the bicycle.

Lock Up My Heart

by ROB EDEN

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE.

BOTH Mark and Lucia stood listening to Mrs. North's retreating footsteps, her cane seeming to punctuate the sound, to the man at least, with the finality of doom.

He walked to the easel and picked up his pencil. He had to do something, keep busy. He felt as nervous as he had in the Chicago jail in the few minutes when Dale, having changed clothes with him and let Mark fix the small false mustache to his lip, was walking to freedom down the corridor.

Lucia stood looking at Cheney, her eyes on the back of his head. She, too, was nervous and found herself fidgeting with the handkerchief in her hands.

Suddenly she spoke, and Mark started as though someone had fired a shot close to his ear.

"You're not very friendly, Mark," she said. He mumbled something unintelligible and went on with his drawing, standing back and eyeing it critically, and then carefully adding a line here, one there.

"Suppose we stop stalling and get down to cases," Lucia said, after a few moments. She had control of herself now. She was no longer nervous. Why should she be? She had taken a chance—made a shrewd guess after putting together little things she had seen, scraps of conversation she had been careful to overhear.

She had expected to have marshal evidence, tell what she had seen and heard. She had hated the thought of that for she knew it was pretty flimsy evidence on which to make a case.

So she had boldly made a statement, and had caught Mrs. North so completely off guard that she didn't even put up an argument. Now Lucia was sure of her ground and she meant to push her advantage to the limit.

Mark, a grim, determined look on his face, carefully laid down his pencil and turned to face his aunt's companion.

"All right," he said, "let's get down to cases, as you so graphically express it. What is it that you want to say?"

"You're not making it easy for me, are you?" There was the slightest trace of panic in her voice, but he was too upset to notice and take advantage of it.

"Easy? I don't know what you're talking about."

"I'm quite sure that you do. I'm quite sure that Mrs. North came up here to tell you that I had discovered the secret of your Mr. Sawyer, as you call him. The stranger in the house who looks enough like you to be your brother."

She heavily emphasized the "Mr. Sawyer" and again the word "brother."

Mark regarded her steadily with unwavering eyes, and she stared back at him, defiantly. However, her eyes were the first to give way and she looked past him at the drawing.

"I see you are interested in Miss Denton," she remarked.

Mark flushed.

"I don't see that it concerns you if I am," was his answer. The impudence of this girl! This girl whom his aunt had befriended, sheltered in her home, treated almost as a member of the family.

"Ah, but it does," she answered lightly. "But to get back to your Mister Sawyer. Wouldn't you like to hear what I have learned about him and his connection with this household?"

"Why should I be interested in your ideas? I know who Mr. Sawyer is. I know why he is in the house. It seems a bit presumptuous to me that you should concern yourself with things that can't possibly interest you."

If he had hoped to intimidate her by his manner, Mark admitted a moment later it was a flat failure when she laughed at him.

"I suppose next you'll be telling me that I'm fired—that my presence is no longer desired in this house," she jibed.

Then her voice turned harsh as she continued. "Let me tell you, Mark, that neither you nor anyone else can tell me when I'm going to leave this house, ever. I'm doing the telling from now on."

Cheney continued to stare at her, and with an exclamation of annoyance, she plunged on.

"Mrs. North told you, didn't she, the price I suggested that I might be willing to settle for?"

"How much do you want to clear out of here now and get out of our lives?" Mark demanded. "Name anything within reason and I'll see that you get it."

"Oh, so you've come off your high horse, have you? It's about time. You did talk with Mrs. North and she told you that I know the whole setup, didn't she? Well, have no doubt about it, I do know—and I won't hesitate to tell, unless I get what I want."

"All right, how much? Tell me and I'll write a check."

"I'll make you pay for this humiliation, Mark, I swear I will. You know very well what I suggested to your aunt and you're deliberately forcing me to humiliate myself and ask you right out. Well, if I must do it that way, I will. I want to be Mrs. Mark Cheney."

"But, that's such a little reward for all you know," he said, sarcastically. "Surely you wouldn't want to marry a man who in the last few minutes has come to loathe you?"

"I can take even that, if I must, but I don't really believe it. You could care for me if you tried. I would make you a good wife—a real wife. Much better than that—that girl you've been drawing."

"That will be enough of that," Mark said quietly. "Don't ever dare to mention Miss Denton's name or refer to her in any way to me in that tone of voice. I'll not stand it. If you must blackmail me into consenting to your proposal, you must at least respect my personal feelings."

"Then you will—you will marry me?" Lucia exclaimed eagerly.

"What other choice have I?"

"Well, I must say you might be more romantic about it. After all I'm not poison, you know. You can't blame me too much for taking advantage of a situation, just as thousands of other women have done to get the man they want."

"I'm sorry, but the romantic part of it is out. I don't love you, I never have given you a second thought in that way, and I never will. If you want to accept the so-called bargain on that basis, all right. That's the only way I can offer it."

"I'll make you love me," Lucia said enthusiastically. "You won't be able to help yourself."

"I imagine I'll be able to hold myself in restraint," Mark said dryly.

Lucia immediately plunged into plans for the wedding. She insisted that it must take place very soon.

"I have no family," she said, "so I'll announce my engagement myself to the newspapers. I'll have Winston take some pictures to the newspapers immediately."

"I'm sure he'll enjoy that," Mark said sarcastically. Winston was the butler who had been in Mrs. North's service for many years. His lips flickered in a slight smile as he thought of the dignified Winston taking orders from Lucia.

"Well, he'll do as I say or he won't stay here," the girl stated emphatically. "From now on, what I say around this place goes."

My Neighbor Says:

A newly-prepared hotbed, heated with manure, will rise to 90 degrees Fahrenheit, or even higher, within 48 hours after the manure is packed in. In about 12 hours the temperature will begin to go down again and not until then is it wise to sow seeds in the frame.

If you use ice cubes from a mechanical refrigerator, you can make the punch look gayer by coloring the cubes—tinting the water with vegetable dyes before starting to freeze it. Another trick is to add berries or small pieces of fruit to the water when it has partially frozen.

If the chicken is well-rubbed inside and out with a cut lemon before being cooked it will make the meat white, juicy and tender.

Clothes moths eat only animal fibers, such as wool, hair, fur, feathers and articles made from these materials. Therefore, these articles need protection when not in use. But moths do not attack cotton, linen, rayon, or other fabrics made from vegetable fibers, nor do they touch silks.

It Can Happen Here

By Elsie Robinson

THE little German chambermaid was crying. She tried to hide it with her quick, trained smile. But the soft lips quivered helplessly, tears splashed on the pile of fresh linen. Head down, she tried to hurry past me.

But why? We had been friends for weeks. A lonely youngster, in a strange country, she had told me many small secrets. Surely we could share grief, too. I urged, and saw terror rising in her eyes. Plainly, she longed to talk but dare not. After all, these Americans—one never knew! Then, suddenly, the pain grew too great to be borne alone; the story came tumbling out.

She had just heard. The news had come in the long round-about way by which forbidden news must come from Germany today. Two months before, her older brother and his bride—both brilliant in their professions — had disappeared, taken suddenly at night by the dreaded Troopers after the complete wreckage of their Berlin apartment.

But were they criminals? Traitors? No! No! They were good Germans . . . loyal . . . but they had dared to break the rule that must not ever be broken. They had dared to listen, secretly, to foreign broadcasts, broadcasts that told about the other side of the war, challenging the facts as Berliners knew them. Deeply upset, the young couple had brought a few friends to listen, too . . . had talked together in bewildered whispers, night after night. Until one night there came a great pounding and crashing and there stood the Troopers. Where were they now? One could only guess. In some concentration camp, herded like beasts. And Frieda had been about to have a baby.

In a concentration camp because they dared to listen to the other side of the story! Yes, it's true. Such is the German law. If you dismiss it as being merely another Nazi atrocity, you're making a horrible mistake. For what has happened in Germany can happen here.

There are those who would limit America's reading, as Berlin limits Germany's listening, who would gag the press as Hitler has gagged the air. They might not seem as obvious or drastic about it. The penalties might not be as harsh. But in the long run, they'd be as tragic. For a people denied the truth and the basic right of free discussion perish as surely as though they rotted in concentration camps. And a Yankee effort to curb free thought and expression is exactly as deadly as a Nazi one.

"But it couldn't be done in America!" you say.

Don't fool yourself; There's no abomination which can't be committed in the U. S. A. just as thoroughly as elsewhere, provided bigotry and tyranny once get the upper hand. All it needs is something we Americans already have plenty of—stupid, good-natured asinine belief; that exhilarating and asinine belife that "nobody can put anything over on us."

The simple truth is that American thought can be hog-tied as completely as Berlin has hog-tied Germany's. And by exactly the same methods. The Germans didn't agree to be hog-tied. . . . nor did they expect it . . . nor even recognize it when it happened. They thought as freely as other men—once. But little by little, restrictions were put on that thought—"emergency orders" . . . "considerations of policy" . . . "Temporary sacrifices for the Fatherland." So today Germans listen only to what Hitler, Himmler, Goering and Goebbels permit. Today, in some concentration camp, Germany's free thought huddles in suppression, its tongue torn out.

We are in for a great fight to protect our liberty. But liberty will be a mockery and democracy a myth unless we can preserve the right to think and listen, read, talk and write as free men.

Orange Rolls

One-half cup orange juice, four tablespoons butter, one-fourth teaspoon grated orange rind, one-half cup water, one tablespoon lemon juice.

Boil ingredients a minute. Cool, then pour into eight greased muffin pans—or you can use one large shallow pan, pouring in all the liquid. Add the rolls:

Two cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one tablespoon granulated sugar, one teaspoon grated lemon rind, one-third teaspoon salt, five tablespoons fat, two-thirds cup milk, two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons dark brown sugar, one-half teaspoon cinnamon.

Mix flour, baking powder, sugar, rind and salt. Cut in fat and slowly add milk. When soft dough forms, pat it out until one-third inch thick. Spread with rest of ingredients. Roll up and cut off inch slices. Arrange, cut sides down in pans. Bake 20 minutes in moderately hot oven—about 375 degrees. Serve warm.

"Tripl-ife ends menace"
"The Williamson Heater Company:—
Our Williamson Tripl-ife furnace has not only proved to be less expensive to operate but has eliminated a great menace to health—drafts—thus banishing many severe colds. We heartily endorse this well-built furnace that is economical in its consumption of fuel as well as attractive from a basement standpoint."

WILLIAMSON TRIPL-IFE FURNACE

How It Started

By Jean Newton

"America"—It Was Written by a College Boy!

Most of us are unaware, when we sing the familiar strains of "America," that its dignified, beautiful lines were the composition of a college student. It was while their author, Samuel Francis Smith, was attending Andover Teological Seminary (having previously studied at Harvard, class of 1829), that he wrote the words of this famous patriotic hymn.

According to Smith's own account, he was asked to write a song for the July 4, 1832, celebration in the Park Street Church at Boston.

Looking through a quantity of German song books for appropriate music, he came upon a tune which pleased him—God Save the King—for which he created the lines beginning My Country 'Tis of Thee—not learning till much later that the air was that of the British national anthem.

Dr. Smith was an eloquent Baptist pastor, a linguist, and author of historical, biographical and religious works and poems; but it is for his song, "America" particularly that his name sparkles through the mists of the past.

It was of him that Oliver Wendell Holmes said in his poem entitled "The Boys":

"And there's a nice fellow of excellent pith—
Fate tried to conceal him by naming him Smith,
But he shouted a song for the brave and the free—
Just read on his medal, 'My country, 'tis of thee.'"

Espionage.

A noun. The act of spying. Although ESPIONAGE comes to us from the French, all dictionaries consulted prefer the Anglicized form as first choice. The French form is second choice, and the accent on the second or -PI- syllable is not shown by most authorities.

First choice:
ESS-pee-oh-nidge
Second choice:
ess-pee-oh-NAHZH Third choice:
ess-PY-oh-nidge

From Erie: How should I describe my waking up? R. H.

Answer: One may properly say: I woke; I woke up; I waked; I waked up; I awoke; I awaked; I wakened; I awakened.

From Akron: Please tell us how Mayor LaGuardia of New York pronounces his name.

Answer: The Mayor prefers the Italian form:

Fiorello: FEE-oh-RELL-oh
LaGuardia: lah GWAHR-dee-ah

It is said, however, that he will not quarrel with you if you Anglicize the name and give it the pronunciation often heard, as luh GAHRD-ee-uh. (Fiorello means, literally, "little flower.")

(Capitals indicate syllables to be accented.)

Are you sure about WAS and WERE? Should one say "If I WAS you," or "If I WERE you"? My free, non-technical pamphlet will give you a simple key to the correct use of these bothersome words. Send a stamped (3c), self-addressed-envelope to Frank Colby, in care of this paper. Ask for "WAS-WERE Pamphlet."

TWO PATROL CARS OVERTURNED IN CLASHES ALONG LINE OF PICKETS

Crowd Seizes Bombs, Turning Them on Officers, 3 of Whom Are Hurt — Parleys Under Way — Firm Has Billion in Defense Work.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., March 25 (AP).—A crowd of shouting strikers seized two police patrol cars and threw tear gas bombs at retreating policemen today as the CIO Steel Workers' Organizing Committee began a mass picketing effort to close down the Bethlehem Steel Co. plant.

Seven policemen arrived at a gate soon after 2 o'clock and began to break up a line of 1000 pickets waiting for the change of shift at 3 o'clock.

Turmoil followed. The police began tossing tear gas bombs into the crowd. Strikers charged at the two patrol cars, overturned them and grabbed up the store of gas bombs remaining. As the policemen moved away, a shower of bombs followed them.

Second Use of Tear Gas.

It was the second use of tear gas and one of a series of outbreaks throughout the day—a situation which led to a call for help to the Pennsylvania State police, who still had taken no active part late today.

A conference between a Federal conciliator, leaders of the Employes Representation Plan and SWOC officials continued most of the afternoon and there was no announcement.

Three city policemen were injured in the outbreak. Two were suffering from tear-gas burns and one had been hit in the stomach by a rock.

At another gate, a man who said he had come from Bordentown, N. J., to get a job as a plant guard was pummeled.

Governor Surveys Situation.

Gov. Arthur H. James dispatched Commissioner Lynn G. Adams, State police head from Harrisburg, to survey conditions. Sheriff W. Calvin Nickle had telegraphed the Governor:

"I will be unable to control situation with men at my disposal."

In his office at Easton, Sheriff
